Preface

Tiếng Anh 11 Bright is a textbook based on the 2018 English curriculum of the Ministry of Education and Training. The book is specially designed to enable students to develop the necessary skills for their future education at college or university and skills they need for the 21st century.

Tiếng Anh 11 Bright consists of eight units. Each unit contains Vocabulary, Grammar, Pronunciation, Reading, Listening, Speaking (Everyday English) and Writing sections, along with Culture Spot, Values, Vocabulary Expansion, Grammar Reference and Grammar Expansion sections. All Reading texts are accompanied by theme-related videos. Grammar features language presented in context with engaging practice activities. In addition, Think! exercises aim to develop students' critical thinking skills. Study Skills sections help students become autonomous learners while ICT tasks aim to develop students' searching skills on the Internet. There are also a variety of tasks that promote collaboration and creativity. For every two units, there are Culture Corner, CLIL and Progress Check sections. For every four units, there is a Review section.

We wish to thank the Board of Review from the Ministry of Education and Training for reviewing Tiếng Anh 11 Bright and providing valuable insights into how to bring the book to perfection.

THE TEEN LIFE

Can We Close The Gap?

Melinda, 15.10

Today, I want to talk about difficult relationships between teenagers and parents. As a teenager, I feel like my parents often don't understand me. Parents are often strict and set hard rules. Of course, there are parents and adults who feel many young people are selfish and don't listen. Because of this, there are a lot of arguments. What do you think of this so-called generation gap? Please leave me a comment ...

Jim, 15.10

My parents are so old-fashioned that I feel like we are from completely different planets! They don't understand anything about technology; it's almost like they are afraid of it. My mum is worried about me when I go out. She doesn't like my friends. She is always complaining about my clothes. She just doesn't understand the latest fashion trends. My dad complains about why I am not studying more. It makes me so mad! Parents need to be more understanding and listen to what their kids are saying. It's that simple.

Mike, 15.10

I completely agree with you, Melinda, but the way I see it, many young people these days just don't listen and are not very reliable. The Internet makes them feel they know everything and therefore they behave in a difficult way. Many parents feel powerless. I think both teens and parents have to find the time in their busy lives to talk and have fun together. My daughter and I try to do at least one activity a week together. We go skating or biking and afterwards we have a good chat.

True/False statements

Read the statements and underline the key words. Try to find similar words/phrases in the text. For a statement to be true, every part must be true.

• relationship • selfish • argument
• trend • reliable • powerless

p. 100

Read the text and decide if each of the statements (1-5) is T (true) or F (false).

- 1 Melinda thinks many parents are fairly easy-going. _____
- 2 Jim's mum doesn't agree on what he wears. _____
- 3 Jim's dad doesn't think he studies hard enough. _____
- 4 Mike thinks teenagers can be difficult because of the Internet. _____
- 5 Mike doesn't often see his daughter. _____

Read the text again and answer the questions.

- 1 How does Melinda think parents feel about teenagers?
- 2 What is Jim's opinion on how to solve the generation gap?
- 3 What does Mike think is a possible solution to the generation gap?

Vocabulary

Common family complaints

- 4  1.14 Fill in each gap with have, give, break, nag, listen, help, set or like. Then listen and check.

Parents about teens

- A _____ strange manners
 B don't _____ around the house
 C don't _____ to advice
 D often _____ the rules

Teens about parents

- E _____ about chores/studies
 F don't _____ enough pocket money
 G _____ hard rules
 H don't _____ their friends

- 5  Read the statements (1–8). Which of the complaints (A–H) in Exercise 4 does each statement match?

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 | "My daughter doesn't help with the chores." |
| 2 | "My parents never let me stay out late." |
| 3 | "Mikey never says hello when friends visit." |
| 4 | "Dad is always telling me to clean my room." |
| 5 | "My parents give me little money to go out." |
| 6 | "My son thinks he knows everything." |
| 7 | "I often catch Ann using her mobile after 10 p.m." |
| 8 | "My parents don't want me to hang out with my friend, Julie." |

- 6  What about parents and teens you know? Which of the complaints in Exercise 4 have they got?

- 7  Write five sentences about your parents. Think about how they behave towards you, how you feel and what common complaints they have got.

VALUE FAMILY

Which of these do you agree with?
 Can you think of more reasons?

I value my family because they ...

- 1 help me when I have problems.
- 2 teach me what is right and wrong.
- 3 spend time with me and we have fun together.

CULTURE SPOT

Family is one of the core values of the Vietnamese culture. The young show respect for elder family members and ancestors. Children are taught to respect their elders' wishes, take care of them and help the family in all ways.

Do you think family members in other countries behave the same way?

Grammar

Present Simple & Present Continuous

- 1  Identify the tenses of the verbs in bold in the sentences (1–7). Then match them to their uses (a–g).

- 1 ☐ My mother is preparing lunch now.
- 2 ☐ Every Sunday, my dad and I go for a walk in the park near my house.
- 3 ☐ My parents are always telling me what to do!
- 4 ☐ Tonight, I am meeting my cousins at a restaurant.
- 5 ☐ Jean lives in a two-bedroom flat with her parents.
- 6 ☐ Carl is staying with his grandad these days to take care of him.
- 7 ☐ The family TV comedy begins at 8 p.m. every day on Channel 9.

- a a routine/habit
- b a permanent state
- c an action happening now, at the moment of speaking
- d a fixed arrangement in the near future
- e a complaint
- f a schedule
- g a temporary situation

 pp. 111–112

- 2  Put the verbs in brackets into the Present Simple or the Present Continuous.

- 1 My cousins _____ (eat) dinner at my house once a week.
- 2 Jackie's uncle _____ (work) at a bank in London.
- 3 Mike _____ (not/help) his mother with the shopping now.

- 6 A: What time _____ (we/meet) Mum and Dad at the theatre tonight?
B: The show _____ (start) at 8:00, so around 7:30.

Stative verbs

- Stative verbs are verbs that describe a state rather than an action and don't usually have continuous forms.
Joe wants to talk to his parents.
(NOT: Joe ~~is wanting~~ to talk to his parents.)
- Dynamic verbs are verbs that describe an action rather than a state and can be used in the continuous forms.
Joe is talking to his parents.
- Some verbs (think, see, taste, etc.) can be used both as stative and dynamic verbs, but with a difference in meaning.
Joe thinks talking to his parents does him good. (= believes)
Joe is thinking of talking to his parents about his problems. (= is considering)

 pp. 112–113

- 3   Put the verbs (1–3) into the Present Simple or the Present Continuous. Discuss with your partner how the meaning differs.

- 1 see
 - a I _____ my friends tonight.
 - b I _____ that you are having problems with your parents.
- 2 smell
 - a Christa _____ the flower.
 - b Something _____ delicious; what is mum cooking?
- 3 look
 - a Mary _____ sad about her argument with her parents.

- 2 A: Nancy _____ (seem) nervous.
B: Oh, that's because she _____ (appear) in the school play.

- 3 A: Mum, _____ (you/hear) that noise?
B: It's Sam and Dad. They _____ (fit) a new bookshelf in Sam's room.
- 4 A: _____ (you/own) this car?
B: No. It _____ (belong) to my dad.

 Act out dialogues about what you usually do with your parents at weekends and what you are doing with them this weekend as in the example.

- A: What do you usually do with your parents at weekends?
B: I usually watch films with them in the evening.
A: What are you doing with them this weekend?
B: We are having lunch at my grandparents' house on Saturday; and we are going to the theatre on Sunday.

Linking verbs

- Linking verbs are verbs that link the subject to the complement and describe the subject.

Subject	Linking verb	Complement
My mum	is	strict.

- The complement is usually an adjective (not adverb) or a noun.
Uncle Steve looks worried. (adjective)
My dad is a chef. (noun)
- Some common linking verbs are be, seem, become, get, remain, stay, look, taste, smell, sound, feel, etc.
- Some stative verbs are also linking verbs.
Joe's parents seem angry. (seem as a stative verb and linking verb)

Choose the correct option. Give a reason for your choice.

- 1 This soup tastes terrible/terribly. We should make a new one for the party.
- 2 My brother is an excellent actor. He appears frequent/frequently in lots of plays.
- 3 Laura is really excited/excitedly about becoming a big sister.
- 4 Susan feels happily/happy after spending time with her dad at the weekend.
- 5 What's going on, Dad? Why is Mum looking at you so angry/angrily?
- 6 You will look beautiful/beautifully if you put on that dress. Trust me.

Complete the sentences with the verbs in the list in the Present Simple. Use each verb only ONCE.

• become • get • smell • stay • be • sound

- 1 My sister is a model. That's why she goes jogging every morning to _____ fit.
- 2 Who is Jane talking to on the phone? She _____ so annoyed.
- 3 I'm the youngest in my family. That's why my parents _____ quite relaxed about things with me.
- 4 Vi's parents expect her to _____ a doctor one day.
- 5 You should drink your coffee before it _____ cold.
- 6 The food you're cooking _____ really good.

Make sentences about you, your family or your friends using these linking verbs and your own ideas.

• feel • look • sound • smell • seem
• remain • appear • become • get • stay

My friend James often feels nervous when he is in front of the class.

1c Listening

Multiple matching

- Read the two columns.
- When each speaker talks, listen for key words and phrases that describe the choices in the second column.

- 1 1.15 Listen and match the people (1–4) to their personalities (a–e). How does each person describe themselves? There is one extra personality.

People

Writing

An informal letter describing a problem

1 a) Read the letter. What is it about?

Hi Miranda,

A How are things? Hope you are doing well. Everything is great at school except I'm having problems with my parents at home. I really need some advice.

B Most of the time we get along really well and I enjoy spending time with them. The problem is when I want to go out with my friends. My parents are very strict and set hard rules. They want me to return home very early. Sometimes, I can't go out at all! I don't think they like my friends.

C I'm so sad! I always help around the house and I never break the rules. It really hurts my feelings that they don't trust me when I'm so responsible. They don't understand how important my friends are to me.

D What do you think I should do? Sorry to be so down. Can't wait to hear from you.

Write back soon.

Melissa

b) Read the letter again and match the paragraphs (A–D) to the descriptions (1–4).

- | | | |
|---|--------------------------|--|
| 1 | ☐ | closing remarks |
| 2 | ☐ | opening remarks and reason for writing |
| 3 | ☐ | description of the problem |
| 4 | ☐ | reasons why it bothers Melissa |

When writing friendly letters, we use informal style.

- everyday vocabulary and omission of pronouns, e.g. Hope to hear from you soon.
- colloquial expressions and idioms, e.g. I owe you one.
- informal phrasal verbs, e.g. I get on well with most of my classmates.
- short verb forms, e.g. I'm, I can't, I don't.

2 Read the letter again and find examples of informal style in Exercise 1.

3 Replace the words/phrases in bold in the letter below with the ones in the list.

- let me know • I'm sorry • get together
- So happy to hear from you
- chat • I'm busy as a bee

Dear Melissa,

1) I am very pleased to receive your letter!

2) I apologise for the late reply. 3) have a lot of work these days. I'm sad to hear you are having problems with your parents. My advice is to 4) make an appointment with them and have a 5) serious discussion about how you feel and try to agree on some time to see your friends. Please 6) inform me of what happens.

Take care.

Miranda

Your turn

4 PLANNING Imagine you have a problem with your parents or family members. Answer the questions.

- 1 What is the problem?
- 2 Why does it bother you?
- 3 How do you feel about it?

5 WRITING Write a letter to your English friend about the problem.

- Use Melissa's letter as a model.
- Use your answers in Exercise 4.
- Use informal language.
- Use the plan below.

Plan

Hi + (your friend's first name),

(Paragraph 1) writing the opening remarks and reason for writing

(Paragraph 2) describing your problem

(Paragraph 3) explaining why it bothers you

(Paragraph 4) writing how you feel

(closing remarks)

(your first name)

6 CHECK/CORRECT Check your letter for spelling/grammar mistakes. Then, in pairs, swap your letters and check each other's work.

Hanoi A Cultural Explosion!

By Kyle McMullan

Hello fellow travellers! I just got back from a culture-packed day tour of Hanoi. City Break was our tour company and showed us so much of what Hanoi has to offer. Our first stop was one of the most popular tourist attractions in Hanoi, the Temple of Literature, which was Vietnam's first national university. King Lý Thánh Tông had the temple complex built in 1070 CE. I really enjoyed walking around the traditional Vietnamese architecture, beautiful gardens and lakes. The site shows how important learning and wisdom are in Vietnamese culture. The whole temple complex was a great history lesson!

Next, our guide, Trung, took us to Hanoi Botanical Garden for an escape from the crowded city. We enjoyed a picnic near a beautiful lake in the garden. The next stop was the One Pillar Pagoda for lots of pictures. Located in the middle of a peaceful pond, this traditional temple was so beautiful. Trung explained that this pagoda is a symbol of Hanoi and a place of worship. Pagodas are popular in Vietnam as they are usually important temples of worship.

Our final stop on the tour was the Old Quarter, a busy shopping area. We walked around the shops that sell handmade items at great prices. After shopping, Trung introduced us to the delicious flavours of Vietnamese street food as we tasted unusual dishes from the street stalls. This was definitely my favourite part. Make sure to go with an empty stomach, though! It was a great day and I highly recommend touring Hanoi with City Break!

Describing a visit

- 3 a) 1.28 Listen and read the dialogue. Where did Chloe go?

Martin: Hi, Chloe. You're back. How was your trip to Singapore?
 Chloe: Great, Martin! You can't imagine what an amazing time I had.
 Martin: Really? What did you do?
 Chloe: Well, on the first day, we went to the famous Orchard Road.
 Martin: Oh. What was it like?
 Chloe: It was amazing! We went shopping in the modern shops and then tried some local dishes at a traditional restaurant.
 Martin: Sounds fun. Did you go to the Gardens by the Bay?
 Chloe: Yes! Do you want to see some pictures?
 Martin: Sure!

- b) Think Which of the underlined sentences are describing a visit? asking for more information? Think of more similar sentences.

- 4 Act out a dialogue similar to the one in Exercise 3a. Use the diagram below. Mind your intonation and rhythm.

Pronunciation

Sentence stress and rhythm

In a sentence, words that carry important information are usually stressed. The combination of stress (word stress and sentence stress) and intonation create the rhythm in a sentence.

The trip to Thailand was amazing.

- 5 1.29 Listen and mark the stressed words. Listen again and repeat. Practise saying them.
- 1 It was a great idea to explore the museum.
 - 2 I didn't want to tour the palace.

A letter describing a visit

- 1  Read the letter and put the paragraphs in the correct order.

