Preface

Tiếng Anh 12 Bright is a textbook based on the 2018 English curriculum of the Ministry of Education and Training. The book is specially designed to enable students to develop the necessary skills for their future education at college or university and the skills they need for the 21st century.

Tiếng Anh 12 Bright begins with the Hello unit, which aims to help students review their knowledge about vocabulary and grammar from the previous level. It is followed by eight main units, each of which contains language knowledge, such as Vocabulary, Grammar and Pronunciation, and language skills, including Reading, Listening, Speaking and Writing. These units are further enriched with sections on Values, Vocabulary Expansion, Grammar Reference and Grammar Expansion.

In Tiếng Anh 12 Bright, all Reading texts are accompanied by theme-related videos and Grammar features language presented in context with engaging practice activities. In addition, Think! exercises aim to develop students' critical thinking skills. Study Skills sections help students become autonomous learners while Information and Communication Technology (ICT) tasks aim to develop students' searching skills on the Internet. There are also a variety of tasks that promote collaboration and creativity. For every two units, there are Culture Corner, Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL) and Progress Check sections. For every four units, there is a Review section.

We wish to thank the Board of Review from the Ministry of Education and Training for reviewing Tiếng Anh 12 Bright and providing valuable insights into how to bring the book to perfection.

1a Reading

1.12 Listen/Watch and read to check.

Hi readers. I want to tell you about a person that I really admire and had a chance to meet last month. It was Gary Hall Jr., a great Olympic swimmer.

Gary Hall Jr. was born and grew up in Cincinnati, Ohio, USA, and he was an excellent swimmer from a young age. People were amazed at his incredible speed, and he competed at a very high level. However, life didn't make things easy for him and he had to overcome major challenges to achieve his success.

By the age of 22, Gary had already competed at the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta, Georgia, USA, where he won four medals – two silvers and two golds – and set an Olympic record. Gary was so happy and excited about his career. Then, when he was 24 years old, his doctor told him that he had a health condition called type 1 diabetes, and that he might not be able to continue swimming. Gary was devastated, but after a short break, he decided he wouldn't give up and continued to train with all his strength. It was difficult and he often felt frustrated, but he made great progress.

A year later, at the 2000 Olympics in Sydney, Australia, Gary gave an amazing performance and won four more medals: two golds, a silver and a bronze. He continued his career and competed at the 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece, where he won another gold and a bronze medal.

According to Gary, people doubted his chances of success in 1996 because he was too young, and in 2000 because he had a health condition. In 2004, people doubted him because they thought he was too old. However, he proved that they were wrong.

Gary Hall Jr. is a special person in regard to all of the obstacles he overcame on his path to glory. I admire him because he didn't give up, even when he was exhausted struggling to train and compete. With his determination, he achieved great success. From his story, we can all learn an important life lesson: "To be successful, you must try your best and believe in what you can do."

- overcome • diabetes • frustrated • doubt
- obstacle • glory • determination

p. 100

Multiple choice

- Read the text quickly to get the general idea.
- Read each question and answer choices, then underline the key words.
- Locate the reference in the text to choose the correct answer.

Past Perfect

Affirmative	Negative
I/You/We/They/He/She/It had left .	I/You/We/They/He/She/It hadn't left .
Interrogative	Short answers
Had I/you/we/they/he/she/it left ?	Yes , you/I/we/you/they/he/she/it had . No , you/I/we/you/they/he/she/it hadn't .

We form the Past Perfect with had + past participle of a verb.

I decided to trek in the mountains after I had read some travel reviews.

We use the Past Perfect to talk about:

- an action that happened and completed before a specific time in the past.

I had visited Mount Fansipan in Vietnam before 2020.

- an action that happened before another action in the past. (We use the Past Perfect for the action that happened earlier and the Past Simple for the one that happened later.)

The train had left when we arrived at the station.

Time words often used with the Past Perfect are before, after, when, by the time, etc.

pp. 119–120

5 Put the verbs in brackets into the correct forms of the Past Perfect.

- We _____ (buy) the tickets before we went to the dolphin show.
- _____ (you/win) a medal before the 2020 Winter Olympics?
- Steve _____ (not/book) a safari tour yet when I spoke to him.
- _____ (you/meet) a famous person before the event yesterday?
- My aunt let me use her camera on holiday only after she _____ (show) me how to use it.

6 Make complete sentences using the prompts and the Past Perfect or the Past Simple. Add commas where necessary.

- We / start / our / safari / tour / after / tour guide / show / us / map.
- Ed / visit / over thirty countries / by the time / he / turn / thirty-five.
- Before / Anna / go / the Maldives / last month / she / never / swim / dolphins.
- When / we / come back / to / campsite / Emma / finish cooking / our meal.
- you / meet / famous person / by the time / you / finish / holiday / Los Angeles / last month?

7 Combine the sentences using the Past Perfect and the words in brackets.

- Mary came to the stadium at 11:00. Susan left the stadium at 10:30. (WHEN)
- Susan and Sam put on sunscreen. Then they start trekking in the mountains. (BEFORE)
- William competed and came first in lots of marathon races. A year later, he was offered to join the national team. (AFTER)
- Jim explained all the rules. Then we started putting up tents in the camp. (AFTER)
- Jim reached the finish line. We arrived at the marathon event. (BY THE TIME)

8 Use the time words to make sentences that are true for you, using the Past Perfect and your own ideas. Tell your partner.

- before • when • after • by the time

I had never trekked in the mountains before I went on that trip.

Everyday English

Talking about life achievements

- 2 a) 1.17 Listen and read the dialogue. What are the teens talking about?

Jack: Hey Stacy, I saw a photo of your brother, Tom, in the newspaper the other day!

Stacy: Oh yes, that's right. He's just won the 'Player of the Year' award with his university football team. But, it was a long road to his success.

Jack: Why is that?

Stacy: When Tom was growing up, he really struggled at school. He was unsure if he could ever get the grades to go to university.

Jack: Oh, I didn't know that! So, what happened then?

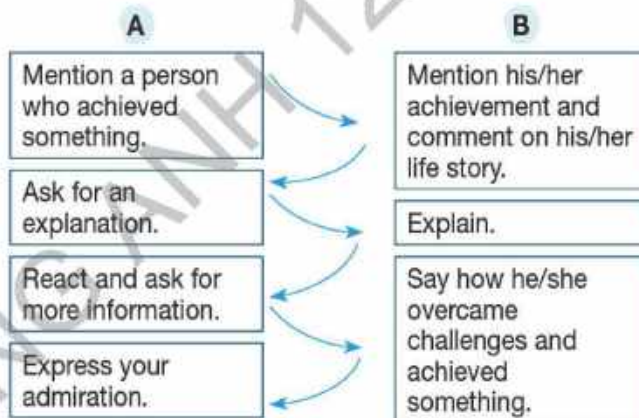

Stacy: Well, in his final year of high school, he worked extremely hard and got a place at his preferred university.

Jack: Wow, and now he's the 'Player of the Year' for that university's football team! What an amazing story!

- b) Think Which of the underlined sentences are used for asking about an explanation?/asking for more details of an achievement?/expressing admiration?

- How about starting a new business?
- Do you like history or literature?
- Mary graduated from high school with honours, didn't she? (We are sure.)
- You will go to university this year, won't you? (We are not sure.)

A life story

 Read the story about Arnel Pineda and match the paragraphs (A–D) to the descriptions (1–4).

ARNEL'S JOURNEY

A Arnel Pineda was born in Sampaloc, Manila, the Philippines in 1967, and he is an inspiring person. He has been passionate about singing since he was five years old and has achieved great success as a professional singer. However, he faced a lot of challenges during his early life.

B When Arnel was thirteen, his mother died, so his family had a lot of financial problems. Then, Arnel became homeless for several years. During that time, he took different low-paying jobs like collecting old bottles and selling newspapers to help him survive. In 1982, at the age of fifteen, he joined a local band as a lead singer, singing pop songs by famous bands. Arnel didn't make much money this way, but he never gave up on his passion.

C By the late 1990s, he had achieved some success, but it was in the early 2000s that he finally got his big break. In June 2007, Neal Schon, a member of the famous band Journey viewed a video of Arnel online. Schon contacted him and invited him to an audition for the band's new lead singer position. Six months later, Arnel joined Journey and they have had tremendous success since then. The band has released three studio albums and sold millions of records worldwide.

D Arnel Pineda is a special person because he overcame his difficult beginning. I admire him because he stayed committed to his passion and achieved greatness. Arnel's success shows that anyone can achieve their dreams if they try hard enough.

- 1 ☐ reasons Arnel is admired and the lesson from his story
- 2 ☐ general information about Arnel (name, where from, what famous for)
- 3 ☐ difficulties in his early life
- 4 ☐ his turning points and achievements

Tenses

When writing about a person's life story, we use past tenses to refer to that person's early life and achievements. We use the present tense if the person is alive and to refer to that person's current status.

What tenses did the writer use in the model writing in Exercise 1? Why?

 Read the Useful Language box. Find and underline the phrases the writer used in the story.

Landing your DREAM JOB!

Have you ever wondered what it could be like to do your dream job? We interviewed two people who found theirs!

I've always been someone who loves interacting with other people and I also have a strong interest in technology. Therefore, I was really motivated to find a job where I could use my communication skills. Fortunately, I found a perfect job, working as a social media manager for a small local company. I've done this job for almost twelve months, and I love it. I get to write interesting online posts and come up with social media strategies to help our company get more attention online. It's home-based, too, which is great because I feel much more creative when I can work from my own space. Of course, I still have tight deadlines to meet, and I need to be flexible, too. Occasionally, I have to go to the office for catch-up meetings to get updates on new project developments, for example, but luckily that doesn't happen very often. All in all, I love my job!

Since I was a child, computers have always fascinated me, and I loved learning about all of the amazing things I could do with them. As I grew up, I started to take more interest in working with computers and using them. I began by making simple quiz apps and programmes for taking notes, and then when I finished high school, I went to university and completed a course in software development. That course helped me develop my technical abilities and problem-solving skills. When I got my degree, I finally found a job as a software developer at an IT company in the capital city, and I couldn't believe my luck. Now, I get to do what I love – something I have been doing for years for free – and get a great salary. What's even more attractive is that since I joined the company, I've had the chance to work on widely-used software with millions of downloads worldwide. It's really been a dream come true!

Sentence completion

- Read the sentences and underline the key words.
- Guess the missing information and pay attention to the number of words that should be written in each gap.
- Scan the text for the missing information, underline the relevant parts and decide on the word(s) to fill in the gaps.

- strategy • creative • catch-up meeting
- fascinate • technical • problem-solving
- degree

Listening

Multiple choice

- Before you listen, read the questions and underline the key words.
- Look at the pictures and think of words related to each picture as they might appear in the recording.
- All three pictures will be mentioned in the recording but only one picture is the correct answer. The other two will be distractors.

1 Think You are going to listen to four dialogues. Read the questions (1–4) and look at the pictures. What do you expect to hear about in each dialogue?

1 What is Dave's new job?

2 Where is James working now?

3 How much money does Lucy make every month?

4 What time does Chris typically finish work?

2 1.25 Listen to the dialogues. For questions (1–4), choose the best answers (A, B or C).

Gap filling

- Before you listen, read the note carefully.
- Guess what kind of word may go in each gap (a name, a number, a place, an activity, etc.) and guess possible answers.
- Listen carefully and write the exact words you hear from the recording. Pay attention to spelling and grammatical accuracy.

3 Think Read the note. What types of information are missing in the gaps (1–5)?

Name: Andy Johnson

Qualifications:

- A degree in 1) _____ from the University of Huddersfield Hobbies: 2) _____ and game designing

- Skills:
- A natural problem-solver
 - Good organisational skills
 - Ability to 3) _____ in three different programming languages

Work experience:

- Worked at a(n) 4) _____ doing repairs
- Finished a(n) 5) _____ internship at a local IT company

4 1.26 Listen and fill in the gaps (1–5) in Exercise 3. Write NO MORE THAN TWO WORDS for each answer.

FUN Time

Look at the picture. Circle the correct phrasal verb.

- put up with: tolerate
- put up to: persuade (a person) to do something

Vocabulary

Graduation & Career

- 1 a) 1.27 Fill in each gap with bachelor's, certificate, application, qualifications, knowledge or candidate. Then listen and check.

- b) Would you like to do the job advertised? Why/Why not? Tell your partner.

Everyday English

Asking and responding in a job interview

- 2 a) 1.28 Listen and read the dialogue. What is it about?

Interviewer: Hello, Jason. So, how did you hear about this job?

Jason: I saw it advertised on your website.

Interviewer: Why do you think you are the best candidate for the position of social media manager?

Jason: Well, I'm decisive and creative, and I have a good knowledge of social media.

Interviewer: Do you have any previous experience in this line of work?

Jason: Yes. I've written social media posts for a local company in my town for three years.

Interviewer: Fantastic! And when can you start work?

Jason: I can start right away.

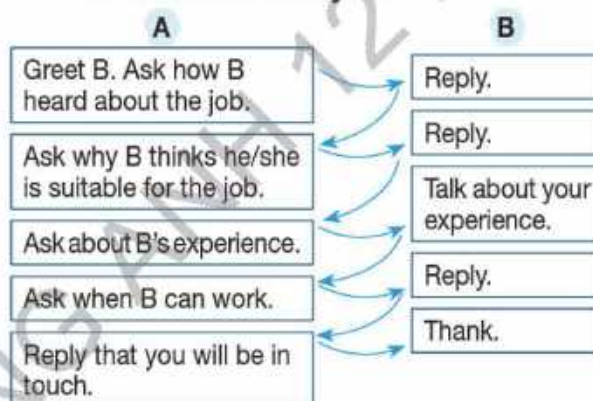

Interviewer: Excellent! Thanks for coming, Jason. We'll be in touch and let you know our decision.

Jason: Thank you. I look forward to hearing from you.

- b) Replace the underlined questions with Have you done this job before?/How did you find out about this job?/Why should we choose you as ...?/and When are you available to work? Think of more similar questions.

You are applying for the job in Exercise 1a. Your friend is the interviewer. Act out a dialogue similar to the one in Exercise 2a. Use the diagram below. Mind the intonation and rhythm.

Pronunciation

Strong & weak forms of function words

- Many function words such as articles (a, an, the), modals and auxiliaries (can, do, does, has, etc.), prepositions (from, to, at, etc.), pronouns and possessive adjectives (my, his, your, etc.) and conjunctions (but, or, etc.) are pronounced with both strong and weak forms.
- When a function word emphasises important information or appears at the end of a sentence, it's often pronounced with a strong form.
I know who this email is from. (/frɒm/ – strong)
Have you got an email from Jo? (/frəm/ – weak)

- 1.29 Listen and mark the function words in bold as S (strong) or W (weak). Listen again and repeat. Practise saying them.

- 1 a Does Jack do all his company's accounts? _____
b I'm not sure what Peter does. _____
- 2 a Did Joe send that email to you? _____
b Who did Joe send the email to? _____

Date: 07/04/2023

Dear Sir or Madam,

A I am writing to apply for the IT support technician position advertised in the local newspaper on Tuesday 5th July.

B I believe I am perfectly suited for this role. I have a bachelor's degree in IT from the University of Leeds, and I have recently completed a master's in IT management. Last year, I gained valuable experience working part-time at a local computer repair centre, and I also spent six months as a tech support trainee at a major IT firm.

C I am very adaptable, reliable and excellent at multitasking, and I have strong communication skills and natural problem-solving abilities. I can work independently or as part of a team as I have experience working in a collaborative environment.

D I would be very grateful if you would consider me for the position of IT support technician. I am available for an interview at any time. I have attached a copy of my CV to this letter for your review. If you have any questions about me, please let me know.

I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours faithfully,
Ben Watts

2 Read the letter again. In which paragraph does Ben ...

- 1 mention his available time for an interview? _____
- 2 mention his reason for writing? _____
- 3 describe his work experience? _____
- 4 present his qualifications? _____

When writing a letter applying for a job, we use formal language. I would be grateful if you would consider my application.

3 Read the informal sentences (1–4) and replace them with their formal ones (a–d).

- 1 ☐ I can't wait for you to write back!
- 2 ☐ I think I'm perfect for the job.
- 3 ☐ I want to ask about the online job posting.
- 4 ☐ I can come and see you whenever you like.

- a I believe I would be an excellent candidate for the position.
- b I am available for an interview at your convenience.
- c I am writing in response to your online job advertisement.
- d I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Your turn

4 PLANNING You are going to write an application to the job below. Read the job advert and answer the questions (1–4).BANK CLERK REQUIRED

An Extraordinary Educator

Nguyễn Ngọc Ký is one of the most inspiring people in modern Vietnamese history. He was not only an excellent teacher, but he was also an inspiration to many Vietnamese people due to the passion and determination he showed throughout his life.

Nguyễn Ngọc Ký was born in Nam Định Province in 1947 and he was a great teacher in Vietnam. However, he had a very tough early childhood. 1 As a result of his illness, he lost the ability to use his arms. This made his life extremely challenging, but Nguyễn Ngọc Ký was determined to live a full life like any other child and insisted on attending school. He learned how to write using his feet and performed very well at school. 2 For this achievement, he was awarded two medals from President Hồ Chí Minh.

After earning a degree in literature at Hà Nội National University, Nguyễn Ngọc Ký became a teacher. Over the years, Nguyễn Ngọc Ký had helped many students and gained a reputation as an incredible, inspiring teacher. In 1992, he was awarded the title "Nhà giáo ưu tú" for his outstanding contributions.

Nguyễn Ngọc Ký retired from teaching in 2005, but his work still wasn't done. 3 He wrote thirty books in total, including three best-selling autobiographies, titled Tôi Đi Học (I Went to School), Tôi Học Đại Học (I Went to the University) and Nguyễn Ngọc Ký - Tâm Huyết Trao Đời (Nguyễn Ngọc Ký - Passion for Life). He passed away in 2022, but his legacy will continue to inspire many generations of Vietnamese students, and people will remember his incredible achievements for many years to come.

THE POWER OF DETERMINATION

As an aspiring athlete, I admire people who have overcome challenges to achieve sporting success. One amazing example is Tatyana McFadden.

Tatyana grew up in Baltimore, Maryland, and later became one of the best Paralympic athletes in US history. However, she had to overcome significant challenges before she achieved great success.

Tatyana was born with spina bifida, a spinal condition that made her suffer from a severe walking disability. In addition, she spent her early childhood in a home for children without families and didn't have a wheelchair to help her get around. However, Tatyana was determined to play with other children at her age and soon learned to walk using her hands.

At the age of 6, Tatyana was adopted by a family and she began her new life in Baltimore. She developed a keen interest in sports and took up wheelchair racing at just eight years old. She quickly showed promise in sport, and by the age of 15, she had already competed in her first Summer Paralympics, taking home a silver and a bronze medal. Since then, she has achieved huge success, winning 7 Paralympic golds and becoming the first person ever to complete a Grand Slam of marathons by winning the Chicago, Boston, New York and London marathons in the same year in 2013. She was also named the 'Female Athlete of the Year' by the International Paralympic Committee in both 2013 and 2014.

In spite of the challenges she has faced, Tatyana has achieved incredible success in sports and has become a role model for aspiring athletes all over the world. Her story teaches us that any obstacles can be overcome if we have enough dedication and determination.

- 1 Tatyana McFadden is among the best _____ who has competed for the USA.
- 2 She is unable to walk as a result of a(n) _____ that she was born with.
- 3 Nobody had ever won a marathon _____ in 12 months until Tatyana did it in 2013.
- 4 Tatyana is a(n) _____ to those who want to become professional sportspeople.

From Cave Walls to Social Media Walls

In today's world, we have different kinds of media available to us at all times, but did you know that the history of media actually goes back millennia?

The word "media" refers to the different ways in which people transmit information. By this definition, we can say with confidence that human beings created the first type of media around 64,000 years ago when we first began painting simplistic 1 _____ on the walls of caves. Since then, the more we have evolved, the more advanced our media have become.

According to experts, it was sometime around 3,400 BC when human beings first began utilising written language as a means of communication. For 2 _____, apart from verbal communication, people had to write everything manually until the mid-1440s. It was Johannes Gutenberg 3 _____ revolutionised media when he created an invention called the printing press. This marked the beginning of what we now call 'mass media.' Gutenberg's innovative invention made print media like books, newspapers and magazines at a large scale and 4 _____ information with a wider audience than ever before.

Several hundred years after the invention of the printing press, during the 19th century, we created cameras and later, the radio. The invention of the radio began the age of broadcast media, and the development of television swiftly followed it. This allowed 5 _____ people to watch fascinating movies, programmes and documentaries, all of which remain popular today.

In the 2000s, we saw the rise of digital media. Now, we visit web pages, listen to podcasts, stream music and communicate on social media using our smartphones. We even use QR codes to share information instantly. We have come a long way, and so have the ways we communicate!

- millennia • transmit • evolve • utilise
- revolutionise • mass media • innovative

- 2 a) 1.41 Listen and read the dialogue. What is it about?

Ben: What are you reading?
 Sam: It's an article about social media. Guess what? Around 54% of teens rely on social media as their primary source of news.
 Ben: Really? You're joking!
 Sam: Yes, and to make matters worse, there's so much false news on social media.
 Ben: That's terrible indeed! But what can we do?
 Sam: Well, schools could teach them to do background research and check the sources of information they read online.
 Ben: I completely agree. Everyone should learn how to spot false news.

- b) Think Which of the underlined phrases/sentences in the dialogue are used for narrating the news?/reacting to the news? Think of more similar phrases/sentences.

- 3 You have read an online article that says, 'Only 39% of teens believe the news shared by celebrities on social media is accurate.' Act out a dialogue similar to the one in Exercise 2a. Use the diagram below. Mind the intonation and rhythm.

Pronunciation

Words with no stress

In a sentence, content words (nouns, main verbs, adjectives, adverbs, etc.) are often stressed, while function words (pronouns, auxiliary verbs, prepositions, articles, etc.) are not.

I usually use social media and personal messages to keep in touch with my friends.

Longevity Celebrations

Honouring the Elderly across Cultures

In many cultures around the world, reaching an advanced age is a significant event. In South Korea, Mexico and India, people mark their 60th birthdays with special ceremonies, feasts and gatherings of their loved ones.

South Korea 🇰🇷

In South Korea, a person's 60th birthday is particularly important and is celebrated with a special ceremony called Hwangap. This ceremony involves children and younger relatives bowing to their elderly family members and wishing them well. The birthday person then shares a meal with their family, which includes traditional foods such as rice cakes and 'miyeok guk,' a kind of seaweed soup.

Mexico 🇲🇽

In Mexico, a person's 60th birthday is known as la fiesta de sesenta cumpleaños. This celebration often involves a religious ceremony in which the person receives a blessing from their local priest. Family and friends give their 60-year-old relative gifts before gathering for a feast of delicious Mexican foods. It's traditional to eat 'mole,' a rich sauce made with chilli peppers and chocolate, and 'pastel de tres leches,' a sponge cake soaked in three different types of milk.

India 🇮🇳

In some parts of India, a person's 60th birthday is celebrated with a special ceremony known as Sashti Poorthi. The ceremony involves a prayer ritual to honour the birthday person and wish them health and prosperity. Family and friends gather for a feast of traditional Indian foods like lentil soup and a rice, vegetable and meat dish called 'Biryani.' Usually, people offer gold jewellery as gifts to show respect and honour.

Celebrations of longevity are an important reminder of the values of our elders and the wisdom they have gained over a lifetime. These occasions provide an opportunity for people to come together and express their gratitude to honoured family members such as parents or grandparents.

- feast • religious • blessing
- ritual • prosperity

Preserving cultural identity

- 1 a) 2.10 Fill in each gap with recreate, maintain, ancestral, assemble, attire or engage. Then listen and check.

Having a strong sense of cultural identity is important because it helps us to understand ourselves and the world around us. The following are ways to preserve one's cultural identity.

- 1 _____ in cultural traditions like customs, events and festivals
- 2 wear traditional _____ from home country
- 3 speak the _____ language
- 4 _____ strong connections with other members of the cultural community
- 5 _____ family recipes to preserve traditional cuisine
- 6 _____ on ordinary occasions, not just on holidays

- b) Which of the ways in Exercise 1a do you use to preserve your cultural identity? Can you think of any others?

Everyday English

Making suggestions

- 2 a) 2.11 Listen and read the dialogue. What are the teens talking about?

Tom: OK, so we need to come up with some ideas for the class presentation on preserving cultural identity next week. What are your thoughts?

Jen: It might be a good idea to discuss the importance of recreating family recipes and engaging in cultural traditions.

Tom: Your suggestion sounds good, but I suggest we talk about the importance of speaking ancestral languages because I think language is one of the most important cultural identifiers.

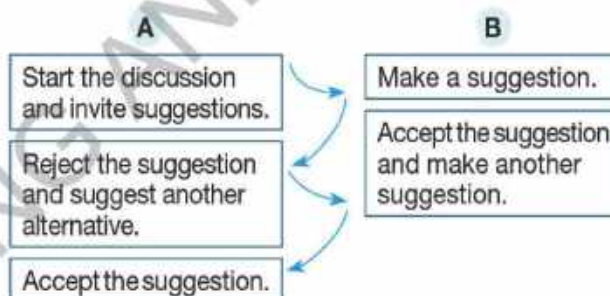

Jen: I couldn't agree with you more. However, we have limited time to present our points, so we should just pick two. I think we should focus on engaging in cultural traditions and speaking ancestral languages.

Tom: OK. Let's do that.

- b) Think Which of the underlined phrases/sentences are used for asking for suggestions?/ making suggestions?/accepting suggestions?/ rejecting suggestions?

- c) Replace the underlined phrases/sentences with Don't you think it is a good idea to ...?/What are your suggestions?/That's a good point, but .../I see what you mean./Perhaps, we should ... Think of more similar phrases/sentences.

- 3 You are thinking of possible ways to preserve cultural identity for a school presentation. Act out a similar dialogue to the one in Exercise 2a. Use the diagram below. Mind the intonation and rhythm.

A leaflet

1 a) Read the leaflet. What is it about?

This annual three-day festival takes place on the last weekend of August and celebrates Caribbean cultural diversity in the UK. Our lively carnival takes place on the streets of the Notting Hill area, in West London, and is a great way to learn about one of London's many vibrant cultural communities.

There are such many cultural activities to do at the festival that you feel as though you were in the Caribbean! Watch the parade, for example, or even take part in it! Watch eye-catching dance performances and listen to lively traditional music at the UK's biggest steelpan band competition!

The delicious aroma of Caribbean cuisine is in the air here. Try traditional foods like spicy jerk chicken, goat curry and corn on the cob. Savour these dishes with some smooth carrot juice on the side while you're enjoying the festivities, or pair them with traditional British foods so you can create delicious combinations.

The carnival begins at 10 a.m. and ends at about 7 p.m.

The carnival is free to attend although you may need tickets for some popular shows. The steelpan competition is £20 for adults and £7 for children.

The event is a leisurely 15-minute walk from Bayswater Underground Station. Look out for bus number 7 or 18 to get there. There are accessible parking spaces available and 42 toilet facilities in the area.

b) Read the leaflet again and fill in each missing heading with Opening hours, Prices, Activities, Conveniences, Foods & Drinks or Dates & Location.

When writing a leaflet, we should:

- write a catchy title and give detailed information under headings to make it interesting to the readers.
- use descriptive adjectives and the imperative.
- use the five senses (sight, hearing, smell, taste and touch) to describe places vividly.

Visitors can enjoy the city's fantastic view. (sight)

You can listen to beautiful folk music. (hearing)

You will notice the aroma of delicious dishes. (smell)

Experience the flavours of Indian cuisine. (taste)

The bazaar has the softest silk scarves. (touch)

2 a) Read the leaflet again and find the descriptive words that have similar meaning to the words below.

- 1 yearly: _____
- 2 energetic: _____
- 3 tasty: _____
- 4 hot: _____
- 5 well-liked: _____
- 6 easy: _____

b) Find the words/phrases in the text that refer to the senses.

Your turn

3 PLANNING You are going to write a leaflet about another festival. Answer the questions.

- 1 What festival are you going to write about?
- 2 What six headings are you going to use?
- 3 What details are you going to write for each heading?

4 WRITING Write your leaflet (about 180–200 words).

Plan

Dates & Location: writing about the dates and location

Activities: writing about a list of festival activities

Foods & Drinks: writing what you can eat or drink

Opening hours: writing about the start and the end times

Prices: writing about the price list

Conveniences: writing about directions and special features

5 CHECK/CORRECT Check your leaflet for spelling/grammar mistakes. Then, in pairs, swap your leaflets and check each other's work.

- 1 Read the title and look at the picture. What do you know about this festival?

Katê Festival

Cultural diversity is a vital aspect of any society, and festivals of ethnic groups play an essential role in preserving the cultural identity of a community. Embracing cultural values through festivals is an important way of staying connected with one community as well as its history and traditions, and a well-known Katê Festival of the Châm people in Vietnam is an example to prove so.

The Katê Festival, also known as Mbăng Katê, is the biggest yearly festival for the Châm people in Vietnam. It is a special time of year when they honour important figures in their history and the dead in their families. The Katê Festival takes place on the first day of the seventh month in the Châm calendar, usually in September or October. It lasts for three days and takes place around three important ancient structures in Ninh Thuận Province: the Po Klaung Yăgrai Tower, the Po Romé Tower and the Po Inú Nagar Temple. All of these places are very important to Champa culture and history.

On the morning of the first day, Châm families take part in processions as they travel to the towers and temple, bringing gifts of fruit, meat and rice. In a special ceremony, the Châm people receive the costumes of the Goddess Po Nagar from the Raglai people, a cultural group with close connections to Champa culture. The Châm carry the costumes to the temple to celebrate Po Nagar, then they open the gates. Inside the temple, they start bathing the statues of important figures and watching sacred dances. After those performances, people enjoy lively parties until the evening of the festival's second day.

On the last day, people make special offerings to their gods at community houses in their villages and pray for luck and good health for the coming year. Once this is over, there are traditional music performances, and then people do fun activities like playing football and participating in weaving competitions.

The Katê Festival is a popular celebration of the Châm people's traditional culture and beliefs. It is not only an important event in the Châm calendar but also a symbol of the Châm community's unity and rich cultural heritage.

- 2 Read the text again and complete the sentences (1–5). Write NO MORE THAN THREE WORDS from the text for each answer.

- The Katê Festival happens at the start of the seventh month of the _____.
- The Châm people get the costumes of Goddess Po Nagar in a _____.
- At the temple, the Châm people bathe statues and observe _____.
- The end of the festival involves sports, crafts and _____.
- The festival is a strong representation of the togetherness and _____ of Châm ethnic group.

Being a Responsible Digital Citizen

VIDEO

These days, digital technology is a major part of everyday life for all of us, and we use it for almost everything, from work to school and entertainment. Therefore, with everyone spending so much time connected to the Internet and using digital devices, it's important that we all understand how to be responsible digital citizens in the modern world. But what exactly does that mean?

A responsible digital citizen is someone who uses technology in a sensible way and encourages others to do the same. They are careful about their online behaviour and always try to be as polite as possible, which helps others to avoid having negative experiences online. Responsible digital citizens respect other people's privacy, too. They don't post pictures of others or discuss people's personal lives without their permission because that could harm their online security. In this way, digital citizens help others to feel safer and more comfortable in the digital world.

Responsible digital citizens are also aware of the potential risks of being online. They understand that there are fake websites and online scams which try to access people's personal information to hack into their social media accounts or even bank accounts. When a digital citizen encounters one of these online scams, they should report it to the cyber police to stop this behaviour from happening. By doing this, digital citizens play an important role in making the Internet a safer place for all users.

While many of us know how to use digital technology safely these days, we should remember that there are many other people who are still at risk. By being responsible digital citizens, we can help everyone gain the benefits of the digital world without putting themselves or others at risk.

• responsible • digital citizen • sensible

- D The number of online scams is increasing.
- E Digital citizens teach others how to recognise scams.
- F Reporting scams to the cyber police helps stop them.

- 2 Which TWO advantages of being a responsible digital citizen does the writer mention?

- A It helps people to become better at using technology.
- B It helps people to feel at ease online.
- C It helps people to spot a fake website.
- D It helps to protect people from online crimes.
- E It helps people to communicate online more easily.