Dear Stacy,

A Our visit to Hội An was so wonderful that we did not want to leave. It was like we travelled back in time. Stacy, you have to go there when you visit Vietnam. I can show you my pictures when I return!

B The next morning, we went to a sandy beach near the city and had a relaxing swim. In the afternoon, we visited a picturesque village called Trà Quế, where we took a cooking class and learned how to make some local dishes.

C We first walked around the charming streets of the old town. We looked around the traditional shops and stopped for lunch at an outdoor restaurant. We also visited an important historical building called the Phùng Hưng Old House, which dates back to the 18th century.

D Greetings from Vietnam! At the weekend, Paul and I went to one of the oldest cities in Vietnam called Hội An. It was incredible!

Best wishes,
Jasmine

- 2  Read the letter again. Which paragraph (A-D) contains ...

- feelings/recommendation? _____
- things to see? _____
- things to do? _____
- the name/location of a place? _____

Descriptive language

When you describe a place, use a variety of adjectives to make the description more interesting to the reader.

- 3  Find the adjectives in the letter that Jasmine used to describe the streets, the building, the restaurant, the village, the shops and the beach.

- 4  Replace the adjectives in the sentences using well-known, beautiful, busy, delicious and high.

ETIQUETTE TIPS in Vietnam

Are you thinking about taking a trip to Vietnam? Before you go, it's a good idea to learn about some social behaviour when you meet with the local people. Take a look at these important tips.

A

Vietnamese people are very polite and enjoy meeting new people. When you greet a Vietnamese person, you can use a handshake or bow your head slightly or just smile. Learning to say xin chào (hello) or cảm ơn (thank you) in Vietnamese is a good start.

B

When you visit a family, bring a gift like a cake, fruit or flowers, but never bring anything in the colour black. When you enter the house, take off your shoes and leave them outside the door. Make sure to greet the older members of the family first. Wait for the family to show you where to sit because the elderly usually sit first. It is rude to refuse food or drinks, so accept it to show your politeness.

C

Mealtime is very important in Vietnamese culture. Most meals are shared in the middle of the table with a rice bowl and chopsticks for each person. Pass dishes around the table with your right hand or both hands. In Vietnam, it is common to wait for the oldest person to eat first to show your respect.

• etiquette • social • handshake
• bow • chopsticks

Dealing with PROBLEMS

• blame • annoyed • accept • confused
• disappointed • anxious

p. 101

Problems are a part of life. Arguments can happen with friends and family over a variety of issues. What is important, though, is how you deal with problems.

Arguments with friends can make you feel bad or even angry. It is important to explain your feelings without blaming the other person. Share how you feel by using "I" sentences. For example, don't say "You are always telling me what to do," but "I feel annoyed when you don't listen to me." To solve a problem, you must also listen to how the other person feels and accept that he or she may see a problem differently. Showing your understanding of the other person makes them want to solve the problem. In the end, what is important is to find a solution and become friends again.

Families can also have their own problems. The generation gap can cause parents and children to see things differently, making both feel confused or disappointed. Remember parents and older family members have years of life experience and want the best for you, so listen to what they say. When you have a problem, try to set a time to sit down and talk quietly. Breathe and count to ten if you start to feel angry or anxious. Be prepared not to get exactly what you want but to find a solution that everyone can agree on. Through caring and communication, we value our families and can solve any problems.

Adjectives of feelings & emotions

To describe how someone feels, you can use adjectives such as upset, shy, angry, disappointed, bad, bored, etc.

- 2 Read the text again and decide if each of the statements (1–5) is T (true) or F (false).

- 1 The language we use is very important when solving problems. _____
- 2 It is important to tell the other person what they are doing wrong. _____
- 3 The generation gap doesn't affect family arguments. _____
- 4 You must immediately discuss a problem. _____
- 5 Taking a small break can help calm you down. _____

Come Visit the BATU Caves of Malaysia!

Get ready to enjoy this magical place right in the heart of Malaysia. These incredible limestone caves are inside a massive hill and are the home of many Hindu temples that honour the Hindu god Lord Murugan. The Malay word batu means 'rock' and this is one huge rock! Be prepared to climb up 272 colourful steps to the top cave temple. It is like walking on a giant rainbow!

The History of the Caves

The series of caves are about 400 million years old. Local tribes once used them as shelters. In 1890, a leader of the Indian community created a temple to Lord Murugan within the caves. Today, there are many temples with statues of Hindu gods.

Meet the Monkeys!

On the way up, you may meet some new animal friends. The Batu Cave monkeys are everywhere and cheeky, and perhaps grab a snack from a friendly tourist.

The Temples

With 140 feet, the statue of the Hindu god Lord Murugan guards the entrance of the caves. Wrapped in gold with his mighty spear, the statue is quite a site! Inside the caves, there are various temples that honour Hindu gods. There is even a museum and art gallery cave full of Hindu paintings and statues. Visitors can explore the peaceful and beautifully lit caves of this magical underground world for hours.

Visitor Tips

If you plan to spend a few hours at this tourist site, don't forget plenty of sunscreen and comfortable walking shoes. Food and water are available outside the cave entrance.

- 1 The caves are on top of a very high hill. _____
- 2 In the past, the caves were homes for people. _____
- 3 The Batu Cave monkeys want food from visitors. _____
- 4 All the temples are for the god Lord Murugan. _____

RUNNING OUT OF TIME...

From melting arctic ice caps to forest fires, global warming is heating up the planet and damaging the Earth's ecosystems. Global warming is the rise of the Earth's temperatures caused by an increase of CO₂ and other greenhouse gas emissions. Global warming has increased very much in the past 100 years because people are using more and more electricity and driving more cars. We are also cutting down more trees that clean the air.

Scientists have been studying the effects of global warming on different ecosystems for a long time and what they have found is quite worrying. The rising temperatures have caused many problems in ecosystems. Arctic ice is melting, causing sea levels to rise and floods in seaside areas. As a result, animals and plants are losing their homes. As oceans and rivers become warmer, the water temperatures keep changing. Some marine animals cannot live in these new conditions. Since the 1970s, populations of fish in lakes and rivers have decreased by 76 percent.

Global warming is also causing extreme weather events. Other ecosystems, like deserts and grasslands, are experiencing terrible droughts and certain wildlife and plant species that depend on water are dying. Due to the high temperatures, wildfires are destroying whole ecosystems such as forests. There has been a serious rise in endangered species in recent years that could result in many animals becoming extinct. The loss of plants and animals causes problems for all living things in an ecosystem. We need to take action to stop global warming and save the Earth's ecosystems before it's too late.

Sentence completion

- Read the sentences and underline the key words.
- Scan the text for the missing information and underline the parts related to the sentences.

- 2 Read the text. Complete each sentence with NO MORE THAN THREE WORDS.

- 1 People are driving more and using more electricity in the _____.

- 6  Write five sentences about the effects of global warming on the world's ecosystems.

VALUE OUR ECOSYSTEMS

Which of these do you agree with?
Can you think of more reasons?

Healthy ecosystems benefit us because ...

- 1 they provide us with food.
- 2 they help to clean our air.
- 3 they contain valuable plants and animals.
- 4 they provide us with clean water.

CULTURE SPOT

The VACB (vườn-ao-chuồng-biogas) model is a Vietnamese farming practice in which farmers grow crops, produce fish, raise farm animals and use biogas plants. These aspects work together to create a production cycle with almost no waste, helping to reduce the effects of environmental issues like global warming.

Do you know any other countries where people use a similar method?

Present Perfect

- A what Janie and Neil learned during science class
- B the ways that environmental groups raise money
- C the importance of protecting the environment
- D which environmental group to join

2 Listen to the dialogue and decide if each of the statements (1–4) is T (true) or F (false)

Multiple choice

3 You are going to listen to a lecture about ecosystems. Read the questions and answer choices. Which of the answer choices do you think will be the right ones?

- 1 What is Dr Cord's research about?
 - A how scientists study the damage to ecosystems
 - B how to repair the damage to ecosystems

- C the effects of human activities on ecosystems
- D how ecosystems are homes for life on Earth

2 Which activity does Dr Cord think is an easy solution to the environmental problems?

- A planting more trees in the forests
- B cleaning up plastic in the oceans
- C building more farmlands
- D repairing ponds and rivers

3 What does Dr Cord believe is the best way to protect ecosystems?

- A a clean-up project
- B a global effort
- C a change in individual habits
- D a farmland protection plan

4 Now listen to the lecture. For questions (1–3), choose the best answer (A, B, C or D).

FUN Time

Look at the picture. Circle the correct phrasal verb.

Dad: Jim, what are you doing?

Son: We have put off / put on doing something about global warming for too long. This should help.

• put on: to turn on/switch on
• put off: to delay

Vocabulary

Ways to reduce carbon footprint

- 1 a)  Fill in each gap with recycle, eat, drink, use, shop, get, drive or take.

How big is your carbon footprint?

Your carbon footprint is the amount of carbon dioxide (CO₂) you create. It's important to be aware of your carbon footprint because CO₂ is mainly responsible for global warming. How big is your carbon footprint? Take this test by circling 'Yes' or 'No'.

Do you ...

- 1) _____ organic food? Yes / No
- 2) _____ your rubbish? Yes / No
- 3) _____ rid of your food waste? Yes / No
- 4) _____ fewer flights every year? Yes / No
- 5) _____ from reusable cups? Yes / No
- 6) _____ with a cloth bag? Yes / No
- 7) _____ an electric car? Yes / No
- 8) _____ energy-efficient devices? Yes / No

So how many times did you answer 'Yes'?

- 1-3 You need to make some changes to the way you live your life.
 4-6 You care about the environment but the planet needs more help.
 7-8 You really care about the planet and want to leave it in good condition.

- b)  1.41 Listen and check. Then do the test.

- c)  How big is your carbon footprint? Tell your partner.

Everyday English

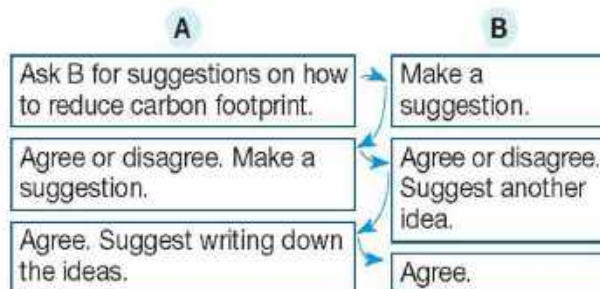

Making suggestions

- 2 a)  1.42  Listen and read the dialogue. What are Melanie's and Sam's suggestions about reducing their carbon footprints?

- Melanie: Sam, we have to come up with ideas on how we can reduce our carbon footprint for our science project. What do you suggest we do?
 Sam: We should definitely recycle all of our rubbish.
 Melanie: OK. We could also eat only organic food from now on.
 Sam: I'm not sure about that. Organic food is expensive. Perhaps we could stop using plastic bottles and bags.
 Melanie: I suppose you're right. Shall we write down our ideas for the project?
 Sam: Yes, of course.

- b)  Think Which of the underlined phrases/sentences are used for making suggestions? agreeing? disagreeing? Think of more similar phrases/sentences.

- 3  You are thinking of possible ways to reduce your carbon footprint. Act out a dialogue similar to the one in Exercise 2a. Use the diagram below. Mind the intonation and rhythm.

Pronunciation Intonation in sentences expressing suggestions

 In sentences expressing suggestions, we usually use a falling intonation at the end of the sentences.
 What about eating organic food?

- 4  1.43 Listen and mark the correct pronunciation. Then listen and repeat. Practise saying them.
- 1 How about recycling our rubbish?
 - 2 Why don't we stop using plastic bags?
 - 3 Perhaps we could stop using plastic bottles.

An essay making suggestions

- 1 a)  Read the essay. What is it about?

How to protect our ecosystems

A Global warming and deforestation are destroying our valuable ecosystems and harming the animals and plants that live in them. There are many things we can do to stop these problems and protect the Earth's ecosystems.

B Firstly, we must try to use only energy-saving products. For example, we should use electric cars and everyday products like refrigerators and televisions that are energy-saving. These products don't use a lot of electricity that produces greenhouse gases. In this way, we reduce greenhouse gas emissions that harm ecosystems.

C Another way to protect our ecosystems is to plant trees. The more trees we have, the more we can cut down on the CO₂ already in the air. By doing this, we reduce global warming and its harmful effects on the environment.

D In conclusion, we can help protect our ecosystems by taking many important actions such as using energy-saving products and planting trees. Our actions can make a difference and make our planet a better place to live.

- b)  Read the essay again. Which paragraph in the essay ...

- 1 contains the writer's first suggestion and expected result? _____
- 2 summarises the main points? _____
- 3 states the topic? _____
- 4 contains the writer's second suggestion and expected result? _____

Essay structure

An essay has three main parts: introduction, main body and conclusion.

The body paragraphs usually begin with a topic sentence which clearly states the main idea. This is followed by supporting sentences which explain the main idea and provide results.

- c) What are the introduction, main body, and conclusion in the essay?

- d) What are the topic and supporting sentences in the body paragraphs?

- 2  Match the suggestions (1–2) to the expected results (a–b). Then form topic and supporting sentences as in the example.

Reducing our carbon footprint

Suggestions

- 1 ☐ take a bus instead of a car
- 2 ☐ use reusable shopping bags

Expected results

- a reduce the use of plastic
- b produce less greenhouse gases per person

Firstly, we must try to use more public transport. One useful suggestion is to encourage people to ... In this way, we ...

Your turn

- 3 PLANNING You are going to write an essay making suggestions about how to reduce our carbon footprint to protect our ecosystems. Answer the questions.

- 1 What are you going to write?
- 2 What solutions can you suggest?
- 3 What will the expected results be?

- 4 WRITING Write your essay (about 150–180 words).

- Use the essay in Exercise 1 as a model.
- Use the ideas in Exercise 2 and your answers in Exercise 3.
- Use the plan below.

Plan

Introduction

(Paragraph 1) stating the topic

Main body

(Paragraph 2) writing your first suggestion and expected result(s)

(Paragraph 3) writing your second suggestion and expected result(s)

Conclusion

(Paragraph 4) summarising the main points

- 5 CHECK/CORRECT Check your essay for spelling/grammar mistakes. Then, in pairs, swap your essays and check each other's work.

Reading

- 1 Read the title and look at the picture. What is special about this place? Read the text to find out.

Located on an island just north of Bangkok, Thailand, is the ancient site of Ayutthaya, once one of the greatest cities of the world. From the 14th to 18th century, Ayutthaya developed into a busy city and became a centre for both trade and government. The city, which was the capital of Thailand, grew to be one of the largest cities in the world at the time with over one million people.