New Year Celebrations AROUND the WORLD

The beginning of a New Year is an important time for people everywhere and New Year celebrations differ from place to place. Here are some interesting New Year celebrations from different parts of the globe!

Japan

The New Year celebration in Japan, called Shogatsu, takes place on 1st January. Families clean their homes in a practice called Osoji in order that they get rid of bad luck from the previous year. They also decorate their homes with traditional, handmade ornaments to create a festive atmosphere.

On New Year's Eve, or Omisoka, they eat 'toshikoshi soba', a buckwheat noodle soup, and watch a live musical programme called 'Kohaku Uta Gassen' on TV. Then, they gather at their local temple, where they ring the temple bell 108 times. They believe this helps to remove their negative desires and refresh their souls before they welcome the new year.

On New Year's Day, many Japanese people visit shrines called 'Hatsumode' to pray for good health, fortune and prosperity. It is a special time for families to think about the past 12 months and plan for new beginnings.

Denmark

In Denmark, New Year's Eve is on the last day of December. After people listen to the Queen's New Year speech on New Year's Eve, they throw old glasses and plates against the doors of friends and family so they can get rid of bad spirits. They also have another special tradition where people stand on chairs and jump off them together at midnight. This means that they are leaping into the new year hoping for good luck. On New Year's Eve, Danish people typically eat a very tall traditional cake called 'Kransekage' before eating boiled codfish with mustard sauce on 1st January.

Brazil

In Brazil, 31st December is an important time of celebration. At this time of year, it is traditional for people to wear white clothing and attend lively beach parties while they enjoy spectacular firework displays. People get together with families and friends and eat traditional foods like lentils and pomegranate seeds. The number seven is considered lucky in Brazilian culture, so people eat seven pomegranate seeds before midnight for good luck. Then, at the beach, they jump over seven waves, making a hopeful new year wish for each wave.

THE URBAN SHIFT

Global urbanisation has increased significantly in recent decades, and one of the main drivers of this growth has been rural migration. More and more people are moving to the city from the countryside each year. Half of the world's population already resides in cities, and by 2050, experts predict that number to reach as high as two-thirds. Many factors contribute to this global phenomenon, which then gives rise to various issues.

There are many push factors which force people away from rural life. For example, rural residents have fewer employment options because there aren't many large companies nearby. What's more, rural jobs are mainly related to agriculture, so crop failure due to natural disasters can make it difficult to earn a good living. By contrast, there are pull factors that attract people to urban life. Urban areas have more industries, so people can easily get good jobs and achieve a higher standard of living. Cities also offer entertainment alternatives, such as theme parks and sporting and musical events, allowing urban citizens to access leisure activities easily.

In the process of urbanisation, rural migration causes various far-reaching impacts on the environment and urban citizens. First, deforestation occurs when city governments have forests cut down to build accommodation for new residents, which harms the environment and reduces air quality. As growing populations result in more deforestation and pollution, the air quality worsens, which can lead to health issues for residents. Second, due to population expansion, cities are struggling to offer adequate public facilities for urban people. As a result, some low-income people are unable to obtain the necessary affordable housing and end up living in slums, where the quality of life is very poor.

As a complicated process, the causes and the effects of rural migration should be fully comprehended. By carefully planning city development and suitable social policies, we can provide urban citizens with good public services, exciting job opportunities and a high quality of life without harming the environment.

 E _____ staying here in my village.
 F _____ reducing traffic congestion in the city centre.

4 Make sentences using these verbs and your own ideas.

• prepare • suffer • graduate • deal
 • dream • depend • wait • arrive

Causatives: HAVE and GET

We use causatives to mention that someone causes another person to do something.

- We use active causatives when we want to focus on the person who does the action.
have + object (person) + infinitive without to get + object (person) + to-infinitive

The city council had the electricians replace the old traffic lights.

The city council got the electricians to replace the old traffic lights.

(The city council didn't replace the old traffic lights; the electricians did it for them.)

- We use passive causatives when we don't want to focus on the person who does the action.

have/get + object (thing) + past participle (+ by + object)

The city council had/got the old traffic lights replaced (by the electricians).

p. 123

5 Rewrite the sentences using active causatives. Write in your notebook.

- The mayor hired workers to construct a new high-rise building.
The mayor had workers construct/got workers to construct a new high-rise building.
- The residents asked the plumber to clean the water pipes in their building.
- The government asked the city planner to create a new infrastructure plan.
- Emma wanted Stephen to mention the lack of recreational activities in his letter to city officials.

6 Rewrite the sentences using passive causatives. Write in your notebook.

- The city clerk asked the mechanic to repair the city bus.
The city clerk had/got the city bus repaired.
- The city government hired experts to check pollution levels in industrial areas.
- The mayor paid a construction company to build the new recreational centre last year.
- The park manager will ask workers to replace the old benches because they are worn down.

7 Choose the correct option.

- Sarah got the electricity company _____ the damaged street light near her house.
A to fix B fix C fixing D fixed
- The city officials had the city planner _____ a new bus route.
A design B to design C designing D designed
- I wonder when the government will get a new metro system _____ to reduce traffic congestion in this area.
A builds B built C building D to build
- The manager of the high-rise building _____ last month.
A had sanitation facilities improve B got sanitation facilities to improve C had improved sanitation facilities D had sanitation facilities improved

8 Complete the second sentence so that it means the same as the first one.

- The farmer paid for a local builder to construct a greenhouse to protect his crops.
The farmer had a local builder _____ his crops.
- Jake has a busy job in the city, so he hires someone to clean his flat once a week.
Jake has a busy job in the city, so he gets his flat _____.
- Local people hired some gardeners to plant more trees in the park to improve air quality.
Local people had more trees _____ air quality.

9 A park manager hired workers to renovate the local park last month. Match the items in column A to the verbs in column B and make sentences using causatives.

TO DO List Local Park
A	B
• park	• clean
• grass	• cut
• flowers	• clear
• rubbish	• plant
• fences	• sweep
• pavements	• paint

The park manager had workers clean/got workers to clean the park.

The park manager had/got the park cleaned.

Listening

Short answer questions

- Read the instructions carefully. Pay attention to how many words and/or numbers you are allowed to write.
- Read the questions and underline the key words. Pay attention to the question words (When, Which, What, Where, etc.). This will help you focus on what to listen to.
- Predict the possible answers.
- While listening, take notes on key information to answer the questions.

1 What are some of the issues in rural areas? What actions should the government take to deal with them?

2 2.22 Listen to a talk about a new rural development plan and answer the questions (1–6). Write NO MORE THAN THREE WORDS AND/OR A NUMBER for each answer.

When will the new rural development plan be implemented?

Which TWO issues will the plan deal with?

What assistance will the council provide to those who want to start businesses in rural places?

Name TWO public services the local government plans to improve in rural areas.

True/False statements

3 a) You are going to listen to a dialogue between two friends. Read the sentences (1–4) and underline the key words.

- 1 Eric has not encountered the term "megacity" before. _____
- 2 In some cases, megacities contain two or more smaller cities. _____
- 3 Chicago is expected to become a megacity. _____
- 4 Sophia would like to live in a megacity permanently. _____

b) 2.23 What do you think the dialogue is about? Listen and check.

- A The impact of urbanisation on megacities.
- B The rise of megacities around the world.
- C The quality of life for people in megacities.
- D The future problems that megacities will face.

4 2.23 Listen to the dialogue again and decide if each of the statements (1–4) is (T) true or false (F).

FUN Time

Look at the picture. Circle the correct phrasal verb.

- come up with: think of an idea
- come down with: to get an illness that is not very serious

Everyday English

Agreeing/disagreeing/expressing doubt

- 2 a) 2.25 Listen and read the dialogue. What are Laura and John talking about?

Laura: Hey John, what do you think about urbanisation?

John: To be honest, I don't support it.

Laura: Why not? Don't you think urbanisation leads to better education systems and improved career options for young people?

John: No doubt about that. However, urbanisation increases competition for jobs.

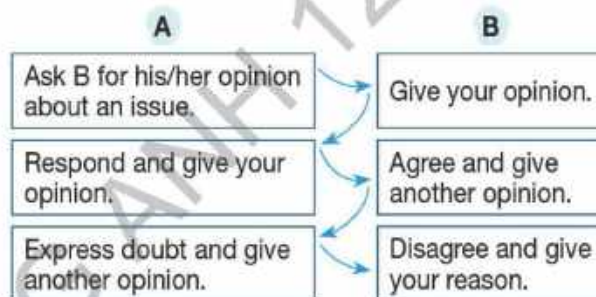

Laura: Maybe ... but don't you agree that cities provide a better quality of life in general?

John: That's not how I see it. Smog and overcrowding are real problems. I believe it's better to have small cities than big ones.

- b) Think Which of the underlined phrases/sentences are used for agreeing?/disagreeing?/expressing doubts?

- c) Replace the underlined phrases/sentences with It's possible, I didn't think of it that way and I couldn't agree with you more. Think of more similar phrases/sentences.

- 3 Act out a dialogue similar to the one in Exercise 2a. Use the diagram below. Mind the intonation and rhythm.

Pronunciation

An advantage and disadvantage essay

1 Read Emily's essay. What is it about?

A Urbanisation is a global phenomenon of growing urban areas that has occurred for a variety of reasons. The growth of industries, rural migration and government policies are just a few of the factors that contribute to urbanisation. However, is this phenomenon advantageous or disadvantageous?

B On the one hand, urbanisation has several advantages. One of the advantages is that it creates well-developed urban areas with rapid transit systems, good educational and medical facilities, and recreational facilities, all of which provide convenience and a higher standard of living. Another advantage is that urban areas typically serve as technological advancement hubs, attracting many skilled professionals to work and drive technological advancement.

C On the other hand, there are some disadvantages to urbanisation. The main drawback is that rapid urbanisation can lead to overcrowding, traffic congestion and a decrease in the quality of public services. Consequently, this makes life difficult for people who usually depend on them. An additional disadvantage is the difficulty that low-income families have in locating affordable housing options due to the high cost of housing. As a result, many of them are forced to relocate to slums with poor housing and inadequate necessities.

D All in all, while there are drawbacks to urbanisation, it is a necessary modern trend that people must adapt to. Urban planning, facility investment and social policies aimed at reducing negative consequences are examples of efforts to address the challenges of urbanisation.

2 In which paragraph does Emily ...

- 1 mentions disadvantages with explanations/examples? _____
- 2 summarises the main points and gives her opinion? _____
- 3 presents the topic? _____
- 4 mentions advantages with explanations/examples? _____

3 Replace the phrases in bold Emily used in her essay with those from the Useful Language box.

Useful Language

Introducing advantages/disadvantages

- One of the benefits is ...
- An additional advantage is ...
- The main disadvantage is ...
- Another/a further drawback/negative aspect is ...

4 Match the advantages and disadvantages (1–4) to the explanations/examples (A–D). Then make sentences as in the example. Use appropriate language.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 | high populations in urban areas |
| 2 | exciting job opportunities in urban areas |
| 3 | higher costs of living in urban areas |
| 4 | more conveniences of living in urban areas |

- A Major companies have offices in urban areas.
 B People can access shops, theatres and restaurants easily.
 C People must deal with overcrowding and heavy traffic.
 D Rents and other services can be very expensive.

One of the benefits is that there are exciting job opportunities in urban areas. This is because major companies have offices there.

Powering the Future

As we continue to face the impacts of climate change, having a green environment has become increasingly important to the future of our society. To achieve this, the world is shifting towards green energy, and two particular types of energy at the centre of this movement are solar power and wind power.

Solar power is all about harnessing the energy of the sun by using solar panels to convert sunlight into usable electricity. This highly efficient form of energy produces zero emissions, so it can significantly reduce our carbon footprint. Moreover, solar panels are perfect for installation on a small scale, such as in private homes, since they require very little maintenance and have a long lifespan. However, the ability to generate solar power depends on the time of day and weather conditions. This means that solar panels are often less useful if they are installed in places where sunny weather is not typical.

Wind power, on the other hand, involves converting the energy of the wind into electricity using large turbines. Wind power doesn't produce any greenhouse gases, but it is not ideal for private use since turbines require consistent care. However, wind farms can be installed on a large scale and are able to produce electricity continuously regardless of the time of day. This means that if there were more investments in wind power, it could be a viable way to provide energy for major cities and even for whole regions.

Wind and solar power contribute significantly to a green environment by reducing our reliance on fossil fuels, helping us cut down on pollution and slow climate change. Additionally, using renewable energy sources helps promote spending on sustainable development by creating new career opportunities in the green energy sector.

For now, the biggest challenge of adopting green energy is the costs associated with installation and infrastructure, but the benefits unquestionably outweigh the downsides. If we want to stop the climate crisis and create a better and more sustainable future, green energy sources will undoubtedly be the key.

- 2 Read the text. For questions (1–3), choose the best answers (A, B, C or D).

- According to paragraph 2, what is TRUE about solar power?
 - They create fewer emissions.
 - They contribute to our carbon footprint.
 - They aren't well suited to personal use.
 - They can be used for long periods.
- According to paragraph 4, what is NOT mentioned regarding wind and solar power?
 - They make us reliant on green energy.
 - They help combat climate change.
 - They encourage investment in green energy.
 - They create new jobs for people.
- What can be inferred from the last paragraph of the text?
 - The downsides of green energy could soon outweigh the benefits.
 - Green energy will enhance green living.
 - Green energy costs are rising.
 - There exists little infrastructure for renewable energy at present.

• harness • convert • installation
• maintenance • consistent • viable
• spending • sustainable • sector • adopt

pp. 106–107

- 3 Read the text again. Write S (solar panels) or W (wind turbines). Which kind of green energy technology ...

- produces significantly more energy in some places than others? _____
- needs to be maintained on a regular basis? _____
- can be used continuously? _____
- provides a consistent source of power? _____
- is best suited to powering large areas? _____

Which of the energy sources mentioned in the text is most suited to your area? Why?

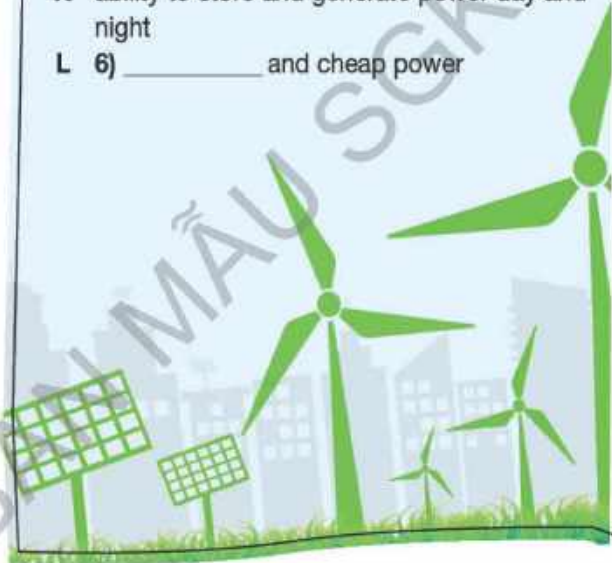

Vocabulary

Advantages of renewable energy

- 5 a) 2.31 Fill in each gap with affordable, permanent, dependence, harness, abundant or maintenance. Then listen and check.

Wind and solar energy are crucial parts of the world's vision for the future. Here are a few of the amazing advantages of using wind and solar energy.

- A 1) _____ free source of electricity
 B significantly lower energy bills in winter
 C more 2) _____ to install
 D minimal operational and 3) _____ costs
 E silent and space-saving
 F ability to 4) _____ electricity in sunny areas
 G recyclable and reusable panels
 H turbines functional in various settings
 I reduced 5) _____ on fossil fuel supplies
 J energy production beneficial to local communities
 K ability to store and generate power day and night
 L 6) _____ and cheap power

- b) Which advantages (A–L) in Exercise 5a are related to wind energy and which to solar energy? Which are related to both? Can you think of other advantages?

- 6 a) 2.32 Choose the correct option. Then listen and check.

Renewable energy sources have developed quickly over the past decades, resulting in undeniable benefits for humans and the global environment. Here are some of the advantages of renewable energy in comparison with fossil fuels.

Renewable energy sources ...

- are infinite energy sources that won't be 1) depleted/depletion.
- emit few harmful 2) pollutants/pollution.
- are not 3) impact/impactful to the environment.
- are reliable and 4) consisting/consistent sources.
- aid in the 5) reduction/reduced of global healthcare costs.
- promote economic development through the manufacturing and 6) install/installation of green energy technology.
- result in more 7) prediction/predictable energy prices.
- reduce dependence on 8) importation/imported fuels.

- b) Think Can you think of other advantages? Tell your partner.

VALUE GREEN ENERGY

Do you agree with the following statements? Why/Why not?

Green energy ...

- improves people's quality of life.
- is an expensive long-term energy solution.
- is an environmentally friendly energy solution.

Conditionals types 1 and 2

- 1  Match the sentences (1–3) to their uses (a–c). Then say which type of conditional each one is.

- 1 ☐ If I were you, I would switch from the petrol car to an electric one.
 2 ☐ If we used LED light bulbs, our electric bills wouldn't be that high.
 3 ☐ If I have free time this weekend, I will go to the green energy club with you.

- a real situations that are likely to happen in the present/future
 b unreal or imaginary situations in the present/future
 c giving advice

pp. 123–124

- 2  Choose the correct option.

- 1 We ____ fewer greenhouse gases if we weren't so reliant on fossil fuels for transport.
 A will produce B produced
 C produce D would produce
 2 If we ____ less fossil fuel, we would create fewer emissions.
 A use B used
 C will use D would use
 3 I will attend the green energy seminar this weekend if I ____ time.
 A had B have
 C will have D would have
 4 ____ fewer environmental pollutants if everyone used hydroelectric power?
 A Would there be B Were there
 C Will there be D Are there
 5 We ____ our dependence on imported fuels unless we use alternative energy sources.
 A wouldn't reduce B won't reduce
 C don't reduce D didn't reduce 6 We would have some wind turbines here in my village if they ____ so much maintenance.
 A don't require B won't require
 C didn't require D wouldn't require 7 If ____, I would install solar panels on the roof of my home.
 A I were you B I will be you
 C I weren't you D I would be you

-  Choose the option (A, B, C or D) to indicate the underlined part that needs correction.

- 1 We will have more wind turbines now if they weren't so expensive.
 A B C D
 2 If Mandy would be prime minister next year, she would invest more money in tidal energy.
 A B C D
 3 She will cycle to her office tomorrow unless it rained.
 A B C D
 4 If we will start a carpool next month, we will be able to reduce our carbon footprint.
 A B C D
 5 Unless we don't invest in green energy sources, we will continue to rely on non-renewable sources.

-  Rewrite the sentences for each situation, using conditional type 1 or 2. Write in your notebook.

- 1 People don't want to use fossil fuels because they create emissions.
If fossil fuels didn't create emissions, people would use them. / People would use fossil fuels if they didn't create emissions.
 2 Susan is ill now, so she won't attend the seminar on green energy tonight.
 3 I have to work on my project on geothermal power, so I won't come to your house.
 4 This motorbike uses petrol, so we won't buy it.
 5 Fiona wants to buy an electric bike, but she needs to save enough money first.

-  Complete the sentences using conditional type 1 or 2. Make them true for you. Tell your partner.

- 1 If I have time today, _____
 2 If I lived closer to my school, _____
 3 If I were a leader of my country, _____
 4 If I _____
 5 If _____

Conditional type 3

CONDITIONAL TYPE 3 (THIRD CONDITIONAL)

If-clause	main clause
If + Past Perfect	would/wouldn't + have + past participle

- We use conditional type 3 to talk about unreal or imaginary situations in the past.
If I had installed solar cells earlier last month, the electricity bill would not have been that high. (I didn't install solar cells last month, so the electricity bill was high.)
- We also use conditional type 3 to express regrets or criticism.
If you had been more careful, you would have saved more energy at home.

p. 124

6 Put the verbs in brackets into the correct forms of conditional type 3.

- Jason would have come to the talk on geothermal energy if we _____ (tell) him about our plans.
- If I had known that product was bad for the environment, I _____ (not/choose) it.
- If they _____ (switch) to using wind energy earlier, they would have saved a lot of money.
- We _____ (not/buy) this car if we had realised that it could produce lots of pollution.
- Ann would have purchased solar panels for her home if she _____ (be) able to afford them.
- I _____ (not/know) about how biomass energy works if I hadn't watched the video.

7 Rewrite the sentences for each situation using conditional type 3. Write in your notebook.

- I didn't know the lights were on and that's why I didn't turn them off.
If I had known the lights were on, I would have turned them off. / I would have turned the lights off if I had known they were on.

- They used so much electricity and that's why their bill was so high.
- Maria went to the conference on hydroelectric power late because she forgot to check the timetable.
- We learnt that the car wasn't solar-powered, so we didn't buy it.
- I stopped using coal to heat my home last year, and it has become eco-friendly since then.

8 Choose the correct option.

- If I had known about the importance of green energy, I _____ it from the start.
A will support B would support
C would have supported D supported
- If I were elected to the city council, I _____ a push for more sustainable energy initiatives.
A will make B would make
C would have made D made
- If we don't take steps to address climate change, we _____ the consequences soon.
A had faced B would face
C would have faced D will face
- If we continue to use fossil fuels, we _____ our planet.
A would have damaged B damaged
C would damage D will damage
- Unless we _____ energy, the energy crisis will become worse.
A conserve B don't conserve
C didn't conserve D conserved
- If I _____ you were interested in geothermal power, I would have invited you to the talk about it yesterday.
A knew B have known
C had known D know

9 Make sentences that are true about you using conditional type 1, 2 or 3.

If I save enough money, I will purchase an electric bike to reduce my carbon footprint.
If I were my sister, I would join the green living club at the school.
Last week, if I had known about the workshop on tidal energy, I would have attended.

Multiple choice

Environmental problems & Solutions

- 1 a) 2.35 Match the environmental problems (1–6) to the solutions (a–f). Then listen and check.

Environmental problems

1 ☐	soil pollution	4 ☐	energy crisis
2 ☐	polluted rivers	5 ☐	water shortage
3 ☐	energy waste	6 ☐	overloaded landfills

Solutions

- a conserve electricity
- b reduce water wastage
- c maintain and develop renewable energy sources
- d replace disposable items with reusable ones
- e improve wastewater treatment
- f avoid using harmful chemicals in farming

- b) Can you think of other solutions to the problems (1–6)?

Expressing concerns & Making suggestions

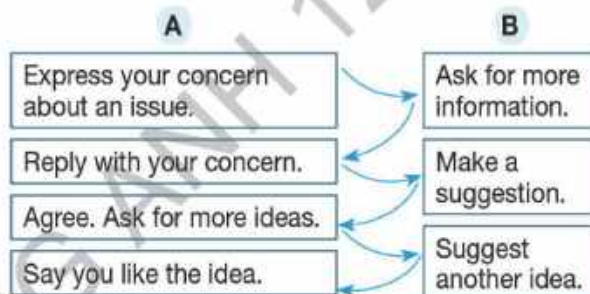

- 2 a) 2.36 Listen and read the dialogue. What are Ben's suggestions about overloaded landfills?

Ann: I have concerns regarding the waste our town produces. It could cause some serious issues soon.
 Ben: What do you mean?
 Ann: It's worrying that there's so much rubbish in the local landfill now. Something needs to change before they become overloaded.
 Ben: What do you think if we make posters to raise awareness of the problem in our community?
 Ann: That's a start. What else can we do?
 Ben: It might be a good idea to replace disposal items like plastic cups with reusable ones to reduce waste.
 Ann: Great idea!

- b) Think Which of the underlined phrases are used for expressing concerns?/making suggestions?

- c) Replace the underlined phrases with I propose that, I find it concerning that, I have some worries about and It would be wise to. Think of more similar phrases.

- 3 Act out a dialogue similar to the one in Exercise 2a. Use the diagram below. Mind the intonation and rhythm

Linking vowels to vowels

In spoken English, when one word ends with a vowel sound and the next word begins with a vowel sound, a /j/, /w/ or /r/ sound is often added to link the words.

dirty air /j/ go outdoors /w/ four and five /r/

- 4 2.37 Listen and repeat. Which sound is added in each pair of words in each sentence? Practise saying them.

- I am planning to attend a beach clean up the day after tomorrow.
- It was the mayor who organised the meeting to explore green energy solutions.
- Do you know any shops where I can buy energy-efficient appliances?
- It's so easy to generate solar power in places where it's sunny every day.

An essay suggesting solutions to a problem

1 Read the essay. What is it about?

Ending the Energy Crisis!

A The climate crisis, which threatens both the global economy and the environment, is undoubtedly one of the most concerning issues of the twenty-first century. With energy demand increasing year after year, it is critical that we find solutions to this problem. So, what are some suitable solutions?

B The first suggestion is that we should reduce our energy consumption. For example, we should turn off lights and electronics when they are not in use. We need to switch from traditional bulbs to more efficient alternatives that use less power and last much longer. This would result in lower energy demand and consumption.

C Another useful suggestion would be to invest in renewable energy sources. In particular, if we could install more wind farms and solar power stations, we would reduce our reliance on fossil fuels. They also provide a clean source of renewable energy and boost economic growth.

D Overall, reducing energy consumption and investing in renewable energy sources are important solutions to the energy crisis. If we take these steps, we will be able to help protect the environment and ensure a more sustainable future. Why not start reducing our energy consumption today?

2 Read the essay again. Which paragraph ...

- includes the writer's first suggestion and expected results? _____
- states the topic? _____
- summarises main points and expresses an opinion? _____
- includes the writer's second suggestion and expected results? _____

To make our essays coherent and easy to follow, we use:

- transitional words or phrases: Firstly, Secondly, In addition, As a result, To sum up, The first suggestion is that ..., etc.
- pronouns: it, this, that, these, etc.

3 Read the essay again. Underline the transitional words/phrases and pronouns.

4 Match the solutions (1–2) to the examples (a–b) and expected results (c–d).

Solutions

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 | Eliminate technology that wastes energy |
| 2 | Upgrade to green homes |

Examples

- a Build homes with solar panels and energy-saving insulation
- b Replace older appliances with energy-efficient models

Expected results

- c Less reliance on fossil fuels and lower energy bills
- d Less energy wasted and a decreased carbon footprint

Your turn

5 PLANNING You will submit an English essay to your school magazine suggesting solutions to our society's energy inefficiency problem. Answer the questions.

- 1 What are you going to write? Who for?

Building a Greener Future for Vietnam

The Centre for Energy and Green Growth Research (CEGR), established in 1998, is a non-profit research and consulting organisation that aims at promoting sustainable development in Vietnam. 1

The first goal of CEGR is to promote renewable energy sources. CEGR has been working closely with the government, private sectors and civil societies to promote policies and initiatives that encourage the growth of renewable energy in Vietnam. For example, CEGR has played a vital role in developing wind power in Vietnam. In 2019, the country added 376 MW of wind power capacity, with over 80% of the capacity located in the central and southern regions of the country. CEGR has actively developed policies and strategies to promote wind power. 2

In addition, CEGR has been actively promoting sustainable development in Vietnam. It has developed sustainable transport strategies for the country in order to reduce greenhouse emissions. 3 Furthermore, CEGR has assisted Vietnamese farmers in developing sustainable agricultural practices to reduce emissions and improve energy efficiency.

Overall, CEGR's contributions in Vietnam have been significant, and the organisation's work has had a major positive impact on the country's energy sector. Its efforts have aided in the increased use of renewable energy sources and the promotion of sustainable development practices, both of which will have long-term benefits for the environment and Vietnam's economy.

COUNTER-URBANISATION

Challenges and Opportunities

Counter-urbanisation, the 1) ____ of people migrating from urban areas to live in rural ones, has become increasingly common in Vietnam in recent years. To illustrate, a number of people have decided to leave bustling cities like Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City for rural areas. Counter-urbanisation is a new phenomenon with several benefits and potential problems for the whole nation.

Counter-urbanisation can bring positive effects on a country. Moving away from major cities can help to alleviate issues such as overcrowding, traffic congestion and pollution in those urban areas. What's more, it can even create opportunities for rural development as an increase in the rural population can encourage significant 2) ____ in businesses and infrastructure in the countryside.

However, counter-urbanisation has also brought challenges to rural areas in some cases. Many rural areas lack basic amenities such as medical 3) ____, schools and public transportation, making it difficult for newcomers to settle in. This puts a strain on rural infrastructure and services. At the same time, there is a real risk of environmental damage as more people move into previously undeveloped areas. Deforestation, pollution, and other environmental issues can arise as a result of increased human 4) ____ in these areas.

In conclusion, counter-urbanisation is a new trend that comes with advantages and disadvantages. Therefore, local governments and communities will need to work together to effectively manage public services, energy supplies and natural resources in order to promote economic 5) ____ and sustainable development.

PLANNING FOR TOMORROW

Urbanisation is happening at a rapid pace all over the world. Cities are growing, and increasing populations can have potentially negative effects. So, how can cities plan for such rapid growth?

One of the most important things for cities to do is to create a clear urbanisation plan. This means knowing exactly how many people they can accommodate, what infrastructure is needed, and how they will manage the growth. Another important aspect is to make sure that urbanisation includes everyone. This means that all city residents should have access to the same services and opportunities, regardless of their background. Cities need to invest in education, healthcare and public transport to ensure that everyone can benefit from the growth.

One of the biggest challenges is housing. With more people moving to cities, the demand for housing is high, and it can be hard to find affordable homes. Cities must make sure enough housing is available for everyone at a fair price. They can do this by investing in social housing, encouraging developers to build affordable homes, and providing financial support to encourage property owners to rent out accommodation at lower prices. Cities also need to think about the impact of urbanisation on the environment. With more people comes more pollution, and cities need to be active in reducing their carbon footprints. This means investing in renewable energy, promoting public transport, and encouraging people to cycle or walk instead of driving.

All in all, urbanisation can be a good thing for cities, but careful planning is essential. By managing the effects of urbanisation on residents and the planet, large cities can provide a high quality of life with a sustainable future.

Cities around the world are experiencing
 1) _____, which can have negative effects if not planned properly. To manage urban development, cities must establish a(n)
 2) _____ for urbanisation. This means understanding how many people can live in a city and what 3) _____ is required. Cities should also spend money on education, healthcare and public transport. To provide housing, cities can invest in social housing, encourage local development and give Artificial intelligence, or AI, is the development of computer systems that can carry out tasks that normally require human intelligence, such as interpretation and decision-making. Using complex mathematical rules called algorithms, AI enables machines to process large amounts of information and imitate real human brain functions. The amazing accuracy and efficiency of AI have resulted in its widespread use in a variety of areas, and there are already a number of different applications for the technology.

Nowadays, AI-powered robots are becoming increasingly common. Industrial robots, for instance, are widely used to perform tasks related to manufacturing like painting and product assembly. Experts have said that these robots are designed to work with a high level of accuracy and speed, which improves productivity in factories. There are also AI-equipped rescue robots that can be used to help save lives in emergency situations. These machines can make intelligent choices to avoid obstacles in dangerous environments. This makes them perfect for use in disaster zones.

At the same time, AI is also being used to power gadgets that help us in our daily lives. Private digital assistants, for example, can understand and respond to users' voice commands, which makes them useful for simple tasks like looking up information online and scheduling appointments. AI-powered navigation apps can use real-time data processing to help us find the quickest and most efficient routes to our destinations when we are travelling. A diet tracker is another type of AI application that can provide users with nutrition recommendations based on their specific needs. In this way, AI is changing our routines and personal habits.

AI is a rapidly developing technology that is not only transforming industries but also changing our daily lives and doing tasks that used to be considered impossible for machines. In the years to come, we can surely expect more innovative and amazing AI applications.

- 2  Read the text. For questions (1-4), choose the best answers (A, B, C or D).

- 1 According to paragraph 1, what can AI do?
A It can perform tasks that require it to make choices.
B It can produce complex mathematical rules.
C It can interpret real human brain functions.
D It can create applications for different technologies.

- 2 What does the word "them" in paragraph 2 refer to?

A choices B machines
C obstacles D environments

- 3 According to paragraph 3, which of the following is TRUE?