1 Soon after, Bangkok became the new capital city. Today, the ancient ruins of the city are a UNESCO World Heritage Site because the city was an important part in the development of Thai history and culture. Many people say it is the birthplace of true national Thai art.

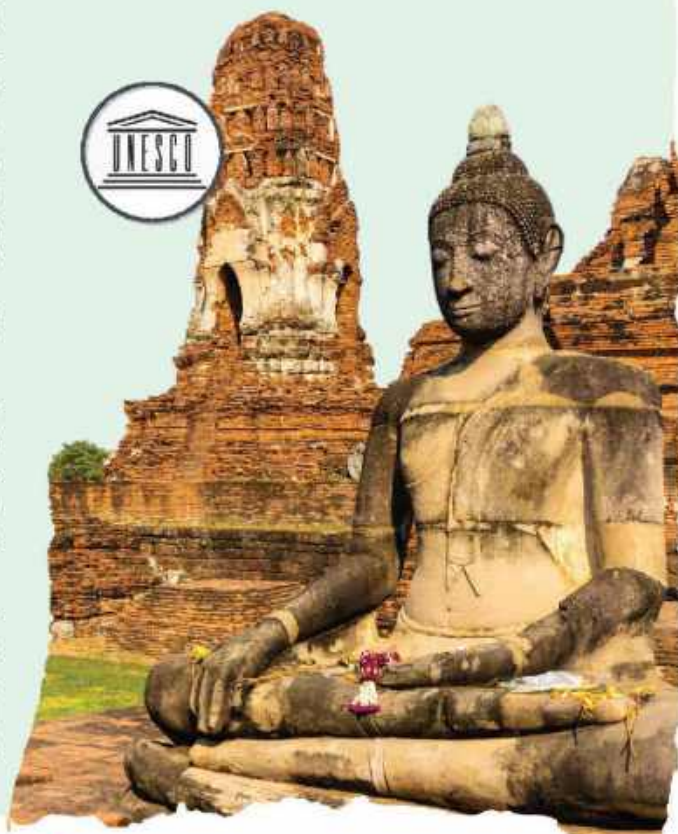

2 All gives an idea of how rich and modern the city once was.

Visitors to the site can walk around the ruins that have over 400 temples and towers to explore. Each is an incredible example of Thai architecture of that time. They can also admire many giant statues of Buddha around the city as well as the paintings inside the temples and buildings.

3 Archaeologists work to repair and protect the buildings and monuments in the park. Ayutthaya is one of the six UNESCO World Heritage Sites in Thailand. People all around the world value its historical and cultural importance and try to protect it for future generations to enjoy.

VALUE OUR WORLD HERITAGE SITES

Do you agree with the following statements? Why/Why not?

Preserving World Heritage Sites ...

- 1 teaches us about the history of places in the world.
- 2 encourages tourism and cultural understanding.
- 3 wastes a lot of money and time.

CULTURE SPOT

Mý Sơn Sanctuary is a collection of unique monuments and tower temples in central Vietnam. It dates back between the 4th and 13th centuries and was the religious and cultural centre of the Champa civilisation. Today, it represents an important part of the history of South East Asia and is a World Heritage Site.

Do you know any World Heritage Sites in other countries?

Paired conjunctions

- Paired conjunctions are words that always go together. They are used to connect words, phrases or independent clauses in a sentence.
- Some common paired conjunctions are both ... and, not only ... but also, either ... or, neither ... nor.
- We use parallel words/phrases with paired conjunctions.

The Moai Statues are both ancient and valuable. (ancient, valuable: adjectives)

You can either go to see the statue or go shopping in the market. (go to see the statue, go shopping in the market: verb phrases)

- When two subjects are joined by both ... and, the verb is always in the plural form.

Both the palace and the tomb are from the 15th century.

- When two subjects are joined by not only ... but also, either ... or, neither ... nor, the form of the verb will depend on the subject that is closer to it.

Not only my mother but also my sisters are afraid of flying.

Either Peter or you go get tickets for the city tour.

Neither the tourists nor the tour guide is in the pyramid.

pp. 115–116

Choose the correct option.

Ways to preserve local heritage sites

- 1 a)  2.08 Fill in each gap with organise, make, communicate, select or raise. Then listen and check.

It is important to protect local heritage sites so residents and visitors can visit, enjoy and learn from them. So how can you help? Here are some ways.

- 1) _____ a volunteer group to bring together the residents who care about protecting heritage sites.
- 2) _____ a heritage site in your community and become involved in its rescue.
- 3) _____ about protecting heritage sites by sharing news and links on social media.
- 4) _____ a donation to a historical society or group to help 5) _____ money in order to protect heritage sites.

- b)  Think Can you think of other ways to protect local heritage sites?

Everyday English

Giving instructions

- 2 a)  2.09 Listen and read the dialogue. What does Grandma want to do?

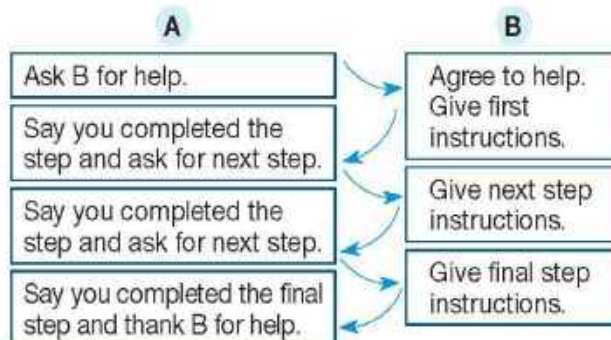

Grandma: Mike, can you help me make an online donation to the historical society?
 Mike: Sure, Grandma. First, sign into your online banking.
 Grandma: OK. Did it. What now?
 Mike: Now, select 'Transfer Funds' from the list.
 Grandma: OK. I've done that. It's asking for the society's bank account number.
 Mike: Here it is on the letter they sent you. You need to type it in the space provided.
 Grandma: Then what do I do?
 Mike: You just need to enter the amount you want to donate and press 'Send'.
 Grandma: That was easy. Thanks for your help.

- b)  Think Which of the phrases/sentences in the dialogue are giving instructions?

- c) Match the sentences in Exercise 2b to the ones that have the same meaning from the list below.

- A Enter it in the given blank.
- B First, go into your online banking and sign in.
- C You enter the donation amount and click 'Send'.
- D Go to the list and select 'Transfer Funds'.

- 3  You want to make an online donation to a historical society to save a local heritage site. Act out a dialogue similar to the one in Exercise 2a. Use the diagram below. Mind the intonation and rhythm.

Pronunciation

Strong & weak form of function words

Many function words (can, a/an, to, and, the, your, from, for, do, was, but, that, does, at, etc.) have a strong form and a weak form. The strong form is used when the function word emphasises important information in a sentence or is at the end of a sentence.
I know who this email is from. stressed → strong (frɒm)
Select 'Transfer Funds' from the list. unstressed → weak (frəm)

- 4  2.10 Listen and mark the function words as S (strong) or W (weak). Practise saying them.

- 1 a Can you help me make an online donation?
 b I can't help you but Peter can.

 b The volunteers often meet at weekends.
- 3 a It's asking for the society's bank account number.
 b What do you need the account number for?

A letter requesting information about a service

- 1  Look at the advert in Exercise 3 on page 48. Then read the letter and answer the questions.

Dear Mr Blackwell,

I am writing to you regarding the volunteer programme at the Prambanan Temple Compounds in Indonesia. I am interested in becoming a volunteer and would like to have some information about the programme.

Firstly, do you know what kind of training volunteers get? I have never worked at a heritage site before and I am a bit nervous about what I should do.

Secondly, could you tell me more about the accommodation with the families? Do volunteers have roommates? I also want to know how far the accommodation is from the site.

Finally, I want to find out more about the participation fee. Can you let me know if there are any other costs during the programme? I need to know the total cost for the trip.

I look forward to your reply and learning more about the programme. It sounds like an excellent volunteering experience. Thank you in advance for the information.

Kind regards,

PRESERVING CULTURAL HERITAGE:

The Đông Hồ Paintings of Vietnam

In the 16th century, artists in a small village called Đông Hồ in northern Vietnam started creating a special style of painting. The paintings showed the beautiful countryside, traditional customs, local stories and festivals. The highly-skilled artists used woodblocks with different bright colours to create paintings on a special type of paper-giấy điệp, which is made from the bark of Dó tree, powder of seashells and rice. They also used materials from nature such as trees, flowers and leaves to create the colours of the paint. Over time, the Vietnamese people bought the Đông Hồ paintings to celebrate the Lunar New Year. For good luck in the new year, they bought new Đông Hồ paintings to replace the old ones that decorated their house from the previous year. These paintings have become an important part of Vietnamese folk culture.

In the modern age, the demand for such paintings fell and there were fewer artists making paintings in the village. As a result, very few families today are creating the paintings. In order to help preserve the heritage of the Đông Hồ paintings and support the artists, there are now cultural heritage tours of the village. Tours of the area create interest in the art form from both local and international visitors. One of the artists created the Đông Hồ Paintings Preservation Centre, which displays over 200 paintings, and teaches visitors about the history of the paintings and how the artists make them. The centre and the artists are also working to teach this traditional form of art to younger generations.

- 3 Read the text again. For questions (1–4), choose the best answer (A, B, C or D).

- 1 The colours in Đông Hồ paintings come from _____.
A the powder of trees B natural materials
C special woodblocks D mixing different bright colours
- 2 The word They in line 7 refers to _____.
A woodblocks B paintings
C Vietnamese people D artists
- 3 For the Lunar New Year, the Vietnamese _____.
A decorate their Đông Hồ paintings
B display all of their Đông Hồ paintings
C change their old Đông Hồ paintings
D take down all their Đông Hồ paintings
- 4 What is the purpose of the Đông Hồ Preservation Centre?
A to create awareness about the paintings
B to sell paintings to tourists
C to provide heritage tours
D to provide a space for artists to paint

- 1 Where is the Great Barrier Reef? What problems does it face?

2.12 Listen/Watch and read to find out.

PROTECTING THE GREAT BARRIER REEF

There is a good reason why it is called 'Great'. The Great Barrier Reef, along the northeast coast of Australia, is the world's largest coral reef system. It is so large that we can even see it from space! With over 348 square kilometres in size, the Great Barrier Reef is one of the most different ecosystems on Earth. It is home to 1,500 species of fish and 4,000 shellfish as well as 30 species of marine animals such as whales, dolphins and sea turtles. The reef contains 400 types of coral and more than 2,500 separate coral reefs.

The Great Barrier Reef is a natural wonder and has been a World Heritage area since 1981 because of its global scientific and environmental importance. Besides its incredible ecosystem, the Great Barrier Reef is an important part of the Earth's natural history and an area of amazing natural beauty. Sadly, though, since 1985, the Great Barrier Reef has lost more than 50% of its coral, mostly because of global warming. As the Earth becomes warmer, ocean water temperatures increase and cause coral bleaching. This is when coral turns white and dies. The world must reduce CO₂ emissions in order to stop the coral from dying. Pollution, tourism and overfishing are also threatening the coral reef.

The good news is that 99% of the reef is now a marine park that protects the coral by controlling tourism, fishing and leisure activities in the park. The park organisation works hard to improve the quality of water, cool the area of the reef and reduce natural threats to the coral.

- coral bleaching • overfishing • threaten
- leisure • cool • threat

- 2 Read the text and decide if each of the statements (1–5) is T (true) or F (false).

- Whales are the only marine animals in the Great Barrier Reef. _____
- There are many different corals in the Great Barrier Reef. _____
- There was twice as much coral in the reef in 1985 as there is now. _____
- The main cause of coral bleaching is pollution. _____
- The Great Barrier Reef has become a protected marine park. _____

- 3 What do the following numbers in the text in Exercise 1 refer to?

- 50 • 99 • 30 • 1,500 • 348
- 4,000 • 2,500 • 400 • 1981

- Read the statements and find one more reason in the text.

The Great Barrier Reef is a World Heritage area because it ...

- Is home to different marine species.
- Is of global scientific and environmental importance.
- Is an incredible ecosystem.
- Is an important part of the Earth's natural history.
- _____

- Use the ideas in Exercise 4 to say why coral reefs are important. Tell the class.

RETURN TO THE WILD

SAVING SWEDEN'S LAPLAND

Known as the wilderness of Europe, Sweden's Lapland is an incredible ecosystem of forests, mountains and glaciers. Lapland is the home of unique wildlife such as reindeer, bears and wolves. This ecosystem has many large rivers that flow down from the mountain tops to the valleys below.

1 ☐ Besides the diverse wildlife, Swedish Lapland is also the home of the Sami people.

Over the years, activities such as hunting, deforestation and mining have had a negative impact on the environment and the animal species living in Lapland. Fish populations in rivers have decreased significantly. 2 ☐ The destruction of waterways has affected forest growth and the animals on the land as well.

Fortunately, through the work of the environmental organisation, Rewilding Lapland, the area and species living here are being restored and protected. Their work includes removing logs that block the rivers. 3 ☐ The organisation also cooperates with the local Sami people to control fishing and develop ecotourism.

4 ☐ Furthermore, the older forests and reindeer habitats are now protected from the effects of deforestation and mining.

- A By repairing the rivers' water flow, all of the ecosystem will benefit.
- B As a result, Lapland needs to reduce tourism.
- C These waterways are full of salmon and sea trout.
- D This is due to human activities like cutting down trees that change the rivers' flow.
- E Thanks to the activities related to the wildlife protection, visitors can learn about the importance of the nature of Lapland.

Ecotourism in the Rainforest of Cambodia

The Cardamom Mountains of Cambodia is Southeast Asia's largest remaining rainforest. In the mountains, there is a variety of ecosystems such as jungles, waterfalls and swamps. Various rare, endangered animals and plants live in these ecosystems. The mountains are also home to many local tribes.

In the past, tourism, deforestation and hunting threatened the natural forests and the animals in them. This is now changing with the help of an organisation called Wild Life Alliance. The organisation has turned a local village, called Chi Phat, into a tourism community that protects the ecosystems and their animals. Through this new ecotourism, local people can now support themselves without harming the environment. Instead, they have become nature educators that teach tourists about their land. Some villagers work as nature guides while others provide sustainable accommodation, and operate restaurants and various activities. Other locals work as rangers to protect the wildlife and limit where tourists can go.

Tourists can enjoy jungle hiking, mountain biking, traditional boat trips and camping while learning about nature and the local tribes who live in the rainforest. Ecotourism has helped develop the town of Chi Phat, which now has a school, a health clinic, clean water sources and a recycling programme.