A Navigation apps can recognise human speech.
B Diet tracker apps can help users to search for different sources of information.
C Digital assistant apps can provide specific, personalised advice for individual users.
D Navigation apps can process and update information to provide the best directions.

- 4 What can be inferred from the last paragraph of the text?

A There is a limited number of AI applications in the present day.
B There will be more AI applications in daily life than in industries.
C Applications that make use of AI are being developed at a rapid pace.
D The next applications for AI technology are easy to predict.

VALUE ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Do you agree with the following statements? Why/Why not?

Artificial intelligence ...

- 1 can reduce human errors.
- 2 can replace humans in certain jobs.
- 3 can help people make better decisions.

Reported speech (statements & questions)

We use reported speech to report what someone said.

When we change direct speech to reported speech:

- For statements, use reporting verbs said/told to report what people said in the past.
Phoebe said to me, "I find AI very interesting."
→ Phoebe said/said to me/told me (that) she found AI very interesting.
- For Yes/No questions, use asked and if/whether to report questions.
"Have you ever used an AI app?" he asked me.
→ He asked me if/whether I had ever used an AI app.
- For Wh-questions, use the same question words as in the direct questions.
"Where did you download your navigation app from?" he asked me. → He asked me where I had downloaded my navigation app from.
- Change the subject pronouns, object pronouns, possessive adjectives and time words/expressions.
"I will show you how to use the digital assistant tomorrow," Joe said to me.
→ Joe said to me (that) he would show me how to use the digital assistant the following day.
- Change the verb tenses

Direct speech	Reported speech
Present Simple	→ Past Simple
Present Continuous	→ Past Continuous
Past Simple	→ Past Perfect
Present Perfect	→ Past Perfect
am/is/are + going to	→ was/were + going to will, can, may, must, have to	→ would, could, might, had to

We keep the verb tenses when:

- The reporting verb is in the present simple, future or present perfect tense. "I like AI apps," Jo says. → Jo says (that) he likes AI apps.
- The direct speech is in conditionals type 2 or type 3. Tom said to Mary, "If I were you, I would buy that speaking coach app." → Tom said to Mary (that) if he were her, he would buy that speaking coach app.

 Choose the correct option.

- Sebastian said that he _____ an interesting article about rescue robots the day before.
A would read B read
C has read D had read
- Tammy said that she was going to attend a seminar on AI technology _____.
A tomorrow B the next day
C the previous day D yesterday
- Greg asked Paul why he had deleted the diet tracker app _____.
A today B yesterday
C the day before D a day ago
- Amanda says that her factory _____ using manufacturing industrial robots next month.
A will start B had started
C would start D was starting
- Oliver asked me whether I _____ to the robotics convention that weekend.
A would go B went
C had gone D have gone

 Rewrite the sentences using reported speech.

- "I am working on a new navigation app," Tom said.
Tom _____.
- "I haven't installed my digital assistant yet," Jake said to me.
Jake _____.
- "If you could afford a domestic household robot, would you buy one?" Erica asked.
Erica _____.
- "Will you study robotics if you go to university next year?" I asked Allan.
I _____.
- "How has AI changed human society in the last decade?" they asked the scientist.
They _____.

You (Mary): "I downloaded an art generator app yesterday."

An: Mary said (that) she had downloaded an art generator app the day before.

Reported speech (orders, offers, advice, suggestions, etc.)

To report orders, offers, advice, suggestions, etc., we can use:

- reporting verb + (not) to-infinitive
offer, promise, refuse, threaten, etc.
"I'll help you download a navigation app," Ann said to me. → Ann offered to help me download a navigation app.
- reporting verb + object + (not) to-infinitive
tell, ask, order, request, advise, instruct, invite, remind, warn, encourage, persuade, etc.
"Don't touch the Mars rover," the guide said to the visitors. → The guide warned the visitors not to touch the Mars rover.
- reporting verb + that clause with should/subjunctive demand, recommend, suggest, propose, etc.
"We should read more reviews before buying the app," Ben said. → Ben recommended that we should read/read more reviews before buying the app.
- reporting verb + (object) + to-infinitive or that clause with should/subjunctive promise, demand, request, advise
"I will not touch the Mars rovers," the man said. → The man promised not to touch/ (that) he would not touch the Mars rovers.
She said, "You should use a diet tracker app." → She advised me to use/ (that) I (should) use a diet tracker app.
- reporting verb + -ing form or that clause with should/subjunctive suggest, recommend, propose, advise
He said, "We should do some research on AI." → He suggested/ advised doing/ (that) we (should) do some research on AI.

pp. 125-126

4 Choose the correct reporting verbs.

- 1 I reminded/promised/suggested/offered Paula to read about medical robots in her free time.
- 2 Dan asked/promised/instructed/ advised to help Margie set up her diet tracker app.
- 3 Eric persuaded/refused/warned/told to believe that humans had landed robots on Mars.

| 2 | digital assistant app |
| 3 | photo-editing app |
| 4 | diet tracker app |

- a It is free, but it sometimes gives the wrong answer.
- b It has issues with speed.
- c It is available for a limited time at no cost.
- d It isn't as good as other competitors.
- e It is very simple to use and it helps save a lot of time.

Summary completion

- Read the title of the summary for clues about what information might be in the recording.
- Read the summary and underline the key words.
- Guess the type of the missing word in each gap and try to guess the possible answers. This will help you focus on what to listen to in the recording.

2 Are you excited or concerned about the rapid rise of AI? Why? Tell your partner.

3 3.08 Listen to a man talking about the dangers of artificial intelligence. Complete the summary with NO MORE THAN TWO WORDS for each answer.

- Artificial intelligence has transformed our lives, but it also carries 1) _____ that we should keep in mind.
- The use of AI raises concerns about privacy, as it can collect and potentially misuse our 2) _____.
- Another worry is 3) _____ as people could lose their jobs because of automation.
- AI could also play a part in creating 4) _____ if the data it relies on is not accurate or biased towards certain groups.
- To avoid such unintended negative 5) _____, collaboration between governments, businesses and AI researchers is very important.

- 2 Activate/Hack it with your voice and it will follow your instructions.
- 3 Press/Type a word, a sentence or a paragraph you want to understand, then click 'Enter.'
- 4 Swipe/Enter your height and weight, the device will measure your health status.

Have you used any of the AI gadgets in Exercise 1a? If yes, what for?

Everyday English

Giving instructions

a) 3.10 Listen and read the dialogue. What does Laura want to do?

Laura: I've just got a new digital home assistant. Could you help me set it up?

Mark: Sure. First of all, connect this cable here to the assistant. Put it in the right socket.

Laura: OK, done. What's next?

Mark: Plug the other end into a power source and press the button on top of the device. It should light up.

Laura: There we go. It's on! And then?

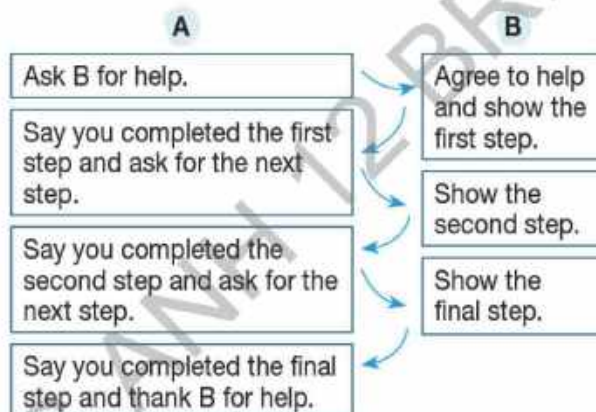

Mark: Put your device on the shelf and activate it with your voice.

Laura: It's working. Thanks, Mark.

b) Think Which of the sentences in the dialogue are used for giving instructions? Think of more similar sentences.

Act out a dialogue similar to the one in Exercise 3a. Use the diagram below. Mind the intonation and rhythm.

Pronunciation

Assimilation

In a sentence, assimilation happens when the ending sound (/s/, /z/, /t/ or /d/) of a word combines with the beginning sound /j/ of the next word to make a new single sound.

/s/ + /j/ = /ʃ/ They are releasing a new AI-powered app this year.

/z/ + /j/ = /ʒ/ Where's your dad going to buy a new digital home assistant from?

/t/ + /j/ = /tʃ/ Won't you help me to set up my new AI-powered diet tracker app?

/d/ + /j/ = /dʒ/ Would you like to own a robot that can do domestic household tasks for you?

3.11 Listen and repeat. Underline the assimilation sounds. Practise saying them.

- 1 When did you decide that you wanted to study robotics?
- 2 Is this your fitness tracker, Mike?
- 3 This article is the one that you might find interesting!
- 4 When's your AI project going to be finished?

A product review

- 1  Read the product review and label the paragraphs (1–4) with the headings (A–D).

1 ☐ There are a wide variety of chatbots that use artificial intelligence nowadays, but chatbot52 is certainly one of the most impressive. Many readers have suggested that we try this chatbot, and it's easy to see why: it offers a great all-round user experience.

2 ☐ Perhaps the best feature of chatbot52 is how user-friendly its dashboard is. This means that users can configure the chatbot quickly and begin working with it right away. Additionally, chatbot52's AI adapts well to most situations, providing quick responses and accurate information. It is also very adaptable as it is used on instant messaging and social media platforms.

3 ☐ Chatbot52 has two major drawbacks. One is that it has limited answer options. This means that there are some questions that chatbot52's AI algorithms cannot provide answers. Also, some users have complained that chatbot52's messages are too impersonal. Therefore, chatbot52 might not be the best option for complex questions that require personalised attention.

4 ☐ Overall, chatbot52 is an excellent choice due to its speed and accuracy. While some users reported issues when asking it more complex questions, this AI-powered chatbot is a reliable option that is highly recommended.

- A Positive points B Recommendation
C Introduction D Negative points

Descriptive language

When writing a product review, we should use a variety of adjectives/adverbs to make the review more interesting to the readers.

The latest device performs excellently in all situations.

- 2  Read the product review again and find adjectives/adverbs that describe the dashboard, configure, adapt, responses, information, answer options and messages.
- 3  Match the points (1–5) to their supporting ideas (a–e). Which are positive points and which are negative?

Fit-Life Tracker

- | | |
|----------------------------|---|
| 1 ☐ | It provides accurate fitness data. |
| 2 ☐ | It has a user-friendly interface. |
| 3 ☐ | Its strap is made of low-quality material. |
| 4 ☐ | It is difficult to sync with devices from other brands. |
| 5 ☐ | It comes with a range of fitness plans. |
- a It is only comfortable to wear for a short period of time.
- b Users can select a plan that best suits their needs.
- c Users can see their heart rate, the number of steps taken, distance travelled and calories burned.
- d It is only convenient to use with the appropriate accessories.
- e Navigation menus and progress tracking are simple.

Your turn

- 4 (PLANNING) You are going to write a product review about the AI-powered Fit-Life fitness tracker using the information in Exercise 3. Answer the questions.
- What product are you going to review?
 - What information will the review contain?
- 5 (WRITING) Write your product review (about 180–200 words).

Plan

- (Paragraph 1) introducing the product
(Paragraph 2) writing about positive points
(Paragraph 3) writing about negative points
(Paragraph 4) giving a recommendation

- 6 (CHECK/CORRECT) Check your product review for spelling/grammar mistakes. Then, in pairs, swap your product reviews and check each other's work.

THE POWER OF LIFELONG LEARNING

Lifelong learning is the ongoing process of acquiring new knowledge and skills throughout a person's life. Lifelong learners carry on their learning and personal development long after they have completed their formal education. In today's world, lifelong learning is more important than ever.

The importance of lifelong learning in the modern world is enormous. Today's job market is dynamic and fast-paced, so skills become outdated quickly. To compete for the best career opportunities, individuals must continuously develop themselves. It is considered that lifelong learning enhances the development of important skills and can help individuals to improve hard skills like language and soft skills, such as empathy. This makes them significantly adaptable to the needs of modern workplaces.

In addition, lifelong learning has significant benefits outside of the workplace. It can enable individuals to achieve personal fulfilment and satisfaction by allowing them to pursue their passions. It can also improve brain function and broaden their horizons by making them more open-minded. By continually learning and growing, they can develop their critical thinking skills and gain new insights into the world.

Thanks to the Internet and digital media, engaging in lifelong learning has never been easier with online courses, webinars, and workshops available on all kinds of topics. Many of the world's best educational institutions, such as Harvard, MIT, and Stanford, also offer a variety of online courses, providing access to high-quality education to people around the world. Online resources allow learners to acquire knowledge at their own pace, at a time and at a place that suits them.

In an ever-changing modern world, continuous personal development has become a crucial part of life. For lifelong learners, learning is not only a process but also a lifestyle choice. By committing to this approach, we can stay relevant in the workforce, follow our passions, and improve the overall quality of our lives.

- enormous • empathy • adaptable
- fulfilment • satisfaction • insight
- acquire • commit

p. 110

Sentence completion

- 2 Read the text. Complete the sentences with NO MORE THAN THREE WORDS for each answer.

- 1 Lifelong learners continue learning after their _____ has ended.
- 2 Continuous development is essential for people who want the _____.
- 3 When people _____, they feel happier and more content with their life choices.
- 4 Thanks to distance learning, more learners can study at high-quality _____.
- 5 People can create better lives by _____ lifelong learning.

Sentence correction

- Read the sentences and underline the key words.
- Read the text and locate the sentences in the text. Pay attention to the synonyms, similar words or paraphrased information.
- Find the incorrect information in each sentence and make corrections.

- 3 Read the text again and correct the sentences.

- 1 Skills always remain relevant in the modern job market.
- 2 Lifelong learning can make us unwilling to accept new ideas.
- 3 Due to digital media, lifelong learning is more complicated for people.
- 4 Online resources give learners a way to keep up with their classmates.
- 5 Continuous personal development is as important as it has always been.

Think In what other ways is lifelong learning important to you? How can it help you in your daily lives?

Vocabulary

Learning skills

- 5 a) 3.16 Fill in each gap with bookkeeping, critical, collaboration, adaptability, literacy or proficiency. Then listen and check.

HARD SKILLS VS. SOFT SKILLS

An important part of lifelong learning and professional development is acquiring useful skills. There are two main types of skills that one can learn: hard skills and soft skills.

Hard skills include technical skills learned through education or hands-on experience. Soft skills include personality traits that people have developed throughout their lives, which explain why people are motivated to do certain things.

Hard skills (learned abilities)	Soft skills (people skills)
A industry certification	G _____ thinking
B digital _____	H negotiating
C machine operation	I _____
D foreign language	J empathy
E _____	K _____ and
F troubleshooting	teamwork
	L decision-making

- b) What hard/soft skills have you got? Tell your partner.

- 6 Read the statements (1–10). Which of the skills (A–L) in Exercise 5a does each statement match?

- | | |
|----|---|
| 1 | "I can understand other people's perspectives." |
| 2 | "I'm good at reaching agreements in business." |
| 3 | "I have an official qualification in my line of work." |
| 4 | "I make good choices under pressure." |
| 5 | "I'm able to deal with many different situations." |
| 6 | "I'm good at keeping accurate financial records." |
| 7 | "I have learned to speak French fluently." |
| 8 | "I'm comfortable using technology to find the information I need." |
| 9 | "I work effectively with my colleagues to come up with creative solutions." |
| 10 | "I'm skilled at using industrial equipment." |

Lifelong learning habits

- 7 a) 3.17 Fill in each gap with discipline, high-volume, proactive, dedicated or curious. Then listen and check.

DO YOU THINK YOU ARE A DEDICATED LIFELONG LEARNER?

- Are you a 1) _____ individual who works hard to achieve your goals?
- Are you committed to self-development?
- Are you a 2) _____ mind that often asks questions?
- Are you someone that takes 3) _____ initiatives without needing encouragement?
- Do you have self-motivation and 4) _____ to continue learning day after day?
- Are you a 5) _____ reader who's capable of reading plenty of books a month?
- Are you a self-motivated learner that is always trying to perfect your skills?

So how many times did you answer 'YES'?

- 1-2 Lifelong learning doesn't excite you. Try starting with something you're already interested in!
- 3-4 You enjoy learning but it's not your passion. Pursue other things, just don't forget about your personal development!
- 5-7 You are definitely a dedicated learner and will certainly excel in the future! Keep up the good work!

- b) Think What lifelong learning habits have you got? Tell your partner.

VALUE LIFELONG LEARNING

Which of these do you agree with?
Can you think of other reasons?

Lifelong learning is valuable because it ...

- encourages personal development.
- makes people productive in their spare time.
- opens a wider range of career opportunities.

Phrasal verbs

- Phrasal verbs are made up of a verb and a particle or sometimes two particles that together have a new meaning.

make up (= invent) put up with (= tolerate)

- Many phrasal verbs are transitive (they need an object) or intransitive (they don't need an object). Three-part phrasal verbs are always transitive.

She switched off the light.

I can't put up with that loud noise any longer.

The plane took off on time.

- When transitive phrasal verbs are separable, the verb and particle(s) can be separated or stay together. There is no difference in meaning.

They turned the device off. OR

They turned off the device.

However, the verb and particle(s) must be separated when the object is a personal pronoun (me, you, him, us, etc).

How about the lights? – Jo turned them off.

- When transitive phrasal verbs are inseparable, the verb and particle(s) cannot be separated, even if the object is a personal pronoun. Three-part phrasal verbs are often inseparable.

Did you run across Joe at the seminar?

Did you run across him at the seminar?

I look forward to attending the seminar tomorrow.

Simple/Compound/Complex sentences

- A simple sentence consists of only one independent clause.
Jen enjoys learning new recipes.
- A compound sentence consists of two or more independent clauses. We use coordinating conjunctions (and, or, but, so, nor) to connect the clauses in a compound sentence. Sometimes paired conjunctions (not only ... but also, either ... or, neither ... nor) can also be used.
Robert wants to get some practical experience for his future job, so he is doing an internship in a firm.
- A complex sentence consists of one independent clause and at least one dependent clause. We use subordinating conjunctions (after, before, when, while, as soon as, if, because, although, unless, so that, etc.) to connect clauses in a complex sentence. Emma took notes on her laptop while she listened to the speaker at the seminar.

p. 126

5 Choose the correct option. Which are compound sentences (CP)? Which are complex sentences (CX)?

- 1 Either Dan will win the employee of the year award ___ Sarah will. CP
A and B or C both D neither
- 2 Jason has good negotiating skills, ___ he always represents his company to meet with clients.

- 6 Emma will attend a seminar on AI; or her boss will enrol her on an AI online course. (EITHER ... OR)
- 7 Tom has strong bookkeeping skills. He doesn't want to work as an accountant. (ALTHOUGH)

7 Write the second sentence so that it has the same meaning as the first one. Use the word in brackets.

- 1 Greg met his new boss for the first time while he was performing on-the-job training. (WHEN)

- 2 Despite having a lot of qualifications, Jake still likes learning new skills. (ALTHOUGH)

- 3 Rob enrolled on an online course because he wanted to learn at his own pace. (SO THAT)

- 4 Martha has backed up the e-books because her e-reader may get broken. (IN CASE)

- 5 Andy passed the learning course because he spent a lot of time studying. (SO)

8 Make sentences about your lifelong learning experiences, habits or goals, using the following conjunctions.

- so • not only ... but also • after • as soon as • unless • although • so that • if

I wanted to improve my computer skills, so I took an online course.

List selection

- Read the question and the list of answer choices carefully. Pay attention to how many answer choices you have to choose.
- Underline the key words in the question. Think of synonyms for the key words.
- Try to predict the possible answers.
- While listening, take notes on information and pay attention to the similar words/paraphrased information of the key words you have underlined.

1 Would you like to do a lifelong learning course? Why? Tell your partner.

2 a) 3.18 You are going to listen to a commentator talking about a learning course. Listen and answer the question.

Which TWO requirements are NOT needed to take part in the course?

- A a university degree
- B digital literacy

- C length
- D location
- E subjects
- F start date

3 Is learning an important part of your life? Tell your partner.

4 Think You are going to listen to a dialogue about lifelong learning. Read the questions (1–3) and answer choices. Underline the key words. Which of the answer choices do you think will be the right ones?

- Which of the following is NOT mentioned as an advantage of lifelong learning?
 - A better well-being
 - B greater life satisfaction
 - C improved social skills
 - D more meaningful connections
- What makes lifelong learning challenging?
 - A people are too busy to learn
 - B people find learning too much work
 - C people lose interest in learning
 - D people lack the dedication to keep learning
- What does lifelong learning require us to do?
 - A learn on our own
 - B change our interests
 - C view life in other ways
 - D spend time in a classroom

5 3.19 Listen to the dialogue. For questions (1–3), choose the best answers (A, B, C or D).

Giving opinions

- 2 a) 3.21 Listen and read the dialogue. What Jill and Sam are talking about?

Sam: I'll take an online course in graphic design in a lifelong learning programme this year.

Jill: Really? Why?

Sam: Well, I believe in the importance of lifelong learning, and to my way of thinking, this online course can help me develop key skills for my future career. Hey, maybe you should enrol, too!

Jill: I'm not sure about that. I agree with you that online learning is important, but I prefer classroom-based learning because, from my point of view, it is easier to concentrate in a classroom.

Sam: Maybe. However, I'll tell you what I think, the greatest advantage of online courses is that you can learn at your own pace.

Jill: I see your point, but they lack social interaction.

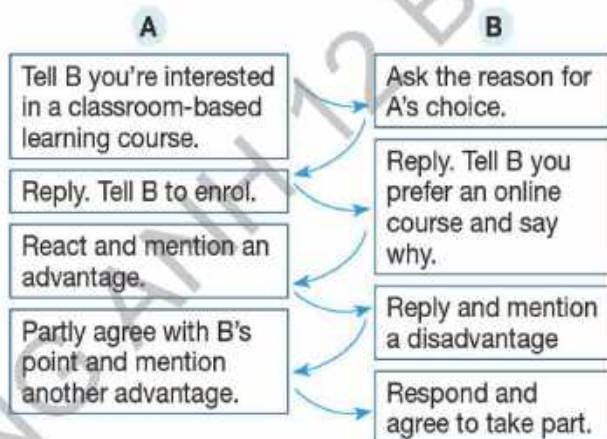

Sam: Perhaps, but you can enrol on courses that you can take wherever you are.

Jill: That's a good point. OK, I'll give it a try.

- b) Think Which of the underlined phrases/sentences in the dialogue are used for giving opinions?/responding to opinions? Think of more similar phrases/sentences.

- I am proficient in Spanish, so I always use _____ grammar when I _____ emails to my Spanish colleagues. (write, right)

An opinion essay

1 Read the essay. What is it about?

Should students do internships?

A Aren't internships worth the effort? This is a common question among students who want to take the first step on their preferred career path. In my opinion, students should do internships because of sufficient advantages that they offer.

B To begin with, internships help individuals to gain valuable practical experience and develop skills like problem-solving, teamwork, time management and organisational skills. In this way, they can give students a competitive advantage in the real world of experiences and provide important insights into what modern workplaces will be required of them.

C Additionally, internships offer excellent networking opportunities. This means interns can start to develop a reputation and make industry contacts that could later lead to lucrative job offers. For example, when companies hire students as interns, they give them the chance to build relationships with people in different positions at the workplace. This will later increase their chances of landing positions with several different companies.

D In conclusion, I believe doing internships is a great way for students to gain practical experience and the chance to make valuable connections. In the end, careers are not all about money. They are also about fulfilment, self-development and lifelong learning, and internships have something to offer in all of these aspects.

2 Read the essay again. Which paragraph in the essay in Exercise 1 ...

- contains the writer's first reason with justifications/examples? _____
- states the topic and writer's opinion? _____
- contains the writer's second reason with justifications/examples? _____
- restates the topic and writer's opinion? _____

We use writing techniques to start/end our essays to make them more interesting to the readers.

- a rhetorical question: Isn't lifelong learning worthy?
- a thought-provoking statement: Earning money is not the most important thing in the world.

3 Which writing techniques does the writer use to start/end their essay in Exercise 1? What effect does this have on the readers?

4 Match the reasons (1–2) to the justifications/examples (a–b).

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 | flexible study programme |
| 2 | cheaper to study via the Internet |
| a | don't need to buy textbooks, or pay for travel costs; materials are supplied online |
| b | can study anytime even when travelling |

AI Transforming Vietnam

 VIDEO

Artificial intelligence is rapidly gaining popularity in many countries, and Vietnam is one of the nations making the best use of AI. In Vietnam, Ho Chi Minh City is an example of how AI has been used efficiently. With its growing economy and population, the city is taking advantage of AI in order to improve the lives of its citizens.

In Ho Chi Minh City, AI is being used to handle citizens' complaints and suggestions in real time, in which the city government implementing an AI-powered chatbot to receive and process citizens' feedback round the clock. The chatbot can analyse data and provide real-time responses to citizens, helping the city to provide citizens with solutions to their problems in a fast, efficient manner.

Moreover, AI is being used to combat crime in Ho Chi Minh City. AI-powered smart cameras have been installed to monitor public areas and detect criminal activities. This system can recognise faces and match them with a database of criminals, making it easier for police to locate suspects. The cameras have already helped identify and arrest numerous criminals.

The city has also approved the use of AI-powered cameras to help manage traffic. With this technology, it's possible to track, analyse and control traffic on roads to improve the flow of vehicles. Additionally, the Department of Transport has proposed an AI application for the automatic identification of bus passengers, which can help make public transportation services more efficient to use.

Vietnam is making significant efforts to develop AI technology, and Ho Chi Minh City is a good example of this. From handling citizen complaints to combatting crime and improving public transport, AI is proving to be a valuable tool. As Vietnam continues to develop, this technology is sure to play an even more significant role in the country's future.

STUDENTS FOR LIFE

Helen Keller and Albert Einstein are two of history's most extraordinary individuals. Both overcame obstacles to achieve greatness and made significant contributions to society. What's more, both were lifelong learners.

• vision • blind • deaf • groundbreaking
• relativity • proof • desire

pp. 110-111

2 Read the text. Complete the table for questions (1-6). Write NO MORE THAN TWO WORDS AND/OR A NUMBER for each answer.

Name	Helen Keller	Albert Einstein
Education	Graduated from 1) _____	Received a 4) _____ in Physics from the University of Zurich
Achievement	Became the first blind and deaf person to obtain a 2) _____	Awarded the 5) _____ in Physics
Year of achievement	3) _____	6) _____

At the age of 19 months, Helen Keller lost her vision and hearing due to an illness, which made her learning extremely difficult. Luckily, at seven years old, she was introduced to Anne Sullivan, who became her lifelong teacher. With Sullivan's assistance, Keller learned to read and write using Braille. In 1904, she graduated from Radcliffe College with a BA in philosophy, with which she became the first blind and deaf person ever to obtain a college degree.

Unlike Helen Keller, Albert Einstein seriously struggled with his academic performance in his early life. After years of difficulty at school, however, he finally found his passion in science and mathematics. At 26 years old, he received a doctorate in physics from the University of Zurich. Then, Einstein started doing some of the most groundbreaking work in the history of the field, including his theory of relativity, which changed the field of physics forever and earned him the Nobel Prize in Physics in 1921.

Despite their incredible achievements, both Helen Keller and Albert Einstein remained lifelong learners. Keller continued reading and writing all her life and she published 12 fantastic books, including her inspirational autobiography, The Story of My Life. As for Einstein, after receiving his Nobel Prize, he continued researching new ideas and stayed active in the scientific community until he passed away in 1955. The lives of Keller and Einstein are proof of the importance and value of lifelong learning. Through their hard work and dedication, they showed that anyone can achieve greatness if they have a strong desire to learn.

3 Read the text again and answer the questions.

- Why did Helen Keller have difficulty learning at first?
- Why is Einstein an important figure in science?
- How are Helen Keller and Albert Einstein similar?

Lifelong learning is the continuous pursuit of knowledge and skills throughout a person's life. In today's world, where technology is evolving rapidly, lifelong learning is essential for both personal growth and career development. But just how does one go about becoming a lifelong learner?

The first step in becoming a lifelong learner is to develop a growth mindset. This means believing that your abilities can be developed through hard work, dedication and commitment. Embrace challenges, view mistakes as opportunities to learn, and be open to new ideas and perspectives. Adopting a growth mindset will help you approach learning with a positive attitude and a desire to improve.

Setting achievable goals is also an important part of lifelong learning. Goals give direction and motivation to your learning journey. First, identify areas of interest and choose specific skills or knowledge that you want to develop. Second, break your goals down into smaller, more manageable tasks and track your progress. Finally, celebrate your accomplishments along the way to stay motivated.

People learn in different ways, so it's also essential that you find the methods that work best for you. You can do this by trying out a variety of different learning methods, such as reading, watching videos, attending lectures and engaging in hands-on practice. At the same time, you should also experiment with different learning tools and techniques until you find what works best for you.

Becoming a lifelong learner is a continuous process that requires dedication and effort. Developing a growth mindset, setting achievable goals, and using a variety of learning methods are essential steps to becoming a successful lifelong learner. By embracing learning as a lifelong journey, you will continue to grow, develop new skills, and stay relevant in today's ever-changing world.

- 1 Lifelong learning is key to achieving _____ and developing a career.
- 2 Having a growth mindset is about working hard and having _____.
- 3 By turning a large goal into a series of _____, it is easier to keep track of progress.
- 4 It's advisable to _____ various tools and techniques to discover what produces the best learning results.
- 5 Lifelong learners have the skills and knowledge to _____ in a world that is always changing.

AI-Powered Entertainment

AI has revolutionised the entertainment industry in recent years, providing exciting new opportunities for creativity and innovation. The areas where AI is making waves are music, film and video games.

In music, AI algorithms can analyse vast amounts of data to identify patterns and create unique compositions. For example, AI technology has been used to generate completely new kinds of tunes that humans have never come up with. AI programmes can also learn from existing songs to create new ones that fit certain music 1) _____.

In the film industry, AI has been used to create stunning visual 2) _____ and improve the efficiency of production processes. For example, AI algorithms can analyse footage and automatically identify and remove errors. AI can also be used to create realistic digital environments and characters, allowing filmmakers to 3) _____ their visions to life in ways that were previously impossible.

Video games are where AI could make the biggest difference. AI algorithms can be used to generate new levels, characters and items in games, providing endless possibilities for players. Additionally, AI can be used to analyse players' 4) _____ and preferences, allowing game developers to create personalised experiences for each player.

There are some concerns about the use of AI in entertainment. Some fear that AI-generated content could lead to a lack of creativity and originality, for instance, and there is a risk that human creators will lose their jobs. However, most people agree the potential benefits of AI far outweigh these worries.

As technology continues to advance, we can expect to see even more innovative uses of AI in music, film, video games and other areas of entertainment. The key will be to find a 5) _____ between the benefits of AI and the potential risks, while continuing to push the limits of what is possible in the world of entertainment.

Linking verbs & Stative verbs

Linking verbs are verbs that link the subject to the complement and describe the subject.

Subject Linking verb Complement
My cousin is worried.

- The complement is usually an adjective (not an adverb) or a noun. My brother looks sad. (adjective)
My friend Paul is a student. (noun)
- Some common linking verbs are be, seem, become, get, remain, stay, look, taste, smell, sound, feel, etc.
- Some stative verbs are also linking verbs. Tina's mum seems stressed. (seem as a stative verb and linking verb)
- We often use to be after appear and seem. Isabel appeared to be a difficult girl.

Stative verbs are verbs that describe a state rather than an action and don't usually have continuous forms.

Ben likes to visit cultural attractions when he goes to a new place.

(NOT: Ben ~~is liking~~ to visit cultural attractions when he goes to a new place.)

Stative verbs include:

- verbs of perception (see, hear, feel, smell, taste, etc.). This soup tastes great.
- verbs which express feelings and emotions. (desire, enjoy, hate, like, love, prefer, want, etc.). She loves travelling.

- the names of musical instruments after the verb play (the piano, the trumpet).
- the name of ships (the Santa Maria), newspapers (the Times), cinemas/theatres (the Plaza), hotels (the Ritz), museums/art galleries (the Louvre).
- the names of families (the Browns) and some nationalities ending in -sh, -ch and -ese (the Dutch, the Chinese).
- titles (the King) when the person's name is not mentioned. (BUT: King Arthur)
- the words morning, afternoon and evening.
I get up at 6 o'clock in the morning every day.