With the success of the ecotourism project, the Cambodian government and project organisers hope more local people will get involved and develop ecotourism to more areas in the rainforest. In the end, ecotourism has three goals: to protect the environment, to help the local people, and to create awareness of the Cardamom Mountains as a place worth saving.

- 1 The Cardamom Mountains is the largest _____ in Southeast Asia.
- 2 The village of Chi Phat has become a _____ that protects the environment.
- 3 Some villagers are _____ that control where tourists visit.
- 4 Chi Phat now has a school and a health clinic thanks to _____.
- 5 The Cambodian government wants to _____ ecotourism to other places in the rainforest.

Cities in the future

- 1 2.15 Fill in each gap with digital roads, flying vehicles, skybridges, moving walkways or underground motorways. Then listen and check.

- 1 _____ will connect two or more tall buildings. Some will also have spaces for restaurants, shops and even swimming pools!

- 2 Travel by car through _____ will avoid lots of traffic and bad weather conditions.

- 3 _____ that take off and land easily in small spaces will make travel in the city faster.

- 4 _____ will use computer technology to repair themselves and communicate with vehicles about traffic and road conditions.

- 5 In city centres, _____ will speed up foot traffic and will be more environmentally-friendly than cars and buses.

Pronunciation /b/ – /ɔ:/

- 2 2.16 Listen to the sentences. Underline the words with an /b/ sound and circle the words with an /ɔ:/ sound. Then listen again and repeat. Practise saying them with a partner.

- People will often take long holidays in space in 2080.
- All houses will have small smart locks on doors in the future.
- More shops will be online and malls will be virtual.

Listening

- 3 2.17 Listen to a woman talking about cities in the future. Which three predictions in Exercise 1 does she say will happen? Why? Write the answers in your notebook.

- 4 Which predictions in Exercise 1 do you think will/won't happen in cities in the future? Give your reasons.

5a

Reading

- 1 Read the title of the text and look at the picture. What will the city of the future be like? Read the text to find out.

WELCOME TO THE CITY OF THE FUTURE

All people in the city will travel around easily. Electric and driverless cars and buses will make travel safer and more energy-efficient. Digital roads will communicate with cars about traffic and road conditions.

As cities grow larger, city planners are going to build homes and offices on water. These floating buildings won't use valuable land. 3D printers will help build houses faster, cheaper and with less energy. All homes will have solar windows. Experts believe that cities will be 100% energy-efficient in the next 50 years.

Hungry for a pizza? A drone or a robot will quickly deliver it in the city of the future. Growing food in the city will also be necessary. Vertical farms and rooftop gardens will produce fresh food locally, and therefore, reduce the cost of food transportation.

For those who like to shop, the future city will offer some special shopping. Interactive mirrors in shops will show what clothes look like on us and make suggestions based on our size and style. Shops will be places for socialising more than buying things. A trip to the mall is going to be a high-tech, social experience.

Overall, the future city will have digital technologies. For example, street lights will have sensors that switch on when someone passes by. These lights will also measure air pollution. Almost everything will be connected to exchange data with one another. As a result, the city of the future is going to be smarter than ever before.

- 6 There / be / vertical farms / every city / the future, / but / it / be not / certain. (might)

- 4  Choose the option (A, B, C or D) to indicate the sentence that is closest in meaning to each of the following questions.

- 1 I can see the air balloon starting to crash.
A The air balloon is going to crash.
B The air balloon is unlikely to crash.
C The air balloon won't crash.
D The air balloon might crash.
- 2 It's possible that they will create underground cities in thirty years, but I'm not sure.
A They surely will create underground cities in thirty years.
B They may create underground cities in thirty years.
C They are going to create underground cities in thirty years.
D They won't create underground cities in thirty years.
- 3 I've fixed the drone, but I'm not sure it works.
A The drone is likely to work.
B The drone isn't going to work.
C The drone won't work.
D The drone might not work.

- 5  Use the ideas below to make predictions about the future.

- home cleaning robots • vertical farms
- 3D printed houses • drone deliveries
- self-driving cars • floating buildings

Home cleaning robots might be very popular in the next 10 years.

Adverbs of certainty

We can use adverbs of certainty (definitely, certainly, probably, perhaps, maybe) and will to express how certain or sure we feel about an action or something in the future.

- definitely/certainly (not): (not) happen or be true without any doubt.
- probably (not): (not) be likely to happen or be true.
- perhaps/maybe: might be possible to happen or be true.

The adverbs of certainty usually:

- come after will in affirmative sentences.
Drones will probably deliver all packages in the future.
- come before will not (won't) or between will and not in negative sentences.
We probably won't go shopping in malls.
OR We will probably not go shopping in malls.

The adverbs maybe/perhaps are usually placed at the beginning of a sentence.

Perhaps/Maybe all buildings will have solar windows in the future.

p. 117

5 Put the adverb of certainty in bold in the correct gap in each sentence.

- Shoppers  won't ____ use a smart mirror in the future. (certainly)
- ____ people ____ will live on other planets. (perhaps)
- Underground motorways ____ will ____ be possible in the future. (definitely)
- Roads will ____ not ____ have traffic congestion in the future. (probably)
- People ____ won't ____ use petrol in cars in the next 50 years. (definitely)
- Drones ____ will ____ make finding things easier in the future. (certainly)
- ____ more houses will have robots ____ in twenty years. (maybe)
- Moving walkways ____ won't ____ be possible in the next ten years. (probably)

 Complete the future predictions with the given words and the adverbs of certainty in brackets as in the example.

In the future, ...

- people / not work / offices (definitely) people definitely won't work in offices.
- vacuum tube trains / be / a popular / form of transport (probably)

- many houses / have / smart locks (perhaps)

- cities / not have / floating houses (probably)

- we / grow / more food / vertical farms (maybe)

- some / cities / be / underground (definitely)

- skybridges / have / spaces / gyms (probably)

- more cars / not have / drivers (probably)

 Complete the second sentence so that it has the same meaning as the first one. Use the word in brackets.

- There's no chance that robots will replace all human jobs. (definitely)
Robots definitely won't replace all human jobs.
- I think some people will live on space stations in the future. (probably)
Some people _____
- I'm certain more people will drive electric cars in ten years. (definitely)
More people _____
- It's not likely that foldable cars will be popular in the future. (probably) Foldable cars _____
- There's no doubt that more businesses will use drones in the future. (certainly)
More businesses _____

 Tell your partner about your predictions about your future as in the example.

Perhaps I will study robotics.
I will definitely go to university when I finish school.

Summary completion

- Read the summary to get the general idea.
- Guess the missing type of word in each gap (a noun, an adjective, an adverb, a verb, etc.).
- Predict the possible answers. This will help focus on what to listen in the recording and look for words that are similar in meaning.

- 1 2.20 Listen to a man talking about the city of the future. Complete the summary. Write NO MORE THAN TWO WORDS for each answer.

The city of the future will be a very exciting and high-tech place. Homes will have solar power and many rooftops of buildings will have green 1 _____. In our homes, we will have robots to help us and we use devices like 2 _____ to communicate with them. We will have a lot of free time to enjoy our lives. Education and work will take place 3 _____, but socialising in person will still be very important. The city will have many parks, restaurants and cafés for meetings. We will have more time for things such as 4 _____ and travel, and group activities and sports will be popular. Transport will be fast and energy-efficient with 5 _____ that will communicate between them. A serious problem of the future city is that it will be crowded.

Matching

- Read the questions in order to understand the topic and underline the key words.
- Predict the answer to each question.
- Pay particular attention to the words you have underlined while listening to match the questions to the correct answers.

- 2 2.21 Listen to an author answering questions. What is the novel about?

- 3 2.21 Read the questions (A–F). Then listen to the answers (1–6) and match the questions to the answers. There is one example.

- A Why did you write the novel?
B How long did it take to write the book?
C Will people live on other planets?

- ☐ C will give students real-life experiences in a digital world.
- ☐ D will replace all textbooks in classes but libraries will still exist.
- ☐ E will appear and present subjects digitally.
- ☐ F will have recorded classes and students will be able to access information beyond the classroom.

b) Which predictions do you think will happen in the future?

Everyday English

Making predictions

3 a) 2.23 Listen and read the dialogue. What are Andrea's and Kelly's predictions for education in the future?

Andrea: Kelly, I'm writing an essay about the future of education. I predict that students will only attend school in digital classrooms.

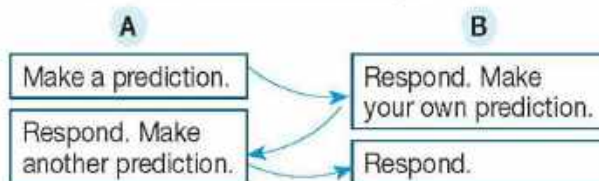

Kelly: I'm not sure that will happen. There is a good chance students will use only 3D Digi books, but I expect students will still go to school.

Andrea: I don't think so. I bet students will use virtual reality headsets and they'll learn from home.

Kelly: Not sure, but it's possible.

b) Think Which of the underlined phrases/sentences are used for making predictions? responding? Think of more similar phrases/sentences.

4 Act out a dialogue similar to the one in Exercise 3a. Use the diagram below. Mind the intonation and rhythm.

Pronunciation Contracted forms

We use short forms in informal speech to sound more natural. I will = I'll, He is = He's 5 2.24 Listen and repeat. Underline the contracted forms. Practise saying them.

- 1 We'll have 3D Digi books soon.
- 2 Let's take an online course.
- 3 Steve's doing home schooling this year.

An essay making predictions

- 1 a)  Read the essay. What is it about?

The Future of Cities

A Flying cars, virtual reality shopping and drones will be part of the cities of the future. I strongly believe that technology will change future cities in many ways.

B To begin with, transportation will become more environmentally-friendly. For instance, electric buses and moving walkways will reduce the need for petrol cars that cause global warming. Secondly, homes will be less expensive. This is because 3D printers will help build houses at a very low cost.

C However, future cities will have fewer green spaces and parks. The reason for this is people will need land to build houses. In addition, people in cities won't socialise very much. They will do many activities online, such as shopping and working.

D All in all, future cities will be high-tech. I think that they will be exciting as long as we are careful to keep green spaces and do many activities offline.

- b) Which paragraph in the essay ...

- 1 has positive predictions? _____
- 2 gives a general prediction? _____
- 3 restates the prediction using different words? _____
- 4 has negative predictions? _____

Linking words/phrases

We use linking words/phrases to link our ideas and help the reader follow our essay more easily.

- Giving a list/Adding points: Firstly, ... / To start with, ... / Also, ... / Furthermore, ... / What's more, ... / etc.
- Introducing examples/reasons: like ... / Consider the example of ... / For example, ... / The reason is ... / etc.
- Giving opposing ideas: In contrast, ... / On the other hand, ... / etc.
- Giving predictions: I predict/expect that ... / The way I see it, ... / It is likely that ... / etc.
- Concluding: In summary, ... / To sum up, ... / In conclusion, ... / etc.

- 2  Replace the words in bold in the essay in Exercise 1 with the linkers from the box.

- 3  Match the predictions (1–4) to the examples/reasons (a–d). Which predictions (1–4) are positive? Which are negative?

- 1 ☐ Learning will become simple.
- 2 ☐ There will be fewer human teachers who understand students' emotional needs.
- 3 ☐ Students will get lots of individual help.
- 4 ☐ Students won't socialise much in person.

- a Most student clubs will be online.
- b Digital classrooms will allow students to learn from anywhere.
- c Robots teachers follow a computer programme and cannot react to students' behaviour.
- d Cyborg guides will help students.

Your turn

- 4 (PLANNING) You are going to write an essay making predictions about education in the future. Answer the questions.

- 1 What is your general prediction?
- 2 What positive predictions can you make?
- 3 What negative predictions can you make?

- 5 (WRITING) Write your essay (about 150–180 words).

- Use the model in Exercise 1.
- Use your answers in Exercise 4.
- Use appropriate linking words/phrases.
- Use the plan below.

Vocabulary

Global problems

1 2.25 Listen and repeat.

homelessness

war disease

hunger

unemployment

racism

Pronunciation /θ/ – /ð/

2 2.26 Listen to the sentences. Underline the words with a /θ/ sound and circle the words with a /ð/ sound. Then listen again and repeat. Practise saying them with a partner.

- Another thing governments can do is to offer everyone free healthcare.
- Both Tom and Ed collect food and clothing for the homeless.

Listening

3 2.27 Listen and match the speakers (A–C) to the social problems (1–6) in Exercise 1. What problems are they talking about?

Speaker A

Speaker B

Speaker C

4 What can we do to solve the problems in Exercise 1? Use the following ideas or your own ideas to discuss.

- help people find affordable housing
- collect food/families in need
- create more jobs
- stop/support countries/start the war
- learn/respect other nationalities
- offer free medicine/sick people

A: What can we do to solve the problem of homelessness?

B: We can help people find affordable housing.

- 1 Look at the pictures, read the title and the first sentence in each text.
What do you think the texts are about?

2.28 Listen/Watch and read to find out.

Making a difference

Changing the world is a difficult task, isn't it? Thankfully, there are amazing non-profit organisations that aim to help people in need around the world. Here are two of them.

Action Against Hunger is a non-profit organisation that focuses on dealing with the issue of world hunger. This charity began its efforts in 1979 and has worked nonstop to help hungry people since then. Action Against Hunger gives life-saving care to people who have experienced hunger due to war, natural disasters and other major crises. In addition, they run educational programmes in which the poor are taught how to recognise the symptoms of poor nutrition. Action Against Hunger also conducts research to understand how we can predict and prevent hunger on a global scale. The organisation works in more than 50 countries and currently has more than 8,000 workers supporting approximately 26 million people worldwide.

The Global Fund

The Global Fund is a community that aims to build a better future for everyone by fighting disease around the world. In particular, the organisation focuses on ending AIDS, tuberculosis and malaria that affect people in most poor regions of the world. By uniting leaders from around the world for donations, the Global Fund is able to raise money for their goal. On average, they raise approximately $4 billion every year to fight life-threatening diseases, and they invest that money in improving medical facilities in over 100 different countries. Since its 2002 establishment, the Global Fund has helped save more than 50 million lives through the programmes it supports.

- non-profit • crisis • nutrition
- conduct • scale • tuberculosis
- malaria • life-threatening

p. 104

Multiple matching

- Read through the two texts to get general ideas.
- Read the questions and underline the key words.
- Read each text in detail and underline the parts related to the questions.
- Pay attention to the words related to the key words because some may give similar information.

Read the texts. Write A for (Action Against Hunger) and G for (the Global Fund). Which organisation ...