We don't use articles (zero articles (–)) with:

- nouns that refer to something general.
The organisation tries to teach (–) people to conserve energy.
- uncountable and plural countable nouns when talking about something in general.
Leopards live in the wild.
- proper nouns (names of people, places, etc.).
This is John.
- the names of cities and most countries (Paris, France).
- the names of bridges (San Francisco Bridge), parks (Hyde Park), railway stations (King's Cross Station), mountains (Mount Everest), individual islands (Cyprus), lakes (Lake Superior), continents (Europe), streets (Moss Street), squares (Trafalgar Square). BUT: the M25 (national roads/motorways)
- the names of meals, games, sports or school subjects (breakfast, football).
- languages, unless they are followed by the word language. I am learning Chinese.
BUT: I am learning the Chinese language.
- the words this/that/these/those (this skirt, these books) (NOT: this the skirt).
- possessive adjectives. This is my bag.
- titles when the person's name is mentioned (Queen Elizabeth, President Obama).
- the words school, church, hospital, bed, prison, home, when we refer to the purpose for which they exist. Jane was in school. (She is a student there.) BUT: Mr Jones went to the school for parent-teacher night. (He's not a student.)
- by + means of transport (by car/bus/train).

Paired conjunctions

Paired conjunctions are words that always go together. They are used to connect words, phrases or independent clauses in a sentence.

- Some common paired conjunctions are both ... and, not only ... but also, either ... or, neither ... nor.
- We use parallel words/phrases with paired conjunctions.
The temple is both beautiful and historic. (beautiful, historic: adjectives)
We can either visit the waterfall or explore the valley. (visit the waterfall, explore the valley: verb phrases)

Grammar Reference

- When two subjects are joined by both ... and, the verb is always in the plural form.
Both the cave and the mountain are famous geographical features.
- When two subjects are joined by not only ... but also, either ... or, neither ... nor, the form of the verb will depend on the subject that is closer to it.
Not only Tom but also Joe is excited to visit Vietnam.
- Either Amy or Emma has a digital camera.
Neither Rob nor his friends are at the citadel at the moment.

Notes:

We can sometimes leave out also in the paired conjunction not only ... but also.

My parents not only nag me about chores, but make hard rules at home.

We can use not only at the beginning of a clause if we want to add emphasis. If so, we put the auxiliary verb/modal/to be before the subject.

Not only does Vietnam have beautiful mountains to visit, but also stunning bays.

Cleft sentences

We use cleft sentences when we want to put emphasis on certain information in the sentence.

The common cleft sentence is It-cleft.

It is/was + (emphasised information) + that ...

The tourist really enjoyed the two-day trip at Cúc Phương National Park last month.

- It was the tourist that really enjoyed the two-day trip at Cúc Phương National Park last month. (the tourist is emphasised.)
- It was the two-day trip at Cúc Phương National Park that the tourist really enjoyed last month. (the two-day trip at Cúc Phương National Park is emphasised.)
- It was last month that the tourist really enjoyed the two-day trip at Cúc Phương National Park. (last month is emphasised.)
- Andy always visits his hometown by coach. It is by coach that Andy always visits his hometown. (by coach is emphasised.)

When a plural subject is emphasised, It + be remains singular.

It's my parents that are interested in stone statues in the temples most.

(NOT ~~It are~~ my parents that interested in stone statues in the temples most.)

We can use who instead of that when a personal subject is emphasised.

It is Mark who/that want to visit the Complex of Huế Monuments.

Compound nouns

A compound noun is a noun made by combining two or more words together.

We can form compound nouns as follows:

- noun + noun lighthouse
- verb + noun skateboard
- adjective + noun hard drive
- phrasal verb used as noun check-out

A compound noun can be written as:

- one word housework, airport
- two words joined with a hyphen passer-by, self-control
- two or more separate words travel blog writer, outdoor camping gear

Pronunciation: In a compound noun, the primary stress usually falls on the first part.

LANDmark, RAILway

Future predictions (will / be going to / may / might / be likely to)

Use

- We use will when we make a prediction based on what we think, believe or imagine. We use will with the verbs think, believe, expect, hope, etc.

In the future, we will solve homelessness.

I think/believe that we will solve homelessness in the future.

- We use be going to when we make a prediction based on what we can see (evidence).

Look at the smoke coming from that factory. It is going to pollute the whole area.

- We use may/might when we want to make a prediction about a possibility.

We may/might all have smart mirrors in our homes in a few years. (But it isn't sure.)

- We use be likely to make a prediction about a weak possibility.

It is likely that vertical farms will become more common in the coming years.

Gerunds (-ing form)

A gerund is the -ing form of a verb that is used as a noun.

We use the gerund as a subject:

Using a nose spray can help with hay fever.

Washing your face daily prevents acne.

We use the gerund as an object:

- after certain verbs such as avoid, consider, dislike, forgive, imagine, involve, practise, suggest, mind, risk, recommend, deny, delay, postpone, etc.

Try to avoid spending too much time in the sun so you don't get sunburned.

- after verbs and prepositions such as agree with/to, apologise for, complain about, ask for, help with, laugh at, concentrate on, depend on, dream of, insist on, rely on, succeed in, focus on, carry on, keep on, etc.

Mark complained about feeling carsick on the way to the temple.

- after some phrases such as can't help, can't stand, spend (time), feel like, it's (not) worth, it's no use/good, look forward to, be busy, (be) get used to, have difficulty/trouble, have a good time, etc.

I look forward to playing football again after my sprained ankle heals.

- The verbs see, hear and watch are followed by an -ing form to describe an incomplete action (when we want to say that somebody saw/heard/watched part of the action).

I saw you meditating in your garden.
(= I saw part of the action.)

Questions tags

Question tags are short phrases added at the end of statements. They are used to check if something is true or not.

- If the statement is positive, we use a negative question tag. He's at the job centre, isn't he?
- If the statement is negative, we use a positive question tag. You don't have a smart mirror, do you?

We form a question tag with the correct form of to be/auxiliary verb/modal verb + subject pronoun.

She's volunteering to help the homeless, isn't she?

You haven't experienced extreme hunger, have you?

Ben and Tom can help us with our project on future cities, can't they?

If the statement doesn't have the verb to be, an auxiliary verb or a modal verb, we use don't and doesn't for the Present Simple and didn't for the Past Simple.

Luke watches documentaries about future technologies every day, doesn't he?

You told me what vertical farms are, didn't you?

In question tags, we use falling intonation (↘) when we are sure of the answer and rising intonation (↗) when we aren't sure and want to check the answer.

Greg is looking for a job, isn't he? (↘) (We are sure.)

They promised to build a new healthcare centre in the city, didn't they? (↗) (We are not sure.)

Some verbs/phrases form question tags differently.

- I am → aren't I? I'm creating an anti-racism campaign on social media, aren't I?
- Imperative → will you? Come and volunteer with us for the homeless shelter, will you? (an invitation)
- Imperative → won't you? Lend me that article about unemployment, won't you? (a polite request)
- Don't → will you? Don't forget to donate money to help fight disease, will you?
- Let's → shall we? Let's try to help people in need in our community, shall we?
- Have (got) possession → haven't + subject? You've (got) a drone, haven't you?
- A statement with negative words (never, none, nobody, no one, nothing, etc.) takes a positive question tag. He's never experienced racism, has he?
- there + be → be + there? There are lots of people suffering from diseases worldwide, aren't there?
- Nobody/No one → positive verb + they? Nobody complains about helping out at the community kitchen, do they?
- everyone, someone, anyone, these, those → verb + they? Everyone came to the charity event to help raise money for the homeless, didn't they?
- this, that, everything, something, nothing → verb + it? That's one of the causes of obesity, isn't it?

Participial phrases / to-infinitive clauses

- Participial phrases are groups of words that contain a participle (-ing form, -ed form or third form of a verb) and other words. They are used as adjectives to modify nouns.
- A participial phrase can be used to replace a relative clause.

RELATIVE CLAUSE	PARTICIPIAL PHRASE
PRESENT SIMPLE / PAST SIMPLE / FUTURE SIMPLE
The woman who works/worked at the gym is my fitness trainer.	The woman working at the gym is my fitness trainer.
The spray which is/was/will be given to me is for treating hay fever.	The spray given to me is for treating hay fever.
PRESENT CONTINUOUS / PAST CONTINUOUS
The boy who is meditating is my classmate.	The boy meditating is my classmate.
The bike which was being fixed is mine.	The bike being fixed was mine.
PRESENT PERFECT
The man who has sprained his ankle is my dad.	The man having sprained his ankle is my dad.
The toothbrush which has been left in the bathroom is mine.	The toothbrush having been left in the bathroom is mine.

- A to-infinitive clause can be used to replace a relative clause after the first, the second, the last, the only, the best, the most popular, etc.
Jason was the first person in our class who/that got sick this year. → Jason was the first person in our class to get sick this year.

Perfect gerunds / Perfect participles

Perfect gerunds

Form: having + past participle

We use perfect gerunds as objects after certain verbs or verbs and prepositions to indicate completed past actions and these actions happen before the ones by the main verbs.

Simon admitted not having flossed his teeth all week.

Perfect gerunds are used:

- after some verbs such as deny, admit, mention, recall, regret, remember, forget
I denied having used my phone before bedtime.
- after some verbs and prepositions such as apologise ... for, accuse ... of, admire ... for, blame ... for, congratulate ... on, praise ... for, thank ... for

James congratulated Joe on having improved his diet.

Perfect participles

Form: having + past participle

We use perfect participles to indicate an action completed and happened before another one in the past.

Having put on sunscreen, I went for a jog on the beach. (I put on sunscreen and then I went for a jog on the beach.)

Notes:

- The verbs must have the same subject.
- The perfect participles are put at the beginning of the sentences.

Modals (have to / must / should / ought to / had better)

We use must, have to, mustn't, don't have to with the bare infinitive to talk about necessity, obligation or a rule.

must – have to

- All patients must wait for their names to be called before entering the doctor's office. (It's a rule.)
- All hospital visitors have to wait for their name to be called before entering the doctor's office. (They are obliged to.)
- Tom has a head injury, so he must go to the hospital. (It's necessary. It's urgent and important.)
- Tom has a head injury, so he has to go to the hospital. (It's necessary.)
- I must stop eating junk food. (I believe it is necessary.)
- I have to stop eating junk food. (Someone else believes it is necessary.)

Grammar Reference

mustn't – don't have to

- We mustn't walk behind the reception desk at the clinic. (It's against the rules.)
- Patients mustn't enter this part of the hospital. (It's prohibited.)
- Tom doesn't have to attend the class because it's Sunday today. (It isn't necessary.)

Note: When we talk about the past, we use had to (NOT: ~~must~~).

I went to football practice yesterday but I had a sprained ankle, so I had to stop and go home. (NOT: ~~I must~~)

We use should (not), ought (not) to or had better (not) with the bare infinitive to give advice.

- We use should (not) and ought (not) to with the bare infinitive to give general advice or to say something is a good (bad) idea.
You should/ought to eat more vegetables. (to give general advice – It's a good idea.)
I really like my new gym. You should come with me sometime. (If you don't try it, it's no problem.)
You shouldn't/ought not to drink fizzy drinks. (to give general advice – It's not a good idea.)
- We use had better (not) with the bare infinitive to give specific advice or a warning.
You had better leave now or you will miss your doctor's appointment. (to give specific advice – It's a good idea.)
You had better not play football. Your sprained ankle is not healed yet. (If you do, your sprained ankle will get worse.)

Notes:

- Should (not) and ought (not) to have the same meaning but should (not) is more common.
- The contraction form of should not is shouldn't.
- The contraction form of had better is 'd better.

We form the Past Perfect with had + past participle of a verb.

Fiona had won several races before she became famous.

Use

We use the Past Perfect to talk about:

- an action that happened and completed before a specific time in the past.
I had sung in public by the age of 12.
- an action that happened before another action in the past. (We use the Past Perfect for an action that happened earlier and the Past Simple for the one that happened later.)
The sun had risen by the time we started the safari.

Grammar Reference

- We use the Past Perfect to talk about a complete past action that had visible results in the past.
Jenny was sad because she had lost the gold medal in the marathon.

Time words/phrases used with the Past Perfect:

Has he/she/it seen ...?	Yes, he/she/it has. No, he/she/it hasn't.
Have you seen ...?	Yes, I have. No, I haven't.
Have we/you/they seen ...?	Yes, you/we/they have. No, you/we/they haven't.

Use

The Present Perfect is used:

- for an action that started in the past and continues up to the present.
I have worked at this company for ten years.
- for a person's experience.
This is the first time I have been in a job interview.
- for a recent action that has a visible result in the present. She has received a promotion, so she is very happy.
- for an action that happened at an unstated time in the recent past.
They have started their own company. (When? We don't know?)
- for an action that has happened in a period of time but is not completed.
I have worked on my presentation a lot this week. It still isn't finished yet.

Time words used with the Present Perfect:

- already: I have already sent the job application. (= before now)
- yet: Has Susan finished the interview with the new candidate yet? (= so far) She hasn't finished the interview with the new candidate yet.
- just: Leo has just arrived at the office. (= a short time ago)
- ever: Have you ever been to the head office? (= at any time)
- never: Molly has never been to the headquarter in Spain (= at no time)
- so far: I have been to three interviews so far. What have you done so far? (= up till now)
- since: Mike has worked as a social worker since 2020. (= starting point of an action)
- for: I haven't seen Josh for three weeks. (= period of time)

Unit 3

Relative clauses

Relative clauses are dependent clauses that are used as adjectives to modify nouns. In relative clauses, we use relative pronouns who(m), which/that or whose and relative adverbs when, where or why to introduce relative clauses. The woman who lives next door to me is a newsreader.

- We use who/that to refer to people.
Paul is the boy who/that has his own podcast.

Grammar Reference

- We use which/that to refer to objects or animals.
Is this the flyer which/that you were talking about earlier?
- We use where/in which to refer to places.
This is the cinema where/in which we watched a great documentary last month.
- We use when/on which/in which/at which to refer to time.
Last Saturday was the day when/on which I listened to that radio show for the first time.
- We use why to refer to reasons.
False information is the reason why I don't believe news stories on social media.
- We use whose instead of possessive adjectives (my, your, his, etc.) with people, objects and animals to show possession.
 - a) That's the girl. Her social media channel has many subscribers.
That's the girl whose social media channel has many subscribers.
- We usually use whose to modify people, but we might also use it to modify things.
 - b) That's the movie. Its special effects were so amazing.
That's the movie whose special effects were so amazing.
- Who/Which/That can be omitted when they are the object of the relative clause.
That's the man who has a popular tech podcast. (subject)
That's the man who I heard on a popular tech podcast. (object)
That's the man (who) I heard on a popular tech podcast. (omission)
- A relative pronoun is not used with another pronoun (I, you, me, him, etc.).
 - a) I know a woman who is a TV presenter.
(NOT: I know a woman who she is a TV presenter.)
 - b) The article (that) I'm reading was published last week.
(NOT: The article (that) I'm reading it was published last week.)

There are two types of relative clauses: defining relative clauses and non-defining relative clauses.

- A defining relative clause gives necessary information and is essential to the meaning of the main sentence. The relative pronouns can be omitted when they are the object of the relative clause.

The movie got bad reviews. (Which movie? We don't know. The meaning of the sentence is not clear.)

The movie (which/that) came out last week got bad reviews. (Which movie? The one that came out last week.)

- A non-defining relative clause gives extra information and is not essential to the meaning of the main sentence. In non-defining relative clauses, the relative pronouns cannot be omitted and cannot be replaced by that. The relative clause is put between commas.
This magazine is an interesting read. It has a famous actor on the cover.
(The meaning of the sentence is clear.)
This magazine, which has a famous actor on the cover, is an interesting read.
(The relative clause gives extra information.)

Relative pronoun which referring to a whole sentence

A relative clause with which can sometimes be used to modify a whole sentence. It is informal and usually occurs in spoken English. In writing, the which clause is separated by a comma.

Jake always checks the sources of online news stories, which is a responsible thing to do. (The word which refers to the whole sentence Jake always checks the sources of online news stories.)

Double comparatives

We use the double comparatives to emphasise that a person/thing is constantly changing.