- 1 is more than forty years old? _____
- 2 helps people who have suffered from the conflict? _____
- 3 aims to stop specific illnesses? _____
- 4 helps people to realise the signs of a poor diet? _____
- 5 tries to make medical services better? _____

Read the texts again and answer the questions.

- 1 Why does Action Against Hunger conduct research? _____
- 2 How many people rely on Action Against Hunger? _____
- 3 What does the Global Fund do to raise money? _____
- 4 How many people has the Global Fund helped? _____

Vocabulary

Community social issues

- 4   2.29 Fill in each gap with depression, obesity, bullying, poverty, crime, healthcare, pollution or gender inequality. Then listen and check.

- 5  Read the statements (1–8). Which of the issues (A–H) in Exercise 4 does each statement match?

- 1 ☐ "My symptoms include trouble sleeping and feelings of sadness."
- 2 ☐ "The quality of air getting worse is the main cause of many diseases."
- 3 ☐ "She was picked on at school because of her accent."
- 4 ☐ "The poor can't afford medical services to get treatment when they are ill, so they mainly rely on medical charities."
- 5 ☐ "We saw a man stealing money at a local shop."
- 6 ☐ "Even though Ann was a better candidate than Tom, they didn't give her the job."
- 7 ☐ "People have to struggle to pay their bills and afford food and clothing."
- 8 ☐ "Due to poor diets, young people worldwide are gaining a lot of weight."

- 6   Which of the social issues in Exercise 4 are the most serious in your country. Tell your partner.

- 7   Collect information about an organisation either in Vietnam or in another country that deals with one of the issues in Exercise 4. Make notes under the headings name, goal of help and type of help. Prepare a poster for it.

VALUE HELPING OTHERS

Do you agree with the following statements? Why/Why not?

- 1 Helping others makes us feel good about ourselves.
- 2 Helping others with social problems is waste of time.
- 3 Helping others strengthens our communities.

CULTURE SPOT

The Fund for the Poor, which is a movement in Vietnam, focuses on helping those in poverty. Since the year 2000, it has received donations and gathered money to provide financial aid, housing and education to poor people all over Vietnam.

Do you know any similar funds in other countries?

Gerunds (-ing form)

A gerund is the -ing form of a verb that is used as a noun.

We use the gerund as a subject:

Volunteering is good for the community.

Helping others is a great way to be useful to your society.

We use the gerund as an object:

- after certain verbs such as consider, avoid, imagine, practise, suggest, mind, recommend, deny, delay, postpone, etc.

I suggest helping at the Centre of Disease Control and Prevention.

- after verbs and prepositions such as apologise for, concentrate on, help with, complain about, dream of, insist on, rely on, succeed in, focus on, carry on, etc.

I am helping with giving food to poor families.

- after some phrases such as can't stand, spend (time), feel like, it's (not) worth, it's no use/good, look forward to, be busy, (be) get used to, have difficulty/trouble, have a good time, etc.

I look forward to volunteering abroad this summer.

Complete the sentences using the verbs in the list in the correct form.

If the gerund is used as a subject, write (S), and if it is used as an object, write (O).

- | | | |
|-------------------|------------|--------|
| • open | • deliver | • help |
| • talk | • organise | • find |

- We should avoid talking about differences in skin colour or nationality. (O)
- _____ people in need can be done in many ways.
- They are busy _____ food to people in need, so they cannot meet us.
- _____ a talk about racism at school was a priority for my teacher.
- The centre succeeded in _____ jobs for unemployed people.
- We postpone _____ the shelter due to the lack of volunteers.

Find and correct ONE mistake in each sentence.

- Thú suggested ~~to go~~ to the fundraising event. going
- Our government is focusing on reduce the rate of crime. _____
- The organisation is having trouble to find shelter for homeless people. _____
- Feed hungry people makes me happy. _____
- Would you mind give me a lift to the medical centre? _____
- Live on the streets can be difficult for homeless families. _____

Complete the second sentence so that it has the same meaning to the first one. Use the words in bold.

- "Let's donate money to help fight diseases in poor countries," Mia says. (SUGGEST)
Mia _____ suggests donating money to help fight diseases in poor countries.
- Mike told us to watch the TV programme about world hunger. (RECOMMEND)
Mike _____ the TV programme about world hunger.
- It is deeply rewarding to donate money to charity. (DONATE) _____ is deeply rewarding.
- It took us three years to open the shelter for the homeless. (SPEND)
We _____ the shelter for the homeless.
- I'm sorry. I was late for the meeting about gender inequality yesterday. (APOLOGISE)
I _____ late for the meeting about gender inequality yesterday.

Use the words/phrases below to make sentences that are true for you. Tell your partner.

- ~~consider~~ • avoid • don't mind • can't stand
- spend • have difficulty • look forward to
- dream of • complain about • it's (not) worth

I'm considering taking part in the youth job centre in my town.

Question tags

Question tags are short phrases added at the end of statements. They are used to check if something is true or not.

- A positive statement takes a negative question tag. He's a volunteer, isn't he?
- A negative statement takes a positive question tag. You don't work here, do you?

We form a question tag with the correct form of to be/auxiliary verb/modal verb + subject pronoun.

He's a volunteer, isn't he?

You haven't sent Josh an email about the healthcare project, have you?

Joe and Jack can attend the party raising money for poor countries, can't they?

If the statement doesn't have the verb to be, an auxiliary verb or a modal verb, we use don't, doesn't for the present simple and didn't for the past simple.

Mary knows about the new free medical centre, doesn't she?

You sent the job application form to a company in Vietnam, didn't you?

In question tags, we use falling intonation (↘) when we are sure of the answer and rising intonation (↗) when we aren't sure and want to check the answer.

Jessica is looking for a job, isn't she (↗)?

The event started at 4 p.m., didn't it (↘)?

pp. 117–118

5 Match the sentences (1–6) to the correct question tags (a–f).

- ☐ The charity raises money for the World Food Programme.
- ☐ You helped with collecting blankets for the shelters.
- ☐ Melissa isn't working at the local children's hospital.
- ☐ You are a new medical volunteer.
- ☐ We will go to the march against racism.
- ☐ The homeless have received free meals.

- | | |
|-----------------|---------------|
| a won't we? | d aren't you? |
| b is she? | e doesn't it? |
| c haven't they? | f didn't you? |

6 Study the theory box below. Then choose the correct question tag.

- I am → aren't I? I'm late for the event on obesity prevention, aren't I?
- Imperative → will you? Have a bowl of soup, will you? (an invitation)
- Imperative → won't you? Come with me to the community kitchen, won't you? (a polite request)
- Don't → will you? Don't forget to collect food and bring it to the shelter, will you?
- Let's → shall we? Let's go to the employment centre, shall we?
- Have (got) possession → haven't + subject? You've (got) donations for the poor, haven't you?
- never/none/hardly ever, etc. → positive verb + subject? You've never volunteered at the Action Against Hunger, have you?

pp. 117–118

- 1 Send me some information about the anti-bullying programme, won't you/will you?
- 2 Let's help out at the World Food Day, will we/shall we?
- 3 Jimmy hardly ever complains about working late at the free medical centre, does he/doesn't he?
- 4 Please don't come to the depression awareness-raising event late, will you/do you?
- 5 Kevin has got toys to donate to the daycare, doesn't he/hasn't he?

7 Fill in each gap with the correct question tag. Listen and mark the boxes with ↘ or ↗. Listen again and repeat. Practise saying them.

- 1 You don't volunteer at the homeless shelter, do you ? ↘
- 2 Please send me an email about the local healthcare, _____ ?
- 3 None of the volunteers are late for the fundraising event, _____ ?
- 4 We have raised a lot of money for the children's charity so far, _____ ?
- 5 Jennifer looks tired from volunteering at the job centre all day, _____ ?

A problem-solution essay

- 1  Read the essay and match the paragraphs (A–D) to their descriptions (1–4).

Fighting Childhood Obesity

A Childhood obesity is a serious issue in today's society and it affects millions of young people. What exactly are the causes of this disease, and what can we do to solve this problem?

B One of the main causes of childhood obesity is an unhealthy diet. Many children are really keen on fast food and fizzy drinks that contain lots of harmful fat and sugar. Another reason is a lazy lifestyle. Most children prefer playing computer games and watching TV to doing physical exercise. Consequently, they gain weight quickly and become obese.

C Childhood obesity can be prevented in many ways. One solution is to increase awareness. For instance, we could provide nutrition classes for parents and children so they can understand the importance of healthy eating. By doing this, they would be able to make better food choices. Another solution would be to encourage an active lifestyle. Parents can encourage their children to participate in physical activities. That way, they can take up healthy hobbies and control their weight.

D To conclude, childhood obesity is a real problem, but we can fight it with healthier eating and an active lifestyle.

2.36 Listen/Watch and read to find out.

THE CLASSROOM OF THE FUTURE

- remotely • 3D technology
- virtual reality technology
- model • trial

p. 104

The development of technology has opened up a whole new world of possibilities for us. Thanks to the Internet, it is now possible to learn remotely with online courses, but some schools in Vietnam are going one step further to make learning more interesting. By using 3D technology and virtual reality technology (VR), Vietnamese schools are creating a whole new kind of classroom experience.

Back in 2013, a high school in Ho Chi Minh City became the first Vietnamese school to use 3D technology in the classroom. The teachers there used this technology to teach science subjects. They created amazing 3D models, such as a human heart model, to help students get a clearer understanding of what they were learning in class. This was an amazing new development in teaching as this 3D technology allowed teachers to explain difficult information to students in an interesting way.

In 2019, moreover, there was another major development when a university in Hanoi began offering virtual reality technology trial classes to people who were interested in studying there. The university has used 360-degree virtual reality technology to allow people in other parts of Vietnam to experience all of the sights and sounds of learning in a real classroom.

By combining 3D and virtual reality technology, today's schools are creating an interesting learning experience in which anyone can participate. It's exciting to think that every school in the world might be using virtual classrooms in the near future!

2 Read the text again. Complete each sentence with NO MORE THAN TWO WORDS.

- At present, students can learn remotely through online _____.
- In 2013, a school in Ho Chi Minh City used _____ in the classroom for the first time.
- You can see a 3D _____ of a human heart in science class.
- 3D and _____ technology are useful tools for today's schools.
- In the future, all schools could be using _____ classrooms.

Work in groups.

One group will think of advantages of online learning with virtual reality technology in classrooms. The other group will think of disadvantages of online learning with virtual reality technology in classrooms. Hold a debate in class on the issue.

1 Read the title and look at the picture. How do you think UNESCO helps reduce world poverty?

2.37 Listen/Watch and read to find out.

Fighting Against World Poverty

What can we do to reduce global poverty? There are many organisations and charities that work to help people in need around the world. UNESCO is one of the leading organisations fighting against global poverty. While many anti-poverty organisations help mostly by providing humanitarian aid, UNESCO helps in a different way to end this global issue. It fights against poverty by improving education in poor areas of the world with the help of international cooperations.

The organisation believes that through education, societies can develop their economy and reduce poverty. By developing and sharing knowledge globally, each community becomes stronger and more independent.

Therefore, UNESCO promotes global education and works to make sure every person has access to education.

UNESCO has created over 1,000 projects and groups, such as the UNESCO Associated Schools Network, to develop education. This network has more than 11,500 educational organisations from 182 countries as members and it focuses on modern teaching and international understanding. The network works both locally and internationally to develop education and the exchange of ideas.

In 2021, educational and government leaders from over 40 countries met at the UNESCO headquarters in Paris for the Global Education Meeting (GEM) to discuss the ways of improving education globally. These countries agreed to increase funding to education and international aid to education where needed.

UNESCO's work to stop poverty has been very effective in helping millions of people around the world. Through its many projects and programmes, UNESCO teaches and strengthens communities to overcome social problems and become an active part of the global community.

- humanitarian aid • cooperation

Going to the gym, or not?

Home workouts are becoming very popular these days because many working people can't manage to have time to go to the fitness centre. Recently, 75% of people asked say it is easier, cheaper and more convenient to exercise at home. Mini-workouts of 5 to 10 minutes spread out during the day are also a great way to exercise while busy at home. All you need is a mat, light weights and some space for the perfect home gym.

Apps are everywhere

As we use our mobile phones for almost everything, it is no surprise they can help us exercise too. Fitness applications on our mobiles, smart watches and computers are the latest craze. These apps are often free to download and for people of all ages. They offer a variety of workouts as well as healthy diet advice and wellness tips. They also help track your progress and even give rewards such as badges and stars for encouragement.

High-tech exercising

Technology has definitely become part of our daily exercise. Whether at home or at the gym, exercise bikes, treadmills and other types of equipment have become interactive with screens and speakers. Smart fitness mirrors, acting as personal trainers, provide a variety of exercise programmes from boxing to Pilates while the person exercising can see themselves in the mirror.

Building muscles outdoors

Running, cycling, walking and hiking are some types of outdoor fitness. More and more people are getting together to exercise or take an outdoor class while enjoying the benefits of nature with some fresh air and green healing.

True/False/Doesn't Say statements

- Read the statements and underline the key words.

- only person / use a smart mirror

My brother is the only person in my family to play extreme sports.

Perfect gerunds / Perfect participles

Perfect gerunds

Form: having + past participle

We use perfect gerunds as objects after certain verbs or verbs and prepositions to indicate completed past actions and these actions happen before the ones by the main verbs.

The children admitted having used the mobile phone at bedtime.

Perfect gerunds are used:

- after some verbs such as deny, admit, mention, recall, regret, remember, forget
She denied having cancelled his gym membership.
- after some verbs and prepositions such as apologise ... for, accuse ... of, admire ... for, blame ... for, congratulate ... on, praise ... for, thank ... for
Peter thanked his sister for having given him the book about yoga.

Perfect participles

Form: having + past participle

We use perfect participles to indicate an action completed and happened before another one in the past.

Having finished her yoga exercise, my sister went to bed. (My sister finished her yoga exercise and then she went to bed.)

Notes:

- The verbs must have the same subject.
- The perfect participles are put at the beginning of the sentences.

pp. 118-119

- 4 Match the sentence halves to make complete sentences as in the example.

Linking consonants and vowels

In spoken English, we usually link a word ending in a consonant to a word beginning with a vowel to make our speech sound more connected and natural.

e.g. What is it?

What about going for a walk?

- 4  3.10 Listen and mark the linking sounds in the consonants and the vowels. Then listen again and repeat. Practise saying them.

- Has Alan tried walking for 30 minutes a day?
- He often works out for one hour a day.
- Have you thought about planning your meals every day?
- How often does Edward attend dance fitness classes?
- Do they always eat small meals each day?

A letter giving advice

1 Read the letter. What is it about?

Dear Marcus,

A Thanks for your letter. It was great hearing from you. I'm sad to hear that you are having trouble getting into shape. It isn't easy, but I think I can help.

B It would be a good idea to choose an activity or a sport that you really like doing like football. In this way, you will enjoy it and want to do it more often. Most people get bored of exercising and that's why they don't do it regularly.

C Another thing you could do is to make a fitness programme of when you will exercise. If you do this, you will make sure to have the time for your workouts. It's so easy to forget to exercise when you are busy or make excuses that you don't have the time.

D I hope I've helped somehow. Getting into shape can be a real challenge, but I know you can do this. Write back and tell me how you get on.

Yours,

Sharon

2 Which paragraph(s) in the letter ...

- give(s) advice? _____
- express(es) sympathy? _____
- express(es) hope that the advice helps? _____

3 What is Sharon's advice? What possible results does she mention?

4 Which of the phrases in bold in the letter does Sharon use to express sympathy? give advice? give a result? express hope that her advice helps? Can you think of more phrases?

5 Match the advice (1-2) to the expected results (a-b). Then use appropriate phrases to introduce the advice and expected results.

- | | |
|---|------------------------------------|
| 1 | Try not to eat late at night. |
| 2 | Make some new low-calorie recipes. |
- a You won't get bored with your diet.
b You won't add extra calories before sleeping.

Your turn

6 PLANNING Your English friend wants to lose some weight and has asked you to send him/her a letter giving your advice. Answer the questions.

- 1 What are you going to write?
- 2 What is your advice?
- 3 What will the expected results be?

7 WRITING Write your letter.

- Use Sharon's letter in Exercise 1 as a model.
- Use your answers in Exercise 6.
- Use appropriate phrases to introduce your advice and expected results.
- Use the plan below

Plan

Dear/Hi + (your friend's first name),

(Paragraph 1) writing the opening remarks, expressing your sympathy

(Paragraph 2) writing your first advice & expected result(s)

Liam

4 When was the last time you suffered from any of the health problems (1–8) in Exercise 1? What did you do?

Natural Home Remedies

- 1 Look at the headings in the text. What health problems can these food items treat?

3.14 Listen/Watch and read to find out.

Instead of taking medicine, the next time you have a cold or a cough, you could try one of these natural remedies that are often found in your kitchen cupboards.

Ginger

A

People have used this spicy root for thousands of years as a natural remedy. It is the perfect treatment for sore throats and stomachaches. You can also use it before a trip if you suffer from travel sickness. Cook with it or try it in a tea.

Turmeric

C

This bright yellow spice is part of many delicious recipes with its unique flavour. Turmeric naturally reduces pain from swelling, joint pain and arthritis. You should mix it with black pepper to get its full benefits.

Lavender

Are you feeling stressed or anxious? Perhaps you have a headache. You should try the herb lavender known for its calming effect. Drink it as a tea or apply it as an oil to help you relax. Caution though, you mustn't apply lavender oil directly as it will bother your skin. Instead, you must mix it with another oil before applying.

Honey

D

Honey is a natural sweetener, but it is also a natural healer. Honey helps destroy bacteria and heal wounds. Put a little honey on a cut or a scratch and cover it with a plaster. Having trouble sleeping? Honey in warm tea or milk can help you sleep at night and it tastes so good!

Garlic

E

Throughout history people have used garlic to prevent illness. You may not like its strong smell, but eating garlic naturally boosts your immune system. Experts say garlic protects your heart and liver, and lowers your chance of getting many types of cancer. In order to get its full benefits, add raw garlic to salads and soups.

Multiple matching

- Read through the text to get the main idea.
- Read the questions and underline the key words.
- Scan the text and underline the parts related to the questions.
- Pay attention to the words in the text that are related to the key words because some information might be paraphrased.

- remedy • root • swelling • joint
- arthritis • bacteria • wound • boost
- immune system

p. 105

- 2 Read the text. For questions (1–5), choose from the texts (A–E).

Which remedy ...

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 | heals skin injuries? |
| 2 | can change your mood? |
| 3 | helps treat common illnesses? |
| 4 | lowers pain? |
| 5 | helps prevent diseases from developing? |

- 3 Read the text again and correct the sentences.

- Ginger can cause travel sickness.

- Turmeric is weaker when mixed with black pepper.

- Applying lavender oil directly on skin will calm it.

- Honey creates bacteria on skin wounds.

Vocabulary

Health symptoms and advice

- 4 a) 3.15 Listen and repeat. Match the health problems (A–F) to the symptoms (1–6).

sunburn

a sprained ankle

| 4 | ☐ | wash your face daily, use a special cream |
| 5 | ☐ | sit in the front seat of the boat/car, get fresh air |
| 6 | ☐ | use an ice pack, get some rest |

If you have sunburn, you should take a cool bath and rub lotion on your skin.

- 6 Say three natural remedies that people can use to treat health problems in Exercise 4.

- 7 Write sentences about the natural remedies in the text in Exercise 1. Include information about what you use them for and how you use them.

VALUE NATURAL REMEDIES

Do you agree with the following statements? Why/Why not?

- 1 Using natural remedies is safer than other treatments.
- 2 Natural remedies are not expensive.
- 3 Natural remedies are not as effective as regular medicines.
- 4 Natural remedies are easy to use.

CULTURE SPOT

In Vietnam, natural remedies from plants and herbs are commonly used for the prevention and treatment of many health problems. For example, a mixture of rice gruel and onion can treat common illnesses, such as a cold. Chewing on a betel leaf is a way to prevent tooth decay.

What are some natural remedies people use in other countries to treat minor illnesses?

An opinion essay

1 Read the essay. What is it about?

Should schools educate young people about HEALTHY EATING?

A A lot of people these days think teenagers don't know enough about healthy eating and the risks of junk food. I think schools should educate young people about healthy food choices.

B To begin with, learning about healthy eating at school will help students make smarter food choices. Students will learn why it is important to eat healthy food, and, as a result, they will become more aware of what they eat. For instance, if they learn which foods are really bad for their health, they will try to avoid eating these foods.

C Furthermore, teaching students about healthy eating will make them more health conscious. Many young people do not take care of their health and are not aware of the risks of a poor diet and bad eating habits. Learning about healthy eating will teach them the importance of caring for their health overall.

D To sum up, I believe teaching healthy eating in school is a great way for young people to make better food choices and become more concerned about living a healthy lifestyle. Don't you think learning about healthy living should begin while we are young?

2 Which paragraph in the essay in Exercise 1 ...

- expresses the first reason with a justification/example? _____
- states the topic and expresses an opinion? _____
- expresses the second reason with a justification/reason? _____
- restates the opinion using different words? _____

We use writing techniques to start/end our essays to make them more interesting to the reader.

- a general statement: A lot of people these days think teenagers eat too much junk food.
- addressing the reader directly: Don't you think teenagers should start caring about their diets?

3 Which writing techniques has the writer used to start/end his essay in Exercise 1? What effect does this have on the reader?

4 Match the reasons (1–2) to the justifications/examples (a–b).

- 1 ☐ Eating a lot of junk food will increase the possibility of different health problems.
- 2 ☐ A diet with a lot of junk food could cause young people to gain weight.

- a Junk food contains a lot of calories and sugar that can lead to weight gain.
- b A diet with a lot of junk food could lead to heart disease, acne and high blood pressure.

Your turn

5 PLANNING You are going to write an essay expressing your opinion on the topic: Should young people reduce the amount of junk food they eat? Answer the questions.

- 1 What is your opinion?
- 2 What reasons can you think of?
- 3 What justifications/examples can you give to support your reasons?

6 WRITING Write your essay (about 150–180 words).

VIETNAM'S TRADITIONAL MEDICINE

In Vietnam, there are two types of traditional medicines that date back thousands of years to the villages of Vietnam. They are called Thuốc Nam and Thuốc Bắc. The two types of medicines developed independently over the years although they are similar in many ways.

Both Thuốc Nam and Thuốc Bắc are herbal medicines using fresh and dried herbs, and plants. The main difference is in their preparation. Thuốc Nam uses different herbs that are simply chopped or ground before using. Thuốc Bắc, however, has a more complicated preparation, and often involves brewing and boiling the herbs to create a new medicine.

The two traditional medicines are similar in some of their beliefs. Each believes in the idea of Khí or energy that flows through our bodies. One popular traditional medicine is from a plant called lá lốt whose leaves help treat arthritis and backache. Herbs, like mint, help treat a cold and the flu. While Vietnamese bitter melon known as mướp đắng or khổ qua helps in the treatment of diabetes, lá vông can help people sleep better.

Today, both traditional medicines are very popular in Vietnam. There are many herbal remedy shops where people can find treatments for almost any medical problem. Students can study traditional medicine at a medical university and the government operates institutes where patients can receive traditional treatments.

LONGER LIFESPAN

It's amazing how much society has changed over time. Just a hundred years ago, people's lifestyles were much different from how they are today. It's not just the way we live our lives that has changed, but the length of our lives has amazingly increased over time as well.

Believe it or not, in the year 1900, the 1) _____ human being only lived for around 35 years. Since then, that number has jumped to over 70, meaning it has doubled in a little more than a century! So, what is behind this amazing change?

Well, the 20th century was a very important turning point for science, and a lot of important developments happened. During this time, doctors and scientists put an end to a lot of major diseases, such as smallpox and polio. They learned more about how diseases and infections 2) _____ and created medicines that helped us prevent them. Public healthcare has 3) _____, too. Thanks to technology, it's now possible to get life-saving operations that didn't exist before. This also helped to increase life expectancy.

The other big factor is how we eat. Since 1900, we have learned a lot about what we need from our food. We have developed ways to grow the right foods to 4) _____ us healthy, which helps us to grow stronger and live longer.

The life of a human being is different in so many ways from how it was just a century ago, and we should be thankful 5) _____ modern science. It's exciting to think about what life will be like 100 years from now!

Jane's Blog

A Year as a Volunteer

Hey everyone! About a year ago, I started volunteering to help the homeless. Here's what I do.

When I first started as a volunteer, I tried to meet and speak to as many people as I could. To my surprise, many of the homeless people in my town were just very unlucky. A lot of them just lost their jobs because the companies they worked for were closing down. Then, they couldn't pay rent and ended up living in the street. Without an address, it then becomes very difficult for them to earn wages or receive benefits. Fortunately, we can help them with that.

As a volunteer, I help people to set up bank accounts and register as jobseekers by using a local job centre for their postal address. In this way, they can receive social welfare benefits that help them to pay for things like food and clean clothes. Then, I help them find rooms to rent. Finally, I assist them with writing CVs and applying for jobs. My job isn't done until they have a job and a home, though. So, I still keep in touch with them for a few months to make sure everything goes well.

In my time here, I have helped many people. It has been a challenge and I have learned a lot. It's such a great feeling to give someone the chance to change their life. I highly recommend volunteering to anyone who has some free time!

Hello

Conditionals – Type 1

Form

if-clause	Main clause
If + present simple	will/can/must/etc. + bare infinitive or imperative
If you study hard, you'll pass the exam. If you finish your homework, you can watch TV. If you don't like it, don't eat it.

Use

- We use conditional type 1 to talk about a real or very probable situation in the present or future.
If it rains, we won't go out.
- We can use unless instead of if ... not in the if-clause. The verb is always in the affirmative after unless.
If it doesn't rain, we'll go on a picnic.
Unless it rains, we'll go on a picnic.

Conditionals – Type 2

Form

if-clause	Main clause
If + past simple	would/could/might + bare infinitive
If I had free time, I would take up a hobby.

Use

- We use conditional type 2 to talk about an imaginary situation contrary to facts in the present.
If I had enough money, I would buy a new car. (I don't have enough money right now.)
- We also use conditional type 2 to give advice.
If I were you, I would go to the police. (advice)

The gerund (-ing form)

Use

We use the gerund (-ing form):

- after certain verbs such as admit, appreciate, avoid, confess, consider, deny, finish, imagine, mention, mind, miss, practise, risk, suggest, etc.
Please, avoid eating in the room.
- after love, like, enjoy, hate, dislike and prefer, to express general preference.
Lucy likes going out.

DIFFERENCE IN MEANING BETWEEN THE TO-INFINITIVE AND -ING FORM

Some verbs can take either the to-infinitive or the -ing form with a change in meaning.

- forget + to-inf = not remember something you need to do
We forgot to bring our passports!
- forget + -ing form = have no memory of something you have done
I'll never forget going to Kenya!
- remember + to-infinitive = not forget to do something
John remembered to lock the door.
- remember + -ing form = have a memory of something you have done
I don't remember meeting you before.
- stop + to-infinitive = stop doing something temporarily in order to do something else
He stopped to buy a newspaper on his way home.
- stop + -ing form = finish doing something
She stopped going to the gym when she hurt her back.
- try + to-infinitive = do one's best, attempt
She tried to win the competition.
- try + -ing form = do something as an experiment
Try cutting down on fat; you may lose weight.

The infinitive

We use the to-infinitive:

- after the verbs: advise, afford, agree, appear, ask, decide, expect, hope, manage, need, offer, plan, promise, refuse, seem, want, etc.
We advise you to remain calm.
- after would like, would prefer and would love to express specific preference.
I would like to eat some ice cream.

We use the bare infinitive:

- after the verbs let, make, see and hear, etc.
He made them do all the exercises.
BUT: They were made to do all the exercises. (passive form)
- after had better and would rather.
He would rather walk to school than take the bus.

Comparative / Superlative of adjectives and adverbs

- We use the comparative to compare one person or thing with another. We use the superlative to compare one person or thing with others of the same group.
Bob is taller than Sam. He's the tallest student in the class.

Formation of comparatives and superlatives

Adjectives of one syllable take -(e)r/-(e)st to form their comparative and superlative forms.

ADJECTIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
tall	taller (than)	the tallest (of/in) nice	nicer (than)	the nicest (of/in)

Adjectives of one syllable that end in a consonant + vowel + consonant, double the last consonant and add -er/-est.

ADJECTIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
thin	thinner (than)	the thinnest (of/in)

Adjectives of two syllables ending in -y, drop the -y and add -ier/-iest.

ADJECTIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
ugly	uglier (than)	the ugliest (of/in) happy	happier (than)	the happiest (of/in)

Adjectives of two or more syllables take more/ the most to form their comparative and superlative forms.

ADJECTIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
difficult	more difficult (than)	the most difficult (of/in) beautiful	more beautiful (than)	the most beautiful (of/in)

Adverbs

- Adverbs that have the same form as their adjectives (hard, fast, free, late, high, early, low, deep, long, near, straight) take -er/-est.
low – lower – the lowest
- Two-syllable adverbs and adverbs formed by adding -ly to the adjective take more in the comparative and the most in the superlative form.
often – more often – the most often politely – more politely – the most politely

- For the adverb early, drops the -y and adds -ier/-iest.