- short adj/adv-er and short adj/adv-er
These podcast episodes are getting longer and longer every week.
- more and more/less and less + long adj/adv
Online ads are getting more and more difficult to avoid.
- more and more/fewer and fewer/less and less + noun
Fewer and fewer people get their news from newspapers nowadays.

We can use comparatives with the ... the ... to say two things change together.

- the + comparative
The sooner, the better.

Grammar Reference

- the + comparative + subject + verb
The sooner you write the story, the faster we can publish it.
- the + comparative + noun + subject + verb
The more listeners you have, the more downloads your podcast will get.

Unit 4

Adverbial clauses

Adverbial clauses (or adverb clauses) are groups of words that function as adverbs to modify the main clauses of sentences. An adverbial clause is always a dependent clause. We can put an adverbial clause at the beginning or at the end of a sentence, depending on the focus.

Types of adverbial clauses:

- Adverbial clauses of purpose are used to explain why someone does something. They often start with in order that and so that. The word that in so that is often omitted, especially in speaking.
Jane arrived early in order that/so (that) she could help us put up decorations for the party.
- Adverbial clauses of result are used to express the result of an action or an event. They are often introduced with so/such ... that and so.
We were having such a good time at the New Year celebration that we didn't notice it was almost midnight.
- Adverbial clauses of reason are used to explain why something happens. They often start with because, now (that), since, as, for and seeing that.
The Brazilian eat 7 pomegranate seeds before midnight because the number 7 is considered lucky in their culture.
Because is more common than as and since. We use because when we want to focus on the reason while we often use as and since to focus more on the result than the reason.
Because I was ill, I could not attend my cousin's baby shower celebration.
I really hope that you will come to the party as I want to hear about your story.
- Adverbial clauses of concession are used to express contrast. They often start with though, although, even though and while.
The marriage ceremony went well even though it started a bit late.

- Adverbial clauses of condition are used to express a hypothesis or a condition. They often start with if, unless, as/so long as, provided that and in case.
I bought an extra ticket to the cultural festival in case my friend Pete wanted to go.
- Adverbial clauses of comparison are used to compare two things or ideas. They are often introduced with as or than and typically include comparative adjectives or adverbs.
Ann's baby shower this year isn't as enjoyable as it was last year.
The Songkran this year is more crowded than the one we attended last year.
- Adverbial clauses of manner are used to express the way in which something is said/done. They often start with as and as if/as though.
When we talk about things that we know are not true, we can use the Past Tense with a present meaning.
Steven talks as if he knows everyone at the wedding party. (Perhaps he does.)
Luke acts as if he attended this festival before. (But he didn't.)
- Adverbial clauses of time are used to express the time when an action takes place. They often start with before, after, when, while, until and as soon as.
We didn't light the birthday candles until Harry had entered the room.

Unit 5

Verbs with prepositions

Many verbs in English require a certain preposition before their objects.

• agree, provide, deal, cope, argue, discuss, help, confuse, etc.	with	object
• wait, apologise, prepare, thank, apply, pay, pray, care, vote, blame, fight, forgive, hope, etc.	for
• protect, suffer, prevent, rescue, escape, graduate, recover, etc.	from
• believe, succeed, participate, involve, specialise, arrive (a large area), invest, result, etc.	in

Grammar Reference

• approve, dream, think, smell, beware, remind, consist, etc.	of	object
• agree, depend, concentrate, rely, focus, base, insist, etc.	on
• refer, belong, relate, add, explain, listen, introduce, respond, object, contribute, subscribe, etc.	to
• complain, think, talk, argue, worry, care, concern, write, dream, forget, etc.	about
• laugh, look, smile, arrive (a small place), shout, point, etc.	at

Urban residents often have to deal with air pollution. Some verbs (provide, protect, prevent, remind, involve, base, etc.) need a direct object before the preposition. This city reminds me of my hometown.

Causatives: HAVE and GET

We use causatives to mention that someone causes another person to do something.

- We use active causatives when we want to focus on the person who does the action.
have + object (person) + infinitive without to
get + object (person) + to-infinitive
The city government had a construction company build a new high-rise building.
The city government got a construction company to build a new high-rise building.
- We use passive causatives when we don't want to focus on the person who does the action.
have/get + object (thing) + past participle (+ by + object)
The apartment building manager had/got the heating system fixed (by a plumber).
We can use this structure to say that something happens to someone or their belongings.
Susan had his motorbike stolen. (Susan's motorbike was stolen; someone stole her motorbike.)

Unit 6

Conditionals – type 1

Form

if-clause	Main clause
If + present simple	will/can/must/etc. + bare infinitive or imperative
If you switch to green energy, you will reduce gas emissions. If you install solar panels in your homes, you can avoid using fossil fuels for energy. If you want to save the environment, you must take action.

Use

- We use conditional type 1 to talk about a real or very probable situation in the present or future.
If we start using wind energy, we will save money on electricity.
- We can use unless instead of if ... not in the if-clause. The verb is always in the affirmative after unless.
If we start using wind energy, we will save money on electricity.
Unless we start using wind energy, we won't save money on electricity.
- We use in case to talk about things we should do to be prepared or ready for possible future situations.

Conditionals – type 2

Form

if-clause	Main clause
If + past simple	would/could/might + bare infinitive
If we had an electric car, we could travel using green energy. (But we didn't have an electric car and we can't travel using green energy.)

Use

- We use conditional type 2 to talk about an imaginary situation contrary to facts in the present.
If I had enough money, I would buy solar panels for my home. (I don't have enough money right now.)

Grammar Reference

- We also use conditional type 2 to give advice.
If I were you, I would install solar panels on the house rooftop to reduce my carbon footprint. (advice)
- We use were for both singular and plural subjects. However, we can sometimes use was (with I, he, she, it) in informal speech.
If Mary were/was a mayor, she would invest more money in green energy.

Conditionals – type 3

Form

if-clause	Main clause
If + past perfect	would/wouldn't + have + past participle

Use

- We use conditional type 3 to talk about unreal or imaginary situations in the past.
If the city had switched to wind power last year, there would have been fewer greenhouse emissions. (The city didn't switch to wind power last year, so there were more greenhouse emissions.)
- We also use conditional type 3 to express regrets or criticism.
If they had maintained the wind turbines properly, they wouldn't have stopped working.

Unit 7

Reported speech

Direct speech is the exact words someone used. We use quotation marks in direct speech.

"I won't let you use my AI app," he said.

Reported speech is the exact meaning of what someone said, but not the exact words. We do not use quotation marks in reported speech. The word that can either be used or omitted after the reporting verb (say, tell, etc.).

He said (that) she wouldn't let me use his AI app.
say – tell

- Say is used with or without a personal object. When used with a personal object, it is always followed by a preposition to (said to me).
Direct speech: John said, "I'm using a diet tracker app."
Reported speech: John said (that) he was using a diet tracker app.

Direct speech: Fiona said to me, "You will enjoy the talk about AI gadgets."

Reported speech: Fiona said to me (that) I would enjoy the talk about AI gadgets.

- Tell is always followed by a personal object (told me).

Direct speech: Chris told me, "I'm interested in AI apps."

Reported speech: Chris told me (that) he was interested in AI apps.

- When we change direct speech to reported speech, the tense of the verb normally change.

DIRECT SPEECH	REPORTED SPEECH
Present Simple He said, "I enjoy documentaries about AI-powered robots."	Past Simple He said (that) he enjoyed documentaries about AI-powered robots.
Present Continuous He said, "He 's using a language translator app."	Past Continuous He said (that) he was using a language translator app.
Past Simple Tom said, "We did the presentation on AI apps very well."	Past Perfect Tom said (that) they had done the presentation on AI apps very well.
Present Perfect Mia said, "I have not tried a language translator app before."	Past Perfect Mia said (that) she had not tried a language translator app before.
will He said, "They will buy an AI fitness tracker app."	would He said (that) they would buy an AI fitness tracker app.
am/is/are + going to She said, "I am going to finish my project on industrial robots tonight."	was/were + going to She said (that) she was going to finish her project on industrial robots that night.
can, may, must, have to He said, "I may get a household robot soon."	could, might, had to He said (that) he might get a household robot soon.

- personal/possessive pronouns and possessive adjectives change according to the meaning of the sentence.
Jack said, "I'm updating my digital home assistant." → Jack said (that) he was updating his digital home assistant.

Grammar Reference

Personal subject pronouns:

I → he/she; we → they

Personal object pronouns:

me → him/her; us → them

Possessive adjectives:

my → his/her; our → their you/your changes according to the person it refers to in the direct speech.

- Certain words and time phrases change according to their meaning, as follows:

yesterday	→ the day before/the previous day ago	→ before
last week/month/year	→ the previous week/month/year
now/at the moment	→ then
today/tonight	→ that day/that night
this morning/ evening, etc.	→ that morning/ evening, etc.
tomorrow	→ the next day/ the following day
next week/month, etc.	→ the following week/ month, etc.
this week	→ that week
here	→ there
this/these	→ that/those

- The verb tenses remain the same in reported speech when the reporting verb is in the present, future or present perfect.
Joe says, "I have a new fitness tracker."
→ Joe says (that) he has a new fitness tracker.
- The verb tenses can either change or remain the same in reported speech when reporting a general truth.
Ms Smith said, "AI means 'Artificial Intelligence'."
→ The teacher said (that) AI means/meant 'Artificial Intelligence'.
- We keep the verb tense when the direct speech is in conditionals type 2 or type 3.
"You would have finished the project more quickly if you had used an AI app," Kate said to me. → Kate said that I would have finished the project more quickly if I had used an AI app.

Reported questions

Reported questions are usually introduced with the verbs ask, inquire, wonder and the expression want to know.

- When the direct question begins with an auxiliary (be, do, have), or a modal verb (can, may, etc.), then the reported question is introduced with if or whether.

Direct speech: "Will you buy that fitness tracker app?" Susan asked me.

Reported question: Susan asked me if/whether I would buy that fitness tracker app.

- When the direct question begins with a question word (who, where, how, when, what, etc.), the reported question is introduced with the same question word.

Direct speech: "Why do you want to write about AI gadgets?" John asked Lona.

Reported question: John asked Lona why she wanted to write about AI gadgets.

- In reported questions, the verb is in the form of a statement. The verb tenses, pronouns and time phrases change as in statements.

Direct speech: "Can I see your speaking coach app, please?" Phoebe asked Mike Reported question: Phoebe asked Mike if she could see his speaking coach app.

Reported speech (orders, offers, advice, invitations, instructions, suggestions, etc.)

To report orders, requests, offers, advice, invitations, instructions, promises, suggestions, etc., we can use:

- reporting verb + (not) to-infinitive
offer, promise, refuse, threaten, etc.
"I'll show you how to use this app," Glen said to me. → Glen offered to show me how to use that app.
- reporting verb + object + (not) to-infinitive
tell, ask, order, request, advise, instruct, invite, remind, warn, encourage, persuade, etc.
"Don't forget to check your fitness tracker," Dan said to me. → Dan reminded me to check my fitness tracker.
- reporting verb + that clause with should/subjunctive demand, recommend, suggest, propose, insist, etc.
"Let's do a project on robotic surgery," Luke said to me. → Luke suggested that we should do/do a project on robotic surgery.

Grammar Reference

- reporting verb + (object) + to-infinitive or that clause with *should/subjunctive promise, demand, request, advise
"I won't use your speaking coach app without asking," Laura said to Jen. → Laura promised not to use/(that) she would not use Jen's speaking coach app without asking.
They said, "You should try using a navigation app to help you get around the city." → They advised me to use/(that) I (should) use a navigation app to help me get around the city.
- reporting verb + -ing form or that clause with *should/subjunctive suggest, recommend, propose, advise
He said, "We should build a robot." → She suggested building/(that) we (should) build a robot.

Unit 8

Phrasal verbs

- Phrasal verbs are made up of a verb and a particles or sometimes two particles that together have a new meaning.
run across (meet someone/find something by chance) look up to (admire or respect somebody)
- Many phrasal verbs are transitive (they need an object) or intransitive (they don't need an object). Three-part phrasal verbs are always transitive.
He turned off the PC.
I can't back up my files at the moment.
- When transitive phrasal verbs are separable, the verb and particle(s) can be separated or stay together. There is no difference in meaning.
They switched the fitness tracker app off. OR
They switched off the fitness tracker app.
However, separable verbs must be separated when the object is a personal pronoun (me, you, him, us, etc.)
What about your project on AI? – I've put it off until tomorrow.
- When transitive phrasal verbs are inseparable, the verb and particle(s) cannot be separated, even the object is a personal pronoun. Three-part phrasal verbs are often inseparable.
Did you run across Tom at the AI convention?
Did you run across him at the AI convention?
(NOT: ~~run him across~~)

Did Jeff drop out of university to work with AI apps?

Two-part phrasal verbs:

- Transitive and separable: put on, give away, give out, turn on, turn off, back up, fill up, fill out, make up, drop off
- Transitive and inseparable: cook after, take up, hang out, run across, fit in, come along, get on
- Intransitive: take off, back off, come out, hang on, keep back, break down, keep on, get away

Three-part phrasal verbs:

- Transitive and separable: put up to
- Transitive and inseparable: look forward to, keep up with, put up with, run out of, go along with, go in for, come up with, come down with, look up to, look down to, make up for

Simple / Compound / Complex sentences

- A simple sentence consists of only one independent clause.
Mike has a strong interest in AI technology.
- A compound sentence consists of two or more independent clauses. We use coordinating conjunctions (and, or, but, so, nor) to connect the clauses in a compound sentence. Sometimes paired conjunctions (not only ... but also, either ... or, neither ... nor) can also be used.
Sarah wants to buy a fitness tracker app, but she doesn't have enough money yet.
- A complex sentence consists of one independent clause and at least one dependent clause. We use subordinating conjunctions (after, before, when, while, as soon as, if, because, although, unless, so that, etc.) to connect clauses in a complex sentence.
Greg was listening to a podcast about AI when his friend Noah came.

Rules of Punctuation

Capital letters

A capital letter is used:

- to begin a sentence.
It is hot today.
 - for days of the week, months and public holidays.
Sunday, July, May Day, Bank Holiday, etc.
 - for names of people and places.
This is Marie and she's from Paris.
 - for people's titles.
Mr and Mrs Smith, Dr Sanders, Prince Harry, etc.
 - for nationalities and languages.
She is Italian.
Can you speak Chinese?
- Note: The personal pronoun I is always a capital letter. Ben and I are cousins.

Full stop (.)

A full stop is used to end a sentence that is not a question or an exclamation.

Leo is away on holiday. He's in Rome.

Comma (,)

A comma is used:

- to separate words in a list.
There's lettuce, tomatoes, eggs and cheese in the salad.
 - after certain joining words/transitional phrases (e.g. in addition to this, moreover, for example, however, in conclusion, etc.).
For example, I like swimming and kayaking.
 - when a complex sentence begins with an if-clause or other dependent clauses.
If Stephen isn't there, leave a message for him.
- Note: No comma is used, however, when they follow the main clause.
Leave a message for Stephen if he isn't there.- after the words asked, said, etc. when followed by direct speech.
David said, "It was nice to see you again."

Question mark (?)

A question mark is used to end a direct question.

What time does her flight land?

Exclamation mark (!)

An exclamation mark is used to end an exclamatory sentence (i.e. a sentence showing admiration, surprise, joy, anger, etc.).

You're so funny!
What a nice day!

Quotation marks (' ' " ")

- Single quotes are used when you are quoting someone in direct speech (nested quotes).
"She got up, shouted 'I'm late' and ran out of the room," Adam said.
- Double quotes are used in direct speech to report the exact words someone said.
"Evita called you," Lucy told me.

Colon (:

A colon is used to introduce a list.

To make an omelette, we need the following: eggs, milk, cheese, salt and pepper.

Brackets ()

Brackets are used to separate extra information from the rest of the sentence.

The Taj Mahal (built between 1631 and 1648) is an amazing place to visit.

Apostrophe (')

An apostrophe is used:

- in short forms to show that one or more letters or numbers have been left out.
She's (= she is) cooking dinner.
This shop opened in '89. (= 1989)
- before or after the possessive -s to show ownership or the relationship between people.
Rob's dog, my mum's brother (singular noun + 's)
the twins' parents (plural noun + 's) the children's toys (irregular plural + 's)