IRREGULAR FORMS
ADJECTIVE / ADVERB	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
good/well	better	the best
bad/badly	worse	the worst little	less	the least
a lot of/much/many	more	the most far	further/farther	the furthest/farthest

Modifying comparisons

- as + adjective + as (to show that two people or things are similar/different in some way).
In negative sentences, we can use not as/so ... as.
Lucy is as young as Kate. This tablet isn't as/so good as that one.
- much/a lot + comparative (to emphasise the big difference between two people or things)
Los Angeles is much noisier than London.
- a bit/a little + comparative (to emphasise the small difference between two people or things)
Edinburgh is a bit more beautiful than Glasgow to me.
- by far + superlative (to emphasise the big difference in the same group of people or things)
Mount Everest is by far the highest mountain in the world.

The definite article the

We use the with:

- nouns that are unique (the Earth, the sky, the Sun, etc.).
- the names of rivers (the Seine), seas (the Red Sea), oceans (the Atlantic Ocean), mountain ranges (the Alps), deserts (the Sahara), groups of islands (the Easter Islands) and countries when they include words such as 'state', 'kingdom' and 'republic' (the United States, the United Kingdom).
- the names of musical instruments after the verb play (the piano, the trumpet).

Grammar Reference

- the name of ships (the Santa Maria), newspapers (the Times), cinemas/theatres (the Plaza), hotels (the Ritz), museums/art galleries (the Louvre).
- the names of families (the Browns) and some nationalities ending in -sh, -ch and -ese (the Dutch, the Chinese).
- titles (the King) when the person's name is not mentioned. (BUT: King Arthur)
- the words morning, afternoon and evening.
I get up at 6 o'clock in the morning every day.

We don't use the with:

- uncountable and plural countable nouns when talking about something in general.
Leopards live in the wild.
- proper nouns (names of people, places, etc.).
This is John.
- the names of cities and most countries (Paris, France).
- the names of bridges (San Francisco Bridge), parks (Hyde Park), railway stations (King's Cross Station), mountains (Mount Everest), individual islands (Cyprus), lakes (Lake Superior), continents (Europe), streets (Moss Street), squares (Trafalgar Square). BUT: the M25 (national roads/motorways)
- the names of meals, games, sports or school subjects (breakfast, football).
- languages, unless they are followed by the word language. I am learning Chinese.
BUT: I am learning the Chinese language.
- the words this/that/these/those (this skirt, these books) (NOT: this the skirt).
- possessive adjectives. This is my bag.
- titles when the person's name is mentioned (Queen Elizabeth, President Obama).
- the words school, church, hospital, bed, prison, home, when we refer to the purpose for which they exist. Jane was in school. (She is a student there.) BUT: Mr Jones went to the school for parent-teacher night. (He's not a student.)
- by + means of transport (by car/bus/train).

Compound sentences (and, but, or, so)

A compound sentence has two independent clauses that have related ideas. The independent clauses can be joined by using coordinating conjunctions: and, but, or, so.

- I often make my bed. I often mop the floor.
→ I often make my bed and mop the floor.
- In the afternoon, John goes cycling. He never goes to the park.
→ In the afternoon, John goes cycling, but he never goes to the park.
- At weekends, I go out with my friends.
At weekends, I do sports.
→ At weekends, I go out with my friends or I do sports.
- He's very friendly. He has got many friends.
→ He's very friendly, so he has got many friends.

Punctuation

We usually put a comma before but and so.

I can swim, but I can't run fast.

It isn't raining now, so let's go for a walk.

The passive

Form

	ACTIVE	PASSIVE
Present Simple	Sue types the letters.	The letters are typed by Sue.
Present Continuous	Sue is typing the letters.	The letters are being typed by Sue.
Past Simple	Sue typed the letters.	The letters were typed by Sue.
Past Continuous	Sue was typing the letters.	The letters were being typed by Sue.
Present Perfect	Sue has typed the letters.	The letters have been typed by Sue.
Future Simple	Sue will type the letters.	The letters will be typed by Sue.
Modals (modal+be+pp)	Sue must type the letters.	The letters must be typed by Sue.

We use the passive when the doer of the action (the agent) is general (e.g. people), unknown, or is not the topic of speaking. English is spoken everywhere in the world. (The doer of the action is general.)

Our house was broken into last night.

(We do not know who broke into the house.)

Grammar Reference

I love this mobile app. It was developed by my best friend, Michael. (The topic of speaking is the mobile app, not my best friend.)

Changing from active into passive

To change a sentence from active into passive:

- the object in the active sentence becomes the subject in the passive sentence.
- the tense of the verb to be in the passive sentence is the same as the tense of the main verb in the active sentence.
- the subject of the active sentence becomes the agent, and is either introduced with the preposition by + person, with + object/instrument or it is omitted.

	SUBJECT	VERB	OBJECT
ACTIVE	Columbus	discovered	America.
	SUBJECT	VERB	AGENT
PASSIVE	America	was discovered	by Columbus.

by + agent

The app was designed by a teenager.

with + tool/material/ingredient

The cake is being cut with a knife.

Reported speech

Reported speech is the exact meaning of what someone said, but not the exact words. We do not use quotation marks in reported speech. The word that can either be used or omitted after the reporting verb (say, tell, etc.). She said (that) she wouldn't be back until 10 o'clock.

Direct speech is the exact words someone used. We use quotation marks in direct speech.

"I won't be back until 10 o'clock," she said.

say – tell

- Say is used with or without a personal object. When used with a personal object, it is always followed by the preposition to (said to me).
Direct speech: He said, "I'm tired."
Reported speech: He said (that) he was tired.
Direct speech: He said to me, "I'm sad."
Reported speech: He said to me (that) he was sad.
- Tell is always followed by a personal object (told me).
Direct speech: He told me, "I'm sad."
Reported speech: He told me (that) he was sad.

- When we change direct speech to reported speech, the tense of the verb normally changes:

DIRECT SPEECH	REPORTED SPEECH
Present Simple He said, "I try to be a good student."	Past Simple He said (that) he tried to be a good student.
Present Continuous He said, "She's talking on the phone."	Past Continuous He said (that) she was talking on the phone.
Future Simple (will) He said, "She will be back soon."	would He said (that) she would be back soon.
am/is/are + going to He said, "I am going to work late today."	was/were + going to He said (that) he was going to work late that day.
Modals She said, "I may finish my project this week."	Modals She said (that) she might finish her project that week.

- In reported speech, personal/possessive pronouns and possessive adjectives change according to the meaning of the sentence.
Ben said, "I'm having my car repaired."
Ben said (that) he was having his car repaired.

Personal subject pronouns:

I → he/she; we → they

Personal object pronouns:

me → him/her; us → them

Possessive adjectives:

my → his/her; our → their you/your changes according to the person it refers to in the direct speech.

Certain words and time phrases change according to the meaning, as follows:

now/at the moment → then today/tonight → that day/that night

this morning/evening, etc. → that morning/evening, etc.
tomorrow → the next day/the following day next week/month, etc. → the following week/month, etc.
this week → that week here → there this/these → that/those

Grammar Reference

- The verb tenses remain the same in reported speech when the reporting verb is in the present, future or present perfect.
Mum says, "Dinner is ready."
Mum says (that) dinner is ready.
- The verb tenses can either change or remain the same in reported speech when reporting a general truth.
The teacher said, "Iceland is an island."
The teacher said (that) Iceland is/was an island.

Reported questions

- Reported questions are usually introduced with the verbs ask, inquire, wonder and the expression want to know.
- When the direct question begins with a question word (who, where, how, when, what, etc.), the reported question is introduced with the same question word.
"What time is it, please?" (direct question)
He asked me what time it was. (reported question)
- When the direct question begins with an auxiliary (be, do, have), or a modal verb (can, may, etc.), then the reported question is introduced with if or whether.
"Are there any apples left?" (direct question)
He asked me if/whether there were any apples left. (reported question)
- In reported questions, the verb is in the form of a statement. The verb tenses, pronouns and time phrases change as in statements.
"Can I use your camera, please?" (direct question)
He asked me if he could use my camera. (reported speech)

Are we/you/they sleeping?	Yes, you/we/they are. No, you/we/they aren't.

Spelling rules

- For most verbs, add -ing to the base form of the main verb. cook – cooking
- For verbs ending in -e, drop -e and add -ing. arrive – arriving
- For verbs ending in -ee, add -ing. see – seeing
- For verbs ending in a stressed vowel between two consonants, double the final consonant (except w, x) and add -ing.
sit – sitting, begin – beginning
BUT bow – bowling, relax – relaxing
- For verbs ending in a consonant + vowel + -l, double the -l and add -ing. cancel – cancelling
- For verbs ending in -ie, drop -ie and add -y + -ing. tie – tying

Use

The Present Continuous is used:

- for actions happening now, at the moment of speaking. He's watching TV now.
- for temporary actions.
Huong is staying with her aunt these days.
- for fixed arrangements in the near future, especially when we know the time and the place. We are flying to Italy tomorrow at 9:00 a.m.
- for complaints. He is always using my computer.

Time words/phrases used with the Present Continuous: now, right now, at the moment, these days, at present, tonight, tomorrow, next week/month, etc.

Stative verbs

- Stative verbs are verbs that describe a state rather than an action and don't usually have continuous forms.

Tom likes to hangout with his friends.

(NOT: ~~Tom is liking to hangout with his friends.~~)

Stative verbs include:

- verbs of perception (see, hear, feel, smell, taste, etc.). This cake tastes delicious.
- verbs which express feelings and emotions (desire, enjoy, hate, like, love, prefer, want, etc.).
He loves rock music.
- verbs of thoughts (know, think, believe, etc.).
I think my parents don't like my friends.
- other verbs: agree, be, belong, contain, cost, fit, have, include, keep, need, owe, own, appear, etc.
This house belongs to my aunt.
- Dynamic verbs are verbs that describe an action rather than a state and can be in the continuous forms.
Tom is hanging out with his friends.
- Some verbs (think, see, taste, etc.) can be used both as stative and dynamic verbs, but with a difference in meaning.
Tom thinks hanging out with his friends is fun. (= believes)
Tom is thinking of hanging out with his friends this afternoon. (= is considering)

PRESENT SIMPLE	PRESENT CONTINUOUS

This suit fits you well. (= is the right size)	They are fitting new pipes in the bathroom. (= are putting)
He looks happy. (= appears)	She is looking at the family painting. (= is taking a look at)

Note: The verb enjoy can be used in continuous tenses to express a specific preference.

She enjoys skiing. (general preference)

BUT They are enjoying themselves at the pool. (specific preference)

Linking verbs

- Linking verbs are verbs that link the subject to the complement and describe the subject.

Subject	Linking verb	Complement
My brother	is	independent.

- The complement is usually an adjective (not adverb) or a noun.
Aunt Mary looks tired. (adjective)
My mother is a teacher. (noun)
- Some common linking verbs are be, seem, become, get, remain, stay, look, taste, smell, sound, feel, etc.
- Some stative verbs are also linking verbs.
Ann's sister seems happy. (seem as a stative verb and linking verb)
- We often use to be after appear and seem.
He appeared to be an independent boy.

Spelling rules (regular verbs)

- For most regular verbs, add -ed. watch – watched
- For verbs ending in -e, add -d. close – closed
- For verbs ending in a consonant + -y, drop -y and add -ied. cry – cried
- For verbs ending in a vowel + -y, add -ed.
stay – stayed
- For verbs ending in a stressed vowel between two consonants, double the final consonant (except w, x) and add -ed.
drop – dropped, prefer – preferred
BUT allow – allowed, fix – fixed
- For verbs ending in a consonant + vowel + -l, double the -l and add -ed. quarrel – quarrelled

Pronunciation (regular verbs)

There are three ways of pronouncing -ed or -d of the Past Simple form of regular verbs.

- /ɪd/ after the sounds /t/ or /d/ tasted, decided
- /t/ after the sounds /f/, /k/, /p/, /s/, /ʃ/, /tʃ/ laughed, walked, escaped, passed, finished, watched
- /d/ after other sounds travelled, prayed, happened, tried, preferred, borrowed, amazed, informed, moved

Grammar Reference

Irregular verbs

Some verbs have an irregular past form.

- buy - bought
- eat - ate
- take - took

(See page 136 for a list of irregular verbs)

Use

The Past Simple is used:

- for an action that happened at a certain time in the past.
John visited the ancient temple yesterday.
- for actions that happened one after another in the past.
First, she went to the palace. Then, she went on a tour.
- for a past habit.
He often travelled with his parents when he was a child.

Time words/phrases used with the Past Simple: yesterday, in 2008, last night/week/month, etc., two days/two weeks/two months ago, etc.

Past Continuous

Form

subject + to be (was/were) + main verb + -ing

AFFIRMATIVE	NEGATIVE
I was talking . He/She/It was talking . We/You/They were talking .	I wasn't talking . He/She/It wasn't talking . We/You/They weren't talking .
INTERROGATIVE	SHORT ANSWERS
Was I talking? Was he/she/it talking? Were you talking? Were we/you/they talking?	Yes, you were./No, you weren't. Yes, he/she/it was. No, he/she/it wasn't. Yes, I was./No, I wasn't. Yes, you/we/they were. No, you/we/they weren't.

Use

The Past Continuous is used:

- for an action which was in progress at a stated time in the past. We do not mention when the action started or finished.
At nine o'clock yesterday, we were travelling to Hanoi. (We don't know when the flight took off or arrived.)

- for an action which was in progress when another action interrupted it. We use the Past Continuous for the action in progress (longer action) and the Past Simple for the action that interrupted it (shorter action).

They were having a picnic in the park when it started raining.

- for two or more simultaneous actions in the past.
Ann was buying souvenirs while Tom was touring the museum.

Time words/phrases used with the Past Continuous: when, while, as, all day/night/morning, etc.

Cleft sentences

We use cleft sentences when we want to put emphasis on certain information in the sentence. The common cleft sentence is It-cleft.

It is/was + (emphasised information) + that + clause

The tourist watched a film at the museum.

- It was the tourist that watched a film at the museum. (the tourist is emphasised.)
- It was a film that the tourist watched at the museum. (a film is emphasised.)
- It was at the museum that the tourist watched a film. (at the museum is emphasised.)

They often go on guided tours to Hạ Long Bay.
It is Hạ Long Bay that they often go on guided tours.

When a plural subject is emphasised, It + be remains singular.

It 's the children that enjoyed the sightseeing most. (NOT It are the children that enjoyed the sightseeing most.)

We can use who instead of that when a personal subject is emphasised.

It was Mark who (that) went sightseeing.

Unit 3

Present Perfect

Form

subject + have/has + past participle of the main verb

Grammar Reference

Regular verbs

Irregular verbs

AFFIRMATIVE	NEGATIVE
I've seen ... He's/She's/It's seen ... We've/You've/ They've seen ...	I haven't seen ... He/She/It hasn't seen ... We/You/They haven't seen ...
INTERROGATIVE	SHORT ANSWERS
Have I seen ...?	Yes, you have. No, you haven't.
Has he/she/it seen ...?	Yes, he/she/it has. No, he/she/it hasn't.
Have you seen ...?	Yes, I have. No, I haven't.
Have we/you/they seen ...?	Yes, you/we/they have. No, you/we/they haven't.

Use

The Present Perfect is used:

- to describe an action or a state which started in the past and continues up to the present, especially with stative verbs such as have, like, know, be, etc. In this case, we often use for and since.
The organisation has helped marine animals since 2015. (The organisation started helping marine animals in 2015 and it still helps them.)
- for an action which happened at an unstated time in the past and whose result is visible in the present.
The students have planted trees in the park and it looks great.

- to describe a person's experience.
This is the second time Iris has experienced a hurricane.

Time words used with the Present Perfect:

- already: We have already seen the film on global warming. (= before now)
- yet: Has Kim finished her report on the rainforest yet? (= so far) She hasn't finished her report on the rainforest yet.
- just: Mark has just left. (= a short time ago)
- ever: Have you ever been to a desert? (= at anytime)
- never: She has never been to a desert. (= at no time)
- so far: I have collected 3 bags of rubbish so far. What have you done so far? (= up to now)
- since: He has worked at the WWF since 2010. (= starting point of an action)
- for: I haven't seen any wildlife in the park for three days. (= period of time)

Present Perfect & Past Simple

We use:

- Present Perfect for an action that happened at an unstated time in the recent past.
The volunteers have saved 10 sea turtles. (When? We don't know.)
- Past Simple for an action that happened at a stated time in the past.
Last week, the volunteers saved 10 sea turtles. (When? Last week.)
- Present Perfect for an action that started in the past and continues up to the present.
The volunteers have saved 10 sea turtles so far.
- Past Simple for an action that started and finished in the past.
The volunteers saved 10 sea turtles and returned them back to the sea.

Unit 4

Paired conjunctions

- Paired conjunctions are words that always go together. They are used to connect words, phrases or independent clauses in a sentence.
- Some common paired conjunctions are both ... and, not only ... but also, either ... or, neither ... nor.

Grammar Reference

- We use parallel words/phrases with paired conjunctions.

The monument is both ancient and well-known.
(ancient, well-known: adjectives)

We can either go to the handicraft market or go to the museum. (go to the handicraft market, go to the museum: verb phrases)

- When two subjects are joined by both ... and, the verb is always in the plural form.
Both the ancient city and the pyramid are from the first century.
- When two subjects are joined by not only ... but also, either ... or, neither ... nor, the form of the verb will depend on the subject that is closer to it.
Not only my brothers but also my dad is excited about the trip to Vietnam.
Either Nancy or you book the walking tour.
Neither the teacher nor the volunteers are at the temple.

Notes:

We can sometimes leave out also in the paired conjunction not only ... but also. The tour guide not only speaks six languages, but has a degree in History.

We can use not only at the beginning of a clause if we want to add an emphasis. If then, we put the auxiliary verb/modal/to be before the subject.
Not only does the ancient city have an incredible palace, but also three large temples.

Compound nouns

A compound noun is a noun made by combining two or more words together.

We can form the compound nouns as follow:

- noun + noun policeman
- verb + noun chopsticks
- adjective + noun software
- phrasal verb used as noun check-in

A compound noun can be written as:

- one word airplane, lighthouse
- two words joined with a hyphen great-grandchild, check-in
- two or more separate words tour guide, World Heritage Site

Pronunciation: In a compound noun, the primary stress usually falls on the first part.

CHECK-in LIGHThouse

Unit 5

Future Simple will

Form

subject + will + main verb

AFFIRMATIVE	NEGATIVE
I/He/She/It/We/You/They will leave ('ll leave).	I/He/She/It/We/You/They won't leave .
INTERROGATIVE	SHORT ANSWERS
Will you leave?	Yes, I will. No, I won't.
Will I/he/she/it/we/you/they leave?	Yes, you/he/she/it/you/we/they will. No, you/he/she/it/you/we/they won't.

be going to

Form

subject + verb to be (am/is/are) + going to + main verb

AFFIRMATIVE	NEGATIVE
I am /He is /She is /It is /We are /You are /They are going to work.	I'm not /He's not /She's not /It's not /We're not /You're not /They're not going to work.
INTERROGATIVE	SHORT ANSWERS
Am I going to work?	Yes, you are. No, you aren't.
Is he/she/it going to work?	Yes, he/she/it is. No, he/she/it isn't.
Are you going to work?	Yes, I am./No, I'm not.
Are we/you/they going to work?	Yes, you/we/they are. No, you/we/they aren't.

Use

- We use will when we make a prediction based on what we think, believe or imagine. We use will with the verbs think, believe, expect, hope, etc.
In the future, people will drive flying cars.
I think/believe that people will drive flying cars in the future.
- We use be going to when we make a prediction based on what we can see (evidence).
Look at that drone. It is going to land on that hill!
- We use may/might when we want to make a prediction about a possibility. People may/might have flying cars in the future. (But it isn't sure.)

Grammar Reference

- We use be likely to make a prediction about a weak possibility. It is likely that people will travel to other planets in the future.

Adverbs of certainty

We can use adverbs of certainty (definitely, certainly, probably, perhaps, maybe) and will to express how certain or sure we feel about an action or something in the future.

- definitely/certainly (not): (not) happen or be true without any doubt.
- probably (not): (not) be likely to happen or be true.
- perhaps/maybe: might be possible to happen or be true.

The adverbs of certainty usually come after will in affirmative sentences and come before will not (won't) or between will and not in negative sentences.

All cars will probably be driverless in the future.
We probably won't go to supermarkets in the future. OR We will probably not go to supermarkets in the future.

The adverbs maybe/perhaps are usually placed at the beginning of a sentence:

Perhaps/Maybe 3D printers will make all houses in the future.

Unit 6

Gerunds (-ing form)

A gerund is the -ing form of a verb that is used as a noun.

We use the gerund as a subject:

Advertising is a good way to get volunteers.
Supporting poor communities is a good way to be useful to our society.

We use the gerund as an object:

- after certain verbs such as avoid, consider, dislike, forgive, imagine, involve, practise, suggest, mind, risk, recommend, deny, delay, postpone, etc.
I suggest collecting food first for the shelter.
- after verbs and prepositions such as agree with/to, apologise for, complain about, ask for, help with, laugh at, concentrate on, depend on, dream of, insist on, rely on, succeed in, focus on, carry on, keep on, etc.

The charity succeeded in raising enough money to build a homeless shelter.

- after some phrases such as can't help, can't stand, spend (time), feel like, it's (not) worth, it's no use/good, look forward to, be busy, (be) get used to, have difficulty/trouble, have a good time, etc.
I look forward to helping at the fundraising event.
- The verbs see, hear and watch are followed by an -ing form to describe an incomplete action (when we want to say that somebody saw/heard/watched part of the action).
She saw him leaving the house. (= She saw part of the action.)

Question tags

Question tags are short phrases added at the end of statements. They are used to check if something is true or not.

- A positive statement takes a negative question tag.
He's a cook at the community kitchen, isn't he?
- A negative statement takes a positive question tag.
You don't volunteer at the shelter, do you?

We form a question tag with the correct form of to be/auxiliary verb/modal verb + subject pronoun
He's a volunteer, isn't he?

You haven't attended the volunteering training, have you?

Maggie and Shirley can deliver food to the families in need, can't they?

If the statement doesn't have the verb to be, an auxiliary verb or a modal verb, we use don't, doesn't for the present simple and didn't for the past simple.

Calvin works at the employment centre, doesn't he?
You signed up for the medical volunteer programme, didn't you?

In question tags, we use falling intonation (↘) when we are sure of the answer and rising intonation (↗) when we aren't sure and want to check the answer.
Monica is joining the volunteer group, isn't she? (↘)
(We are sure.)

They collected all the donations, didn't they? (↗)
(We are not sure.)

Some verbs/phrases form question tags differently.

- I am → aren't I? I'm on the food collection committee, aren't I?
- Imperative → will you? Have a seat in the waiting room, will you? (an invitation)

Grammar Reference

- Imperative → won't you? Write your name down in this application, won't you? (a polite request)
- Don't → will you? Don't forget to write your email address on the job application, will you?
- Let's → shall we? Let's go to the charity event, shall we?
- Have (got) possession → haven't + subject? You've (got) the blankets for the shelter, haven't you?
- A statement with negative words (never, none, nobody, no one, nothing, etc.) takes a positive question tag. You've never volunteered at the homeless shelter, have you?
- there + be → be + there? There are lots of people at the medical centre, aren't there?
- Nobody/No one → positive verb + they? Nobody complains about working late at the fundraising event, do they?
- everyone, someone, anyone, these, those → verb + they? Everybody enjoyed collecting blankets for the shelter, didn't they?
- this, that, everything, something, nothing → verb + it? That's the new free medical centre, isn't it?

Unit 7

Participial phrases / to-infinitive clauses

- Participial phrases are groups of words that contain a participle (-ing form, -ed form or third form of a verb) and other words. They are used as adjectives to modify nouns.
- A participial phrase can be used to replace a relative clause.

RELATIVE CLAUSE	PARTICIPIAL PHRASE
PRESENT SIMPLE/PAST SIMPLE/ FUTURE SIMPLE
The lady who teaches/taught the exercise class is the owner of the gym.	The lady teaching the exercise class is the owner of the gym.
The class which is/was/ will be taught outside is a mix of yoga and meditation.	The class taught outside is a mix of yoga and meditation.

PRESENT CONTINUOUS/PAST CONTINUOUS

The man who is lifting weights is a famous basketball player.	The man lifting weights is a famous basketball player.
The treadmill which is being repaired is my dad's.	The treadmill being repaired is my dad's.

PRESENT PERFECT

The lady who has taught the exercise class is the owner of the gym.	The lady having taught the exercise class is the owner of the gym.
The treadmill which has been repaired is my dad's.	The treadmill having been repaired is my dad's.

- A to-infinitive clause can be used to replace a relative clause after the first, the second, the last, the only, the best, the most popular, etc.
Hannah was the first person who/that got the news. → Hannah was the first person to get the news.

Perfect gerunds / Perfect participles

Perfect gerunds

Form: having + past participle

We use perfect gerunds as objects after certain verbs or verbs and prepositions to indicate completed past actions and these actions happen before the ones by the main verbs.

The children admitted not having brushed their teeth yesterday.

Perfect gerunds are used:

- after some verbs such as deny, admit, mention, recall, regret, remember, forget
She denied having drunk some sugar fizzy drinks at night.
- after some verbs and prepositions such as apologise ... for, accuse ... of, admire ... for, blame ... for, congratulate ... on, praise ... for, thank ... for Mary thanked Leo for having helped her at the gym.

Grammar Reference

Perfect participles

Form: having + past participle

We use perfect participles to indicate an action completed and happened before another one in the past.

Having finished all the homework, I went to the dance fitness class.

(I finished all the homework and then I went to the dance fitness class.)

Notes:

- The verbs must have the same subject.
- The perfect participles are put at the beginning of the sentences.

Unit 8

Modals must – have to

We use must, have to, mustn't, don't have to with bare infinitive to talk about the necessity, obligation or a rule.

must – have to

- All hospital visitors must report to the reception. (It's a rule.)
- All hospital visitors have to report to the reception. (They are obliged to.)
- Karin broke her ankle, so she must go to the hospital. (It's necessary. It's urgent and important.)
- Karin broke her ankle, so she has to go to the hospital. (It's necessary.)
- I must see a doctor about my bad cough. (I believe it is necessary.)
- I have to take this medicine three times a day. (Someone else believes it is necessary.)

mustn't – don't have to

- You mustn't visit patients' rooms after 8 p.m. (It's against the rule.)
- You mustn't enter the operating room. (It's prohibited.)

Rules of Punctuation

Capital letters

A capital letter is used:

- to begin a sentence.
It is hot today.
 - for days of the week, months and public holidays.
Sunday, July, May Day, Bank Holiday, etc.
 - for names of people and places.
This is Marie and she's from Paris.
 - for people's titles.
Mr and Mrs Smith, Dr Sanders, Prince Harry, etc.
 - for nationalities and languages.
She is Italian.
Can you speak Chinese?
- Note: The personal pronoun I is always a capital letter. Ben and I are cousins.

Full stop (.)

A full stop is used to end a sentence that is not a question or an exclamation.

Leo is away on holiday. He's in Rome.

Comma (,)

A comma is used:

- to separate words in a list.
There's lettuce, tomatoes, eggs and cheese in the salad.
 - after certain joining words/transitional phrases (e.g. in addition to this, moreover, for example, however, in conclusion, etc.).
For example, I like swimming and kayaking.
 - when a complex sentence begins with an if-clause or other dependent clauses.
If Stephen isn't there, leave a message for him.
- Note: No comma is used, however, when they follow the main clause.
Leave a message for Stephen if he isn't there.
- after the words asked, said, etc. when followed by direct speech.
David said, "It was nice to see you again."

Question mark (?)

A question mark is used to end a direct question.

What time does her flight land?

Exclamation mark (!)

An exclamation mark is used to end an exclamatory sentence (i.e. a sentence showing admiration, surprise, joy, anger, etc.).

You're so funny!
What a nice day!

Quotation marks (' ' " ")

- Single quotes are used when you are quoting someone in direct speech (nested quotes).
"She got up, shouted 'I'm late' and ran out of the room," Adam said.
- Double quotes are used in direct speech to report the exact words someone said.
"Evita called you," Lucy told me.

Colon (:)

A colon is used to introduce a list.

To make an omelette, we need the following: eggs, milk, cheese, salt and pepper.

Brackets ()

Brackets are used to separate extra information from the rest of the sentence.

The Taj Mahal (built between 1631 and 1648) is an amazing place to visit.

Apostrophe (')

An apostrophe is used:

- in short forms to show that one or more letters or numbers have been left out.
She's (= she is) cooking dinner.
This shop opened in '89. (= 1989)
- before or after the possessive -s to show ownership or the relationship between people.
Rob's dog, my mum's brother (singular noun + 's)
the twins' parents (plural noun + 's) the children's toys (irregular plural + 's)
